MUST CHOOSE PEACE AS IT EXISTS OR A CHANGE IN POLICY BACKED BY AN 'INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT'

Business Development Will Either Continue or Face New and Changed Conditions.

AMERICANS ARE TO DECIDE

President Wilson Sums Up His Idea of the Issues to be Fought in the Campaign.

HEARD BY PENNSYLVANIANS

Discusses Attitude of Republicans Toward Peace and War.

Long Branch, N. J., October 14.—In a speech before a large delegation of Pennsylvania Democrats, who came here with bands playing and banners flying, President Wilson declared today that while it is for peace, "America is always ready to fight for things that are American." He summed up his idea of the issues of the present campaign in these words:

"America knows that it is faced with this choice: Peace, the continuance of the development of business along the lines which it has now established and developed and the maintenance of well-known progressive lines of action on the one hand; or, on the other, a disturbance of policy all along the line, new conditions, new adjustments, undefined alterations of policy, and back of it all invisible government."

Attitude of Republicans.

The President discussed what he declared was the attitude toward war and peace of different elements of the Republican party.

"I understand from the leaders of the Republican party that nothing has been done right," he said. "They do not say that the thing done was always wrong but the way in which it was done was always wrong. They do not venture to say, that is, the private counsel does not venture to say, that we wanted anything but peace, but they have preferred some other way not disclosed, of obtaining peace. The vocal part says: 'We wanted war.' The silent part intimates that we wanted peace but wanted another kind of peace. They can never get over that fundamental uneasiness, gentlemen, that America is in charge of somebody else than themselves. But America knows that the things that were done did obtain peace and it does not know that the things that might have been done would have obtained peace."

Foreign Relations Hindered.

Mr. Wilson reiterated previous declarations that it is almost impossible to do anything in the field of foreign affairs because foreign nations have been led to develop that dominant element in the Republican party is in favor of drawing the United States into the European war and they have been told, with abundant evidence, that it is probable that if the Republicans succeed, we shall enter upon a policy of exploitation of our neighbors in Mexico.

Continuing his discussion of the foreign affairs of the nation, Mr. Wilson declared that although the leaders of the Republican party demanded that the rights of Americans be protected everywhere, on one occasion "the Republican machine was able to compel a majority of its members in the House of Representatives to vote that American citizens had no right to travel on the high seas." He added:

"If their leaders believe in the rights of American citizens, why don't their followers? If their leaders are so stiff to see that Americans get their rights everywhere, why do these men vote that Americans shall get their rights no where? One of the most regrettable incidents of American history is that there should have been found men in the Congress of the United States willing to vote in that sense."

Mr. Wilson reiterated his advocacy of a league of nations to preserve the peace of the world and attacked the leaders of the Progressive party, who, he said, had betrayed the rank and file.

He also declared that the selection of a Congress is just as important as the election of a President because the "real source of action and the real machinery of obstruction is in Congress."

He asserted that the forces of reaction are in control of the Republicans in Congress.

Vance C. McCormick, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, presided at the meeting, and A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania, introduced Mr. Wilson. The delegation, which came here on eight special trains, constituted the largest audience which has heard the President spea kat Shadow Lawn. After the speech the President shook hands with everybody present.

President Wilson in his speech here today said in part:

"I need not tell you that I am glad

Republicans At A Standstill While Wilson Is Going Ahead Slowly Says New York Herald

Political Poll This Morning Gives Hughes Plurality of Only 4,926 Out of 107,403 "Straw Votes"—Margin of Safety for Republican Ticket Has Narrowed Considerably Since Anti-Wilson Paper's Canvass Started—Illinois Wavering.

New York, Oct. 14.—The New York Herald's great political poll with reference to the coming presidential election, to be published tomorrow morning, says:

(Copyrighted, 1916, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved).

Charles E. Hughes maintains a slender lead in the race for the presidency. President Wilson has made slight gains. The margin of safety for the Republican ticket has narrowed considerably since the Herald's canvass started, but the indications as shown by the 107,403 straw votes are that if an election were held today the normal Republican strongholds would roll up pluralities just large enough to give Mr. Hughes a majority in the Electoral College.

The changes during the last week were less marked than during the previous week. From all that can be gleaned at this time the Republicans are at a standstill and President Wilson is going ahead slowly. The race is a close one. Nowhere is there a suggestion of a landslide or anything approaching it.

The Pivotal States.

Conditions are such that it would be hazardous now, with the straw vote campaign incomplete, to make a definite prediction. There are many indications that the mountainous Republican pluralities of the McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft years are dangerously threatened. On the other hand, the President is holding his own with ease in the strictly Democratic territory and is apparently certain to get such states as Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri and Oklahoma, in each of which the Republicans believed a short time ago they had a fighting chance or considerably better. The states of New York, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana will beyond all question decide the election. Any one of them may.

Illinois Begins to Waver.

The straw votes and the inquiries made by correspondents for The Herald indicate at this writing that Mr. Hughes has the better of the situation in New York, Illinois and Indiana, and it is a "toss-up" in Ohio. All the states mentioned are in doubt. Illinois, which was presumed by the Republicans to be overwhelmingly Republican, and conceded by the Democrats to be very likely to go strongly for Hughes and Fairbanks, has begun to waver.

The Women for Wilson.

The women, so far as the straw vote discloses, favor the President because of his peace programme. The male element of the electorate is in a large majority for the Republican ticket, but the attitude of the women voters, of whom there are a half million, injects a distinct note of uncertainty in the situation there.

New York perhaps enjoys the spotlight more than any other state. Conditions there remain about the same as last week. The President, from present straw vote indications, will have a small plurality—small by comparison—in New York City, and Mr. Hughes will have a small—also by comparison—plurality up-state and calculations made from the 18,058 straw votes taken throughout the state indicate that Mr. Hughes will have the 45 electoral votes of this perhaps vital commonwealth.

Hughes Plurality 4,926.

In the totes of 107,403 votes taken to date, Mr. Hughes has a plurality over the President of 4,926. In the 35 states which figure, Mr. Hughes has a majority in 13 and the President in 17.

The Hughes "straw vote" states are New Jersey, Delaware, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota, Oregon, Wyoming, California, Nevada and New Mexico.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA OFFER OBJECTIONS

Dislike Idea of Concessions to Americans for Railway and Canal Building in China.

LODGE FORMAL PROTESTS

Will Probably Not be the Subject of Diplomatic Exchanges in the Immediate Future—Washington's View.

Peking, Oct. 14.—Japan and Russia entered protests today against concessions for railway and canal construction in China which have been granted to Americans.

Prince Nicholas Doudacheff, the Russian minister to China, lodged a protest at the Chinese foreign office against the proposed American railroad from Feng-Cheng, Shansi province, to Lanchow-Fu, in Kansu province, alleging that the Chinese minister in Petrograd promised verbally 18 years ago that Russia should nave the privilege of building railways in the vicinity of Mongolia.

Baron Gonsuke Hayashi, the Japanese minister to China, protested against the agreement for the reconstruction of 200 miles of the Grand Canal in Shantung province. The Japanese claim by reason of their conquest of the province of Shantung all the rights heretofore held by Germany in the development of that Chinese province are annulled. The Chinese government contends that Germany must be defeated before such a claim will hold good.

GOVERNMENT HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH THE CONTRACTS

Washington, Oct. 14.—Japanese and Russian protests against the latest American railway enterprise in China may become a diplomatic subject eventually but there is no immediate prospect of the government becoming concerned unless the American interests affected should ask for aid or contend

DEPUTIES REJECT DIVORCE PROPOSAL

Lower House of Episcopal Convention Disposes of a Most Important Question.

DEBATE LASTED SIX HOURS

Action Places Further Consideration of Proposal in Abeyance for at Least Three Years—Bishops to Vote Tuesday.

St. Louis, Oct. 14.—Objection was at times bordering on defense, and resulted in the rejection by the House of Deputies of the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church here today of the proposal to embody in its canons a provision forbidding its clergymen to solemnize marriages for a person divorced from a living spouse.

The question was regarded as one of the most important before the convention and the six hours debate which preceded the action indicated wide difference of opinion among members of the church. The recommendation was contained in the report of a joint committee, composed of five bishops, five clergymen and five laymen appointed three years ago to study matters relating to matrimony. By its action today the lower house of the convention placed in abeyance for at least three years further consideration of any such amendment, the present canon being retained.

This provides that a clergyman of the church may re-marry the "innocent party" to a divorce granted on statutory grounds.

The proposal, however, is pending in the House of Bishops, the upper house, and will be brought to a vote next Tuesday. Such action will be merely for the purpose of indicating the attitude of the bishops, for no change in the canons can be made without concurrence of both houses.

Balloting on the amendment was by dioceses and the line between the clerical and lay delegates was clear cut.

ALLIES REITERATE RIGHT TO HOLD UP MAIL OF NEUTRALS

They Promise United States to Remedy "Any Faults, Abuses or Serious Mistakes."

JOINT NOTE MADE PUBLIC

Declares the American Charge of Illegal Jurisdiction is Unjustified by the Facts.

Washington, Oct. 14.—In their latest reply to American protests against interferences with neutral mails, made public tonight by the State Department, the allied governments reiterate their right to intercept and search all genuine mail found on neutral vessels on the high seas or in allied ports but they promise to remedy "any faults, abuses or serious mistakes" in censorship that may be brought to their attention. They declare unjustified by facts the American charge that illegal jurisdiction has been gained by diversion of neutral ships from the high seas into the territorial waters of the Allies. The next move of the American government has not been determined.

Only "Radical Change" Satisfactory

The note, transmitted jointly by the British and French governments, was delivered to the State Department by the embassies last Thursday but was not made public until tonight by agreement of the governments concerned. It makes reply to Secretary Lansing's memorandum of May 24 in which the United States declared the Allies had been guilty of "lawless practices" in their mail censorship methods and that "only a radical change, restoring to the United States its full rights as a neutral power, will satisfy this government."

Hague Agreement Not Binding.

The Allies maintain they "are sincerely endeavoring to avoid any encroachment on the legitimate exercise of the rights of inoffensive neutral commerce," and suggest that The Hague convention quoted in the American memorandum is not binding because it has not been ratified by several belligerent powers, though the allied policy has been guided by the intentions it expresses.

The note is nearly 5,000 words in length. It argues that the United States and the Allies agree that the postal packages may be examined to see if they contain contraband. That being so, the note contends it is necessary to open postal bags and examination cannot take place at sea without delay and inconvenience. Arrangements now have been made to carry on the examination with the least possible delay and to forward innocent articles to the destination.

Refers to Historic Incidents.

The note says the Allies cannot abandon ntheir right to prevent the fraududon their right to prevent the fraudufor belligerent purposes. The case of the "Atlanta" is cited to show information can be as useful a means of war as ammunition and the note says information as to the military operations and enemy plots in neutral countries, especially the United States, has been discovered in this way.

President Lincoln's proclamation of May 12, 1862, which declared things and information as equally contraband of war is cited, as is the fact that intercepted enemy correspondence was used in the United States courts during the Civil War and laid before Congress.

The contention of the United States, the note argues, that money order lists should be classed as genuine mail and not as merchandise does not take into consideration that such lists sent from the United States to Germany and Austria by mail correspond to money deposited in this country as they serve as a notification to postal authorities of the Teutonic Powers to pay out the amounts indicated, increasing the financial resistance of the Allies' enemies.

Says Charge Not Justified.

Reply to Secretary Lansing's declaration that the Allies compel neutral ships without just cause to enter their own ports, "thus acquiring by force or unjustifiable means an illegal jurisdiction," the note says:

"The allied governments have never differentiated between their treatment of mails on board a neutral vessel on the high seas and those on board a neutral vessel compulsorily diverted to an allied port. They have always recognized that visit carried out in a port to which a vessel has been compulsorily diverted must in this respect be assimilated to visit on the high seas and the criticism put forward by the United States government does not therefore appear to them to be justified."

The note also defends the practice of exercising jurisdiction and the right of search over a merchant vessel calling of its own accord at an allied port.

It contends that the practice followed by the powers in former wars establishes the general rule of the right to examine mails outside of territorial waters.

Paris, Oct. 14.—In fighting south of the Somme river in France today the French captured a first German line on a two kilometer front east of Belloy-En-Santerre and also the hamlet of Genermont and the sugar refinery near Ablecourt, according to the official communication issued tonight. Eight hundred were made prisoner.

EMERGENCY STILL EXISTS FOR USE OF THE MILITIA

President Writes Governor Whitman That Guardsmen Are Necessary at the Border.

SENDS A LENGTHY LETTER

Tells New York Executive That Troops Are Not Mobilized Merely for Training.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 14.—President Wilson, in a letter to Governor Whitman, of New York, sent October 9 and made public here today, declared that the emergency which caused the sending of the militia to the Mexican boder "unhappily still exists." He added, however, that the conditions in northern Mexico are improving and that "in the near future," it probably will be possible "to do more than has been done to relieve the embarrassments under which organized militia regiments have necessarily suffered."

President Wilson wrote to Governor Whitman in answer to a letter from the New York executive regarding the New York militia organizations on the border. The President told Mr. Whitman that it was impossible to set a date on which the remaining New York militiamen there could be released. The President in his letter declared he had been advised by the War Department that a withdrawal of the militia at any time since they were sent to the border "would in all likilihood have been followed by fresh aggressions from Mexico upon the lives and property of the people of the United States."

In his letter the President paid a high tribute to the character of the militiamen on the border and denied that any organizations were being kept there to perfect their military training. The Presidents' letter follows:

Mr. Wilson's Letter.

"My dear Governor Whitman:

"I have received your letter of September 20 and have taken up with the Secretary of War the situation as it affects the presence of New York troops on the border. From the beginning of the difficulty which necessitated the call for the militia, I have been deeply sensitive of the inconvenience caused to the members of these citizen military organizations by their separation from their families and from their ordinary business engagements and pursuits.

"In order to minimize these sacrifices the War Department is sending to the border from time to time militia which have not participated in the service there and as each fresh contingent goes to the border General Funston selects for return to their home stations and mustering such units as in his judgment can best be spared. This policy will distribute this duty over as wide an area as possible and make its burden fall as equally as is practicable upon the organized militia forces. It has already resulted in the return of a number of New York organizations. The 14th and 71st infantry and the First brigade headquarters are at present in their state armories preparing to muster out. The Third infantry in the state mobilization camp is going to muster out, the Second infantry is en route from the border to the state mobilization camp also for muster out. The First ambulance corps and the First regiment of field artillery have been designed to return from the border to their state mobilization camps for muster out and the First aero company was not sent to the border, but mustered at Mineola, N. Y. Thus a substantial number of the con-

SAYS SHIP WAS FIRED ON WITHOUT WARNING

Affidavit of Stephano's Captain Sent State Department

Says Three Solid Shots Were Used by the U-53—Washington Officials Attach No Particular Interest to the Incident.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The British steamer Stephano, sunk by the German submarine U-53 off the New England coast last Sunday, was fired on without warning, so the commander, Captain Smith, reported in an affidavit received today by the State Department. Captain Smith declared three solid shots were used, the first of which hit the Stephano's bow. No evidence corroborating his statement has been received by the department.

No particular interest attaches among officials to the fact that solid shot were used and it was pointed out that their use would be necessary as a warning if vessels happened to be several miles distant. Instances have been previously reported where vessels have been hit in this way without causing serious diplomatic results. It is possible that on the basis of evidence in hand, the United States may address an inquiry to Germany as to what facts it has in the matter. This probably will not be done before the U-boat has had time to return.

RUMANIANS FIGHTING STUBBORNLY AGAINST INVASION BY ENEMY

MANY TOWNS GIVE TO WILSON FUND

More Than Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars Has Been Reported to the Finance Committee.

THE LIST IS MADE PUBLIC

Mr. Hugh MacRae, Treasurer of the Committee, Has Heard From 84 Different Places—Many Others to Report.

From 84 different cities and towns in North Carolina, a total of $25,515.75 had been reported for the Wilson-Marshall campaign fund up until Friday night, according to a list of the contributions which was made public yesterday by Mr. Hugh MacRae, of Wilmington, who is treasurer of the State Finance committee.

This list does not represent the total sums that have been raised by the towns and cities in the State, nor all that have raised substantial sums, but only those who have reported to the committee. There are still many towns in the State that have not as yet reported anything at all that will do so this week, said Mr. MacRae last night. The total amount that has been raised to date in North Carolina for the campaign fund would amount to a considerable sum in excess of the total sum reported.

In addition to the amounts acknowledged from the different counties and towns below, Mr. MacRae recently received a check for $1,100, which was secured by the Charlotte Observer, acknowledgment of which has been made in the newspapers. This was raised early in the campaign through popular subscription.

The largest amount is reported by Winston-Salem, which sent in a total of $11,650. The next largest is that of Wilmington which had reported up until Friday a total of $3,205.75. Raleigh was third with $1,142. However, there are other cities that have raised larger amounts than have been reported. Charlotte was among the first to get busy and has raised a very substantial sum.

The list of contributions from the different towns and cities, as reported yesterday by Mr. Hugh MacRae, is as follows:

Alamance county—Burlington, $10.00.
Alexander county—Taylorsville, $25.
Anson county—Wadesboro, $70.00.
Beaufort county—Washington, $100.
Bladen county—Clarkton, $30.50.
Buncombe county—Asheville, $205.00.
Burke county—Morganton, $60.50.
Caldwell county—Lenoir, $102.00.
Catawba county—Newton, $66.00; Hickory, $90.00.
Cherokee county—Murphy, $5.00.
Chowan county—Edenton, $15.00.
Cleveland county—Shelby, $65.00.
Columbus county—Whiteville $10.00; Chadbourn, $10.00; Vineland, $5.00.
Craven county—New Bern, $125.00.
Cumberland county— Fayetteville, $400.00.
Davidson county—Lexington, $116.00; Thomasville, $20.00.
Duplin county—Wallace, $25.00; Faison, $21.25; Warsaw, $20.00.
Durham county—Durham, $800.00.
Edgecombe county—Tarboro, $161.50.
Forsyth county — Winston-Salem, $11,650.00.
Franklin county—Louisburg, $38.00; Franklinton, $20.00.
Gaston county—Gastonia, $20.00.
Graham county—Robbinsville, $25.00.
Granville county—Oxford, $65.00.
Guilford county—Greensboro, $1,115; High Point, $21.50.
Halifax county—Enfield, $113.50.
Harnett county—Dunn, $12.50.
Iredell county—Statesville, $520.00.
Johnson county—Smithfield, $25.00; Selma, $53.50; Clayton, $15.00; Benson, $50.00; Pine Level, $5.00.
Lee county—Sanford, $25.00.
Lenoir county—Kinston, $50.00; La Grange, $40.00.
McDowell county—Marion, $20.00.
Madison county—Hot Springs, $18.00.
Martin county—Williamston, $10.00.
Mecklenburg county—Charlotte, $210.
Montgomery county—Mt. Gilead, $15.
Moore county—Carthage, $15.00.
Nash county—Rocky Mount, $241.00.
New Hanover county—Wilmington, $3,205.75.
Orange county—Chapel Hill, $125.00.
Pasquotank county—Elizabeth City, $50.00.
Pender county—Burgaw, $15.00.

Wilkes county—Wilkesboro, $20.00; North Wilkesboro, $20.00.
Wilson county—Wilson, $193.75.
Yadkin county—Banbow, $20.00.
Total—$25,515.75.

Ferdinand's Forces Driven From Transylvania Back to Their Own Frontier.

RUSSIANS COMING TO AID

King Himself to Take Command of Armies—French Officers on Way to Rumania.

LITTLE ACTION IN SOMME

Both Berlin and Paris Claim Slight Successes.

Standing on their own frontier, the Rumanian troops, who recently invaded Transylvania from the south and east, are fighting desperately to prevent the Central Powers from entering Rumania. Russian reinforcements are being rushed to the aid of the Rumanians a wireless report from Bucharest says, and it is announced that King Ferdinand will take the field at the head of his harrassed troops.

In Eastern Transylvania and on the southern border the Austro-German forces continue to make progress against the invaders.

East of Csik Czereda the advance has not yet halted and west of the Vulcan pass Rumanian attacks have been checked, Berlin reports.

Rumanians Recapture Village.

Fighting on the frontier, northeast of Kronstadt, the Rumanians have recaptured a Rumanian village southeast of Orna from the Austro-Germans. Bucharest also reports the capture of Mont Siguiello and a frontier town in the region of Petroseny, with severe losses to the Teutonic forces. The wireless dispatch from Bucharest also announces that a commission of French officers is on the way to the Rumanian capital to go to the aid of the hard pressed generals of King Ferdinand. More than 15,000 prisoners, Bucharest says, have been taken by the Rumanians on the various fronts up to the present time.

Anglo-French Attacks Repulsed.

Anglo-French attacks on the Somme front, in northern France, have been repulsed by the troops of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria. Berlin records the capture by Saxon regiments of a portion of Ambos Wood, north of Chaulnes, south of the Somme. More than 600 prisoners were taken by the Germans.

North of the Somme French troops have made progress on the Malaissaise ridge, and south of the river they ejected German troops who had re-captured a portion of Ablaincourt. London reports no activity for the troops of General Haig.

Slight Gains by Italians.

On the other battle fronts in Europe there have been no important changes. On the Carso the Italians have advanced slightly and gained some additional ground from the Austrians.

The losses of the British, Russian and French armies on the eastern and western fronts since June 1, the military expert of the Overseas News Agency of Berlin estimates at approximately 2,000,000 men.

The sinking of the small French cruiser Rigel, in the Mediterranean, October 2nd, by a German submarine is announced from Berlin.

EMPEROR GIVES WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT TO TROOPS

Berlin, Oct. 14, (via London).—During his visit to the eastern front last week, Emperor William told the troops of General Von Eben that their two slogans should be "he shall not get through,' 'and "he must be beaten," The Emperor said:

"Let the enemy crush his head against a wall of iron. God help you in this great work."

In a speech to the troops under General Von Bohem-Ermolli, the Emperor said:

"We are all convinced that we are fighting in a good cause and we have the confidence that the good Lord of hosts will help us to victory."

ARRESTED FOR THEFT OF $500 IN UNSIGNED BANK NOTES.

Mark Latham, Former North Carolinian, in Jail at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Mark Latham, formerly of North Carolina, a clerk in the office of the auditor for the Postoffice Department in the Treasury Department, was arrested today on a charge of having stolen ten sheets of unsigned National bank notes from the money vault at the Treasury. Each sheet represented $50. According to the police, Latham admitted taking the notes and passing all except two of them. Those, it was alleged, were found unsigned in Latham's home. The young man, who is married, was sent to jail in default of $10,000 bail.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 14.—The Southern Hardwood Traffic Association tonight issued a call for a conference of Southern Lumber Manufacturers here next Friday to consider ways and means to relieve the present car shortage.

HUGHES DECLARES HE IS FOR PEACE

Characterizes as "Preposterous" Declaration That a Vote for Him Means a Vote for War.

8-HOUR LAW "GOLD BRICK"

Makes This Statement Before Crowd of Railroad Men—Says Prosperity is "Temporary and Abnormal."

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 14.—Charles Evans Hughes today characterized as "preposterous" the declaration that a vote for him meant a vote for war.

"I am a man for peace," Mr. Hughes said in a Nebraska speech. "Who wants war? I don't want war."

Correct policies, Mr. Hughes said, would keep America out of war.

"That sort of thing we have been doing will not keep us out of war. It will embroil us in difficulty."

In the six addresses which marked the opening day of his presidential campaign in the state of Nebraska, the Republican nominee discussed nearly all the issues of the campaign. He characterized as "temporary and abnormal" the present prosperity of the country and urged support of the Republican party so that a protective tariff might be enacted to fortify American enterprise in post bellum days against equal competition.

"The country was living," he said, on "the stimulant of the European war and would not long have the stimulant."

The nominee assailed the Adamson bill as a "gold brick" handed to labor. This declaration was made before an audience of railroad employes who crowded around his car at Wymore, an unscheduled stop, where the train changed engines.

At Falls City, Beatrice, Fairbury, Fairmont, Yark an dhere, tonight Mr. Hughes addressed audiences which frequently interrupted him to applaud. In his speech here the nominee went into detail on his views with respect to the international consideration of peace and the organization of peace.

ROOSEVELT CRITICISES MR. WILSON FOR 8-HOUR LAW.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 14.—Theodore Roosevelt, speaking at a Republican mass meeting here tonight, criticised the attitude of President Wilson on the 8-hour day for railroad employes. He declared that arbitration would have been the proper method of averting the threatened nation-wide railway strike and instanced the application of his principle in 1902 when he settled the anthracite coal strike.

that their rights as Americans are being infringed.

Inasmuch as the location of the American line has not been chosen and the contract makes provision for relocation in case such a protest should be encountered, there is a possibility that a solution may be found between the parties themselves without the intervention of the State Department, which, up to the present has not been identified in any way with the project.

The government does not feel called upon to step in at this stage because the American international corporation made its loan to China entirely upon its own negotiations and let the contract for railroad building to the Siems-Carey Company of St. Paul, Minn. No concession from China entered into the security or guarantees for the loan and it is considered purely a private enterprise. State Department officials were looking for American Minister Reinsch at Peking to forward some report.

MAJ. WM. A. GUTHRIE DEAD

Oldest Lawyer in Durham, Once Populist Candidate for Governor—Funeral in Fayetteville.

Durham, N. C., Oct. 14.—William A. Guthrie, candidate for governor on the Populist ticket in 1896 and major in the Civil War under Robert E. Lee, died here today aged 76. He was the oldest lawyer in Durham, having practiced about 50 years.

The funeral service will be held here tomorrow morning, after which the remains will be taken to Fayetteville for interment.

Fayetteville, N. C., Oct. 14.—The announcement of the death of Major Guthrie was heard with sorrow in Fayetteville, especially by the older residents. He was a man of big brain, a strong speaker and a learned lawyer. He was a communicant of the Episcopal church.

Major Guthrie married Miss Ella Carr, of Chapel Hill, sister of General Julian S. Carr. Shortly after the close of the Civil War they came to Fayetteville to live, residing here for a number of years and drawing to them many warm friends.

Mrs. Guthrie died in Durham about two years ago and was buried in Cross Creek cemetery, this city, beside two children who died in childhood. Major Guthrie is survived by only one member of his immediate family, Mr. W. B. Guthrie, who is a prominent lawyer of Durham.

The body will be brought to Fayetteville for burial, reaching here on the A. C. L. train at 4:40 o'clock tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon. Burial will be had here in Cross Creek cemetery immediately after arrival of train.

TO BRING SOUTHPORT FOLKS

Steamer Wilmington to Operate Excursion for the Show.

Southport, N. C., Oct. 14.—The steamer Wilmington will operate an excursion to Wilmington Monday on account of Buffalo Bill-101 Ranch Show. The steamer will leave Southport at 7 o'clock Monday morning and returning will leave Wilmington at 5 p. m. The steamer will also make its regular schedule trip Monday. It is probable that quite a large crowd will go from here to see the show.

tingent either have been or are on the course of being released from the service at this tim and as other forces are sent to the border it may well be said that General Funston will find it possible to give other New York militiamen further relief.

"The emergency which led to the call of the militia, was, as defined in my call of June 18, the possibility of aggression from Mexico and the protection of our frontier. This emergency still unhappily exists and I am advised by the military authorities that the withdrawal of the militia at any time from the date of its original call up to and including the present would, in all human likilhood, have been followed by fresh aggressions from Mexico upon the lives and the property of the people of the United States. The militia have therefore been used and are being used and are rendering services of the highest quality and most urgently needed character to their country.

"It would, of course, be impossible to set a date at which the release of the remaining New York units can with certainty be accomplised. I am happy, however, to believe that the condition in northern Mexico is improving and in the near future we will be able to do even more than has been done to relieve the embarrassment under which the organized militia regiments have necessarily suffered.

"I share your admiration, my dear governor, for the spirit in which these men have served and are serving their country and would be very sorry to have it supposed that their retention on the border is for any mere purpose of any completion of their military training or any less commanding purpose than the preservation of our frontier from aggression.

"Very truly yours.
(Signed). "WOODROW WILSON."

the clergy voting to adopt the proposal and the laymen rejecting it. The proposal failed of adoption because of the non-concurrence to the two diocesan delegations.

While the fight on the floor for the proposed innovation was led by Rev. Leighton Parks, of New York, and the opposition headed by the Rev. Dr. E. H. McKim, of Washington, perhaps the most spirited objections were voiced by the Rev. John Howard Melish, of Brooklyn.

"If you pass this law there are men in the church who will defy it and take the consequences," he said. "I should favor this resolution if it were merely a question of legislating for the rich."

Dr. Parks said that nothing could be gained by retention of the present canon "except perpetuation of chaos and fraud." He urged that the passage of the resolution was necessary to protect the children.

WILSON-BICKETT CLUB IS ORGANIZED AT DAVIDSON.

Theo. F. Kluttz, of Salisbury, Addresses Hunderds of Students.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Davidson, N. C., Oct. 14.—Friday night in Shearer Hall the first meeting of the Wilson-Bickett Club was held, conducted by the president, S. T. Henderson, who in turn introduced Hon. Theodore F. Kluttz, of Salisbury. Mr. Kluttz came here to speak to the club in the interest of the re-election of Woodrow Wilson and the election of Hon. T. W. Bickett, as governor of North Carolina.

There are 350 men who are members of the Democratic club here. Plans are on foot to have representative at the mass meeting of students from all over the entire State at Raleigh Monday. Ten men were appointed to represent Davidson and it is hoped that more will go than this number. Mr. W. C. Cumming is among the ten men appointed.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 14.—No matches were fired today on the Florida Range in the National Rifle Tournament. The Evans skirmish service match and the individual pistol contest scheduled for today were both postponed.

IS STUDYING TALL PEOPLE

New York Man in Scotland County. Governor Craig to Speak—Farmers Hit Hard.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Laurinburg, N. C., Oct. 14.—Charles Benedict Davenport, of Long Island, N. Y., is spending a few days in Scotland county and is making a study of tall people and families in which a tendency to tallness is pronounced. Mr. Davenport is representing the Carnegie Institution of Washington, of which he is the director of the department of experimental evolution.

He says he came to Scotland county after being informed that people here were of Scotch extraction and above the average in height. The tallest man found in Laurinburg measures six feet and four inches. It may be that there is a man in the county that will beat this record, but Mr. Davenport says he has not time to look for him. From his observations it is hoped to determine whether or not tallness is a family characteristic.

Governor Craig will speak at the court house in Laurinburg Saturday, October 21, at 3 o'clock. Governor Craig is a favorite here and is remembered for the work he did in this and neighboring counties in the memorable campaign of 1900, which is better known here as the "red shirt" days.

Farmers Hit Hard.

Scotland county farmers, of whom there are said to be many, who sold their 1916 cotton crop before it was made at prices around 12 and 13 cents are hit hard by the short crop and high prices. It is rumored that some have already taken from their warehouses cotton of last year's production to fill contracts for this year, and it is being freely stated that a number of them will not make enough to make deliveries as promised in the contracts made last spring.

The September ginners' report shows that Scotland county ginned prior to September 25 more cotton than any county in the State, having 5,591 bales against Robeson's 5,455.

The Carolina State Bank at Gibson, the sixth banking institution for Scotland county, will open for business the latter part of next week. F. D. Gibson is cashier of the new bank.

SUICIDE ATTEMPTED BY YOUNG MAN OF RALEIGH

Eugene McDonald, Well Known and Popular, May Not Survive.

Shot Himself Through Breast, Close by His Heart, in Fit of Despondency—Robinson's Circus Draws Throng to Town.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 14.—Thoroughly despondent and really for the time insane, after several days of heavy drinking and a night at cards during which he lost heavily, Eugene McDonald attempted to take his own life early this morning. He is now in Rex Hospital with the barest chance to recover from a pistol-shot wound close to his heart.

Mr. McDonald is about 30 years old, is a popular and especially clever young man, well liked by all who know him. His rash attempt on his own life occurred out at Wilder's Grove, a "near Raleigh" retreat where gaming and dissipation of various sorts are said to occur. The wound inflicted by young McDonald is in the left breast, the bullet having passed just above the heart, barely missing the apex of this vital organ.

The attempt at suicide occurred in the early morning and the wounded man was rushed to Rex Hospital where every effort is being made to save his life. He has for a long while been the manager of the news stand in Bland Hotel and was interested in other enterprises. He is a son of the late Charles C. McDonald, who was a widely known dealer in stocks and bonds and who, in a moment of irresponsibility, took his own life while alone in a remote section of the Raleigh Country Club grounds some months ago.

Raleigh had a foretaste of the rush and whirl of the State Fair today in a full fledged and thoroughly typical "circus day" that brought "the country" to town practically in the literal sense of the word. It was the John Robinson ten-shows-in-one aggregation that was the drawing card and it would be hard to imagine a more complete success in getting the folks together. The big parade and the great animal tent and the triple ring circus were a combination that seemed to please everybody wonderfully. It was an ideal and most successful "circus day."

GUNBOAT IN DISTRESS.

American Cruiser Goes to Aid of Mexican War Vessel.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The Mexican gunboat Guerrero has been reported in distress near Tres Marias island off the coast of the territory of Tepic, the cruiser Raleigh reported today to the Navy Department. The cruiser Buffalo has steamed to her assistance, the dispatch added, but does not indicate from what port on the west coast of Mexico the Buffalo had started. She was last reported at Manzanilla.

Distinctive Clothes for Young Men

A refreshing individuality that is easier to appreciate than to describe is noticeable in the showing of New Models.

More from less! You now get more light from less current—greater motor power from poorer gasoline

As the quality of gasoline has gone down—and down—Packard motor quality has come up—and up.

Greater refinements in Packard mechanisms have met and overbalanced the lowered standards of refinement in liquid fuels.

Hotter gas, the new Twin-six cylinders now feed upon.

As the vapor is scientifically heated before it enters the explosion chambers of the motor, greater power is actually wrung from smaller charges.

More mileage—on less fuel! More power from low-test gasolines! Again Packard owners profit by Packard advances.

If you have not examined—and had demonstrated to you—the new model Twin-six, you may not realize what these things mean—for you.

Why not investigate—now? The prices for Packard open cars are $2,865 and $3,265, at Detroit.

Harvard Too Much For the Tar Heels

CAROLINA LOSES TO THE CRIMSON BY THE SCORE OF 21 TO 0—SIX RESERVES IN THE HARVARD LINE-UP.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 14.—University of North Carolina, coached by a Harvard graduate and equipped with Harvard plays, was no match for the Crimson team today and lost 21 to 0. Six reserves were in the Harvard line-up, in places of regulars injured in the Tufts game last week.

Casey, Harvard full back, gained in open play after the fashion which made Masan famous.

His open attack was admirably supplemented by the bulls, line rushes of Horween, who tore hole after hole in the Southern line. That this was not a line, was shown in the second period when they held the best players that Harvard called into the game for downs on the one yard line after Harvard had four times attacked from the five yard mark. At two other stages of the game, the Crimson was held for downs.

Folger was the principal factor in the North Carolina offense. He made several first downs, tackled surely and kicked well.

Twice in the first period Harvard crossed the Carolina goal. A 25-yard end run by Harte, Horween's rushes, a ten yard forward pass and short plunges by Casey and Horween resulted in the latter getting the first touchdown. The kick which followed Horween's goal from touchdown was run back 22 yards by Casey and in the next play he raced 40 yards through a broken field, making possible Burnham's touchdown on a 12-yard rush through the line.

Carolina's check of Harvard almost at the goal, to which the ball had been taken on another 40-yard run by Casey, and their frustration of a forward pass thrust over the line made the second period scoreless.

Starting from midfield in the third period Horween rushed eight out of ten times, carrying the ball to the three yard line with the assistance of a 12-yard forward pass. Wilcox receiving. A penalty of 15 yards set the Crimson back but Murray propelled another forward pass to C. A. Coolidge, who made the last touchdown. The line-up and summary:

Harvard	Position	Carolina
Harte	LE	Love
Wheeler	LT	Ramsey
Dadmun	LG	Grimes
Harris	C	Tandy
Snow	RG	Harrell
Lovell	RT	Taylor
C. A. Coolidge	RE	Proctor
Robinson	QB	Johnson
Burnham	LHB	Folger
Horween	RHB	Fitzsimmons
Casey	FB	Tennent

Score by periods:

Harvard	14	0	7	0	—21
North Carolina	0	0	0	0	— 0

Referee, Nathan Tufts, Brown. Umpire, Carl Williams, University of Pennsylvania. Field judge, W. S. Cannell, Tufts. Head linesman, Sturgiss Pishon, Dartmouth. Time, 12 minute periods.

Scoring: Harvard—Touchdowns, Horween, Burnham, C. A. Coolidge. Goals from touchdowns, Robinson 2, Horween.

Substitutions: Harvard—Phinney for Harte; Brewer for Phinney; Hartley for Wheeler; Dean for Dadmun; Sager for Harris Thorndike for Sager; Day for Snow; Richards for Lovell; H. Coolidge for C. A. Coolidge; Phinney for S. Coolidge; Murray for Robinson; Gardner for Murray; Hitchcock for Burnham; Horne for Horween; Wilcox for Casey; Minot for Wilcox.

North Carolina—Crawford for Ramsey; Curry for Tandy; Ingrim for Harrell; Ramsey for Proctor; Williams for Johnson; Coleman for Folger; Bellamy for Fitzsimmons; Black for Tennent.

FEW MOTOR CARS ARE STORED FOR THE WINTER

Dodge Brothers Closed Conveyances Good in Any Weather.

The "stored for the winter" tag on motor cars will be less in evidence throughout the country this year than ever before, according to W. D. MacMillan, Jr., Dodge Brothers dealer in this city. There are several reasons, he says. One is the unparalleled business activity now in prospect, which will require incessant use of the automobile for business men. Another is the growing impression that "the motor car made these days is good enough in any weather." Still another, and perhaps more important, is the development of winter cars to the point where cost no longer conflicts with comfort.

In other words, the time has arrived when the average motor car owner will not hesitate between shivering through the winter in an open conveyance, or investing in year-around comfort by buying a winter car. The motorist has come to regard it as an actual economy. Tucked away in the warmth of an enclosed car on his way to the office, he no longer finds it necessary to devote the first half hour of his working time to "warming up." As one has put it: "I find wholesome pleasure even in defying the blustery winds; it puts me in a good mood for the morning."

Due to conditions such as these, as well as the criterion afforded by the heavy sales of last year, Dodge Brothers' dealers are preparing for an exceptional demand. They are now in a position to supply snug winter cars both of the touring and roadster type. Slight alterations in the style used last year make it even more desirable, both from the standpoint of taste and comfort. The interior is handsomely upholstered in grey and both the roadster and touring car are fitted with a dome light of a pleasant glow. Doors fit tightly, but open easily and rattling is minimized by exactness of construction. One of the most attractive features of the Dodge Brothers' winter car is the fact that the winter top may be removed without difficulty, thereby affording an ideal conveyance for use the year around. Also, by purchasing a winter top, with which the local dealer is now supplied, any owner of a Dodge Brothers' touring car or roadster may easily convert his last summer's automobile into a dignified, comfortable closed car ready to cope with the worst of weather.

BAPTISTS AND AGGIES IDLE GETTING READY FOR THURSDAY

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wake Forest, N. C., Oct. 14.—Both of the football elevens of Wake Forest and A. & M. remained idle today with the exception of practice preparatory to the annual clash between the two teams in Raleigh next Thursday. The occasion for the game is fair day, and in addition to the students and supporters of both teams, large numbers of visitors in attendance upon the State Fair will witness the contest. It is generally conceded that Wake Forest will not face as formidable and smilth-working machine on Thursday as they did last year, when the Aggies wrested a 7 to 0 victory from the Baptists. Wake Forest has been hard hit by the loss of many veterans this season, and injuries to a number of star players has handicapped the team in the games played thus far this season. But with the return of a number of players to the line-up, and it now appears that Wake Forest will face A. & M. with full strength, it is believed that Wake Forest will make A. & M. exert herself to the utmost to gain a decision.

RESTA FINISHES FIRST IN 250-MILE RACE AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Dario Resta captured the winner's share of the $15,000 grand American purse today and went into the lead in the season competition for the 1916 American championship purse of $13,500 by winning the 250-mile automobile race here today. He failed by a small fraction to equal the ne wworld's record of 104 miles an hour established at the Astor cup race at New York. Resta's time for the 250 miles was 2 hours, 24 minutes, 16.69 seconds, a rate of 103.9 miles an hour. Johnny Aitken finished second, half a lap behind. Ralph Hedlich, mechanician for Wilbur D'Alene, was badly burned when gasoline being poured into D'Alene's car at the pits washed up as it spilled on the hot exhaust bill. Billy Chandler was also burned in extinguishing the blaze. D'Alene re-entered the race but quit before the 125th mile.

Wilcox appeared to have won third place when an accident put him out at the 248th mile, Reckenbacher finishing third.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—The Swarthmore college football team, coached by Bill Roper, the former Princeton star, defeated the University of Pennsylvania eleven in Franklin Field today by the score of 6 to 0. Swarthmore's victory was unexpected. Pennsylvania's defeat was primarily due to a fumble of a punt by Quarterback Bert Bell in the second period, Swarthmore securing the ball and scoring on a forward pass.

West Point, Oct. 14.—The Army won from Holy Cross today 17 to 0. The cadets outplayed their opponents from the start, but loose handling of the ball at critical times and penalties for holding occasionally nullified fine work in advancing the ball. Oliphant kicked a placement goal, scored a touchdown and tallied both goals from touchdown for the Army and then retired from the game.

Athens, Ga., Oct. 14.—After being held scoreless for the first two periods Georgia opened up and amassed three touchdowns and as many goals from touchdowns in the last half, defeating Florida here 21 to 0. Georgia's scoring began when J. Reynolds, McConnell and Donnally, who have been on the injured list, got into the game in the third and fourth periods.

Davidson a Hard Match For 'Techs'

PRESBYTERIANS LOSE GAME IN ATLANTA 9 TO 0, THE GEORGIANS CROSSING THEIR GOAL LINE BUT ONE TIME.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 14.—Georgia Tech had to extend itself to the limit today to defeat Davidson 9 to 0. The North Carolinians' goal line was crossed only once and then in the third period. A goal from touchdown and a safety netted the other points of the game. Near the end of the second period Davidson carried the ball across Tech's goal after coming down the field principally by end runs and one beautiful forward pass but the score was not allowed because of a foul by Davidson. In the third period Laird, in attempting a punt from behind the goal posts fumbled a bad pass and was thrown for a safety.

MAXWELL PERFORMS IN GREAT STYLE

Takes Place of Heavy Car on Slippery Road, Carrying War Message.

An ideal autumn season has cast its magic spell over thousands of motorists and the call of the road has never been more potent than this year. The tourist notes the predominance of the lighter types of motor vehicles for lengthy tours. This is a healthy sign, because it means that the joys of touring are no longer confined to persons of large means.

During this past summer and present autumn season there has been abundant evidence of the prowess of Maxwell cars on long journeys, their efficiency, their economy and their ability to stand up under severe punishment.

"Testimonials of the splendid performances of its cars have poured in from every section of the country to the offices of the Maxwell Motor Company, Inc. at Detroit," says Mr. Lassiter, the Maxwell dealer here.

"As a champion of the good roads movement the car has been constantly in evidence. The Dixie Highway Association sent a roadster over southern country that had never been penetrated by motor vehicles until this year and the gospel of good roads was given a great impetus.

"The superiority of a light, powerful car was demonstrated with dramatic emphasis recently in the transcontinental run over the Yellowstone Trail, from Plymouth, Mass., to Seattle, Wash.

"The purpose of the tour was to carry a message for the War Department. The message was carried in relays, and sixty-four cars, running day and night, participated in its delivery. A Maxwell touring car carried the message from Webster to Aberdeen, South Dakota, a stretch of fifty-five miles, taking the place of a heavier car that had been provided. The Maxwell was pressed into service in this emergency because of its ability to ride the mud.

"It was found that the heavier car could not keep the grades because of the slippery roads. The Maxwell made the run without mishap, going the last twenty-three miles in thirty-six minutes.

"There have been many recent evidences of the car's abilities in long-distance travel. Particularly impressive are the statements of many women drivers of Maxwell cars, who find that they can drive long distances under adverse conditions and come through without mishap."

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA TEAM SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 14.—Showing marked improvement in defensive play after the overwhelming defeat by Yale last Saturday, Virginia presented an impregnable front to Richmond College this afternoon winning 21 to 0. The Orange and Blue goal line was never in danger. Russell, a new man in the back field, who entered the game following an injury to Gooch, starred for the 'Varsity eleven.

CHARLOTTE HIGHS HOLD THE CAROLINA FRESHMEN SCORELESS

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 14.—Overconfident and playing below form, the Carolina freshmen squad allowed the Charlotte highs to hold them scoreless in the game played here today. Only two or three times throughout the game was either goal in serious danger. Templeton, for Charlotte, and Bristol, for the freshmen, were the outstanding stars of the game.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14.—Yale downed Lehigh today 12 to 0 in a desperately fought game, the feature of which was a sensational 65-yard end run through a broken field for a touchdown by Legore. Bingham made Yale's other touchdown on a 16-yard plunge through tackle.

TOP O' THE MORNING.

Your easy-going life may be just the measure of your capacity; you are the duller scholar the Master can take no special pains with. God does not put a heavy load into a light-built cart, or a ten-ton burden upon a one-ton axle.. Your task is your opportunity, but if your task is light it is because your capacity is small and the task is measured to fit it. —JOHN ACWORTH.

Nobody's asking you to give money to Wilson. It's your country that needs it and needs Wilson.

In 1914 some other kind of ships were so terrified that they dashed into American ports and staid.

Next Saturday is "Wilson Day Celebration" all over the United States. New Hanover will celebrate. Whoop it up!

Baltimoreans are kicking because milk has gone up to 9 1-2 cents. What Baltimoreans kick against would be highly pleasing to Wilmingtonians.

We wish a U-catcher would round up some of our hardships and put them out of commission. Most of us are captains of a whole fleet of hardships.

Those who have disrespect for us do not esteem us. Those who have contempt for us do not love us. Those who pull our ears and swat us are trying to put us out of business. Those who are doing their best to head us off are trying to get our goat.

If you are of the South Southy, you will not help the enemies to pry the South out of the Saddle. Send your money in now and save your vote for Wilson on the 7th of November. Don't fail to aid in financing the defeat of those who are still after your native land.

Colonel Roosevelt blames President Wilson with the sudden appearance of the U-53 in American waters. However, the Kaiser is giving Cap'n Hans Rose the credit, while old towser gives President Wilson the swat. If Teddy had an audience of fools he would make a great hit.

Friday, October 27, is Agricultural and Educational Rally Day for Columbus county. This is an anual event that is held at Chadbourn and this one is to be the greatest of all. The attendance is expected to be 10,000 and 2,000 school children will be in the parade. There will be a magnificent display of farm products and other interesting features. A special train will leave Wilmington in time to reach Chadbourn at 10 a. m., and it will leave Chadbourn on the return at 5 p. m. Of course, Wilmington will go.

The Republican candidate for president seems to believe that there is something in the New York betting that is in his favor. Bets indicate the judgment of gamblers, partisan ones at that, but hundreds of that same crowd have bet on cotton this year and lost. However, Hughes says, "we don't know in what sort of mess we will find things next March in Washington." He is counting on dealing with some sort of mess, but it may be that on the 7th of November he will find that he is in the soup—more than likely.

Brunswick county is going to have her maiden fair on the 3rd and 4th of November. It will be held at Bolivia and we suggest that everybody in Wilmington should go. Building up the inside by building up the outside is all the go now. That is a Star doctrine and it is all the go all over the South. Charlotte is now making it a point to send a big delegation to all the fairs in her tributary domain. We are going some when we go somewhere in company with the right sort of noise.

THE LAND DOES WHAT THE MAN KNOWS

It is easy enough for the merchants, the business men, the lawyers and the citizens of the city to demonstrate the farming possibilities in New Hanover and other counties. Why, the city man can have his farm, a big one or a little one, as the case may be, and he can become a practical demonstrant of the agricultural possibilities hereabout.

Yes, but some men say they don't know anything about farming, but the fact is they can learn, and get paid for it while they learn. They can learn easy enough, for Farm Demonstrator J. F. Herring laughs all over when he is called on as an agricultural doctor. He is on the job, too, and he knows and is willing to get assistance from all intelligent men who can catch on to a good thing.

Some of them are catching on, too, and they are astonishing themselves with the practical success that they have made with a suburban farm. They are not only astonishing themselves but they are astonishing the natives. No statement is worth a shuck, unless the proof is furnished to substantiate it, but there is all sorts of proof, because practical demonstrations are the best of proof.

There is ample proof to show that the city man ought to have a farm as a side issue, or as an investment and a practical proposition. The advantage of a country place for the city man is four fold, viz:

1. It gives a man and his family a place of enjoyable recreation.

2. It develops our waste lands, brings them into cultivation, and demonstrates the versatility of production in this incomparable region.

3. It gives employment to a worthy class of labor, and gives the young men in the country an opportunity to get their eyes opened to the methods of modern agriculture and the opportunity there is in its for him. They will never leave the farm when they see the light.

4. The ownership of land in the Nation's Garden Spot is a good investment. Lands are constantly increasing in value, while there is all sorts of profit in intelligent farming where a system is followed with a view to making the farm income depend on more than one crop, or one rut or one idea.

Well, the proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof, with cream to go with it. Several of Wilmington's intelligent and enterprising business men have demonstrated the four points heretofore mentioned as to the advisability of a farm for the city man. Mr. Henderson Cole, of the Wilmington Furniture Company, is one who acknowledges the corn and who has shown that he can produce more than 100 bushels of corn per acre on his New Hanover land.

Mr. Cole has just begun to farm and he is tickled to death with the result. About two years ago he bought 33 1-2 acres of land on the Masonboro turnpike, just five and a half miles from the city and about a couple of miles beyond Winter Park Gardens. Last year he demonstrated to himself how to grow corn, peanuts, protatoes and forage and convert the waste products and some of his farm production into pork. He grew crops in the spring and summer and fall and then used them to get a winter crop of high priced pork. He took care of a lot of hogs at a minimum cost of feed production and produced 3,000 pounds of pork.

Moreover, Mr. Cole raised plenty of other products, but note the fact that his farm income came along in the spring, in the summer, in the fall and in the dead of winter, when the highest priced farm product of all was his crop of hams, bacon, backbone, spare ribs, sausage, hogshead cheese, etc Mr. Cole was pretty extravagant in the way of feeding corn, peanuts and potatoes to his hogs, put he says his meat cost him about 3 cents and not exceeding 4 cents a pound. Those who know what meat is worth can figure on the profit in hog raising and note the economics in the method of growing high priced meat on a basis of lower priced corn, peanuts and potatoes.

There is something doing on Mr Cole's little farm this fall. It is right beside the fine macadamway leading from this city by way of Winter Park Gardens and which roawday is a section of New Hanover county's belt line highway, encompassing the rural section two ways in and out of the city. We took an auto spin with Mr. Cole to his farm on Thursday because it is shredding time and his corn crop is being saved from top to bottom. The shredder was being operated by a gasoline engine and it was converting the entire corn stalk into shredded stover that was blown into the loft of the barn through a pipe which saved hand labor for stowing it away. The shredder removed the huge ears from the stalks and they came out shucked, while the shucks were also shredded and blown with the forage product into the loft of the barn.

It was all very interesting, but the main attraction was Mr. Cole's fifty hogs—all sizes from 550, 350 and 200-pound porkers to several litters of pigs from two to six weeks old, all beauties and rolling fat, because the corn, peanuts, potatoes, peas and green forage is there for them in wasteful profusion. Mr. Cole has about twenty-five acres under cultivation and his chief production this season will be about 1,500 bushels of corn, 500 bushels of potatoes, 300 bushels of peanuts and 80 to 100 tons of corn stover and hay, including peavines, crab grass and peanut tops. No mention is made of an immense amount of truck produced, far beyond the needs of Mr. Cole's large family and his farmer's household and certain fortunate neighbors. He expects this winter's crop to be 5,000 pounds of meat.

Last year Mr. Cole grew 107 1-3 bushels of corn per acre, but on Thursday he walked The Star through twenty acres of magnificent corn, which, Mr. Cole states, will beat his last year's record of more than 100 bushels per acre. Mr. Cole estimates that his production per acre this season will run from 75 to 100 bushels or more. The corn was there to show for itself, many of the stalks actually broken down with two huge ears—a muto demonstration of the lamented Dr. Knapp's assertion that the natural corn growing section of America is the South where the climate and the land need only the man.

As we have said, Mr. Cole has only begun to farm, because he is systematically proceeding to add more farm income as a result of an economic system. He has a side line of fine chickens and they are turning in an egg production of from $3 to $4 per week, in addition to chickens galore. Several hundred fruit trees will soon furnish more income, for Mr. Cole has 200 peach trees which began to bear this season. Mr. Cole's land cost him a good speck on the side, but when a man can buy the marvelously versatile lands hereabouts and thinks he is spending a fortune, he is only buying one, since it is no secret that the land and the man can pay for the land in two years. As an investment and profit proposition, Mr. Cole and several city farm owners have demonstrated that it's a cinch for recration and profit.

Cotton? No! It does not pay to grow cotton alongside of corn, peanuts, potatoes, peas, forage, pork, eggs, chickens and fruits. Good roads and good lands hereabouts invite the man who knows. The land does what the man knows.

THE U-53 OF THE CONFEDERACY

Some interesting Civil War history has been recalled by the raid of the German submarine U-53 last Sunday, and naval men profess to see in the consternation in shipping circles which it caused a remarkable duplication of what happened at New York and other eastern ports in 1863 when Lieut. C. W. Read, of the Confederate States navy, in command of the Tacony, passed up the Atlantic coast, burning and scuttling American ships, continuing his foray on commerce for two weeks despite the fact that more than 40 cruisers and chartered vessels were sent out in search of the intrepid Confederate.

From the port of Wilmington the Confederate cruiser Tallahassee, in 1864, made a raid as far north as Halifax and burned or scuttled 31 American vessels within a period of 10 days, though it was nearly 20 days from the time the cruiser left this port until she returned. However, this foray seems not to have caused the consternation that was occasioned by the exploits of the Tacony.

A record of alarms seldom paralleled in history was produced by the advent of the Tacony on the American coast, it is said, and the Navy Department was deluged with telegrams for a fortnight. Read was captured only after he had destroyed or captured many vessels, when he ventured into the harbor of Portland, Me., in an attempt to cut out a steamer of that place. In the same locality where the U-53 last Sunday sent half a dozen vessels to the bottom, the Tacony destroyed three craft. He cruised off the Nantucket shoals for three days, in which time he burned a full-rigged clipper ship, bound from Liverpool to New York, a bark and a Liverpool packet.

Lieutenant Read did not have the Tacony when he started on his foray. It was one of the vessels he captured while proceeding up the coast. He started out with the Clarence, an American brig, which was captured by the Confederate cruiser Florida in its cruise off Cape St. Roque, Brazil, against American commerce. Read was serving as a watch officer on the Florida and when Commissioner J. N. Maffit was about to burn the Clarence, the lieutenant requested permission to take the captured brig, man her with 20 men from the Florida's crew and proceed upon a cruise of his own against American commerce, beginning by slipping into Hampton Roads and cutting out a steamer. The request was granted. This was in May. One month later Read was off the Carolina coast, where he burned or "bonded" three Federal vessels and learned from them that his proposed attempt to enter Hampton Roads would prove futile, because of the vigilance kept there. Then he decided to make his raid up the coast.

By a ruse, he succeeded, on June 12, in capturing a fine bark, about 50 miles east of Cape Henry, which proved to be an American craft. As he liked its sailing qualities better than those of the Clarence, he burned the latter, after transferring his crew and a howitzer which he carried. Before leaving the ground he gathered in three more craft, whose crews he sent to Philadelphia in one of the vessels.

This was on June 12. On the 15th he burned a brig about 250 miles east of Cape Charles and then made for the Nantucket shoals, there burning three vessels. In the locality of Georges Bank he burned eight American vessels on June 23. About 110 miles east of Portland, Me., on the 24th, he captured the schooner Archer. Suspecting by this time many vessels must be in search of him, he transferred to the Archer and fired the Tacony, after which he slipped into Portland, which resulted in his capture on June 27.

WHAT IT IS CERTAIN HUGHES WOULD DO

"What would Hughes do?" Huh? So long as he won't tell us, we have to guess at what he would do because of the company he keeps. Wall Street, for instance, seems to be satisfied that Hughes would do a great deal for the financial interests and for special interests. That is about all they want Hughes to do and he would do at least that much, for it is indicated in the fact that Wall Street is putting her money on Hughes.

The country ought to be pretty well satisfied that Hughes would do all he could to break down the people's financial system established by the Wilson administration and re-establish that of the money trust in New York. However, a prominent Republican of New York fears that Hughes would do something that would soon get his administration into trouble. That Republicans writes to the World that he will support Wilson for the reason that he believes that if the Republicans carry the country Hughes will make Roosevelt his secretary of state, as is generally reported and believed in New York.

That New York Republican, foreseeing that Roosevelt would be a dangerous man behind the throne and particularly be in a position as secretary of state to make trouble, says: "God forbid that we should have the wrecker of two parties; the Republican in 1912 and the Progressive in 1916, in that office in these troublesous times." Well, Roosevelt surely is some wrecker, and the probability is that he would wreck the Republican party again. That New York Republican is not the only one who is fearful that Hughes would do something not to the interest of this country and its people. For instance, another Republican, Mr. Henry Ford, who recently lined up for President Wilson, gave this as his main fear of Hughes:

"To begin with, I'm supporting Wilson because Wall Street is supporting the other man, or, rather, because Wall Street is against Wilson.

"I'm for Wilson because he is 'on to' the interests—the 'unseen hands' that seek to control government—and is holding them off. That he is 'on to' them and is holding them off is proved by his refusal to rush into war with Mexico, sacrificing the lives of thousands of young Americans to save the dollars that Wall Street has invested in Mexico on a gamble.

"For this one reason alone the nation is under an obligation to return Wilson to the White House.

"But for purely business reasons which may appeal more directly to many men, the welfare of the country demands Wilson's re-election."

Mr. Thomas A Edison and Dr. Charles W. Eliot, both very eminent Republicans, recently declared for Wilson because they are convinced that Hughes "won't do" for President.

The Star opposes Hughes and the Republican party because it is satisfied that they would undo what Wilson has done for the people, and that they would once again be in league with special interests in a partnership that would do the people. Hughes would do the American people in the interest of those favored few who are again anxious to get a chance to do the masses of the American people, as they have done in the past.

We don't care what Wilson has done or is likely to do, but we dos fear that Hughes would do the very thing that Mr. Ford says he would do. If the people want to be further taxed for the benefit of the trusts, built up and fostered by Republicanism, they will get accommodated and get their load by electing Hughes. However, we cannot comprehend why the people should wish to burden themselves with tariff taxes so Wall Street can "cut melons."

CURRENT COMMENT.

Mr. J. B. Humphrey, who lives in the Saddle Tree section, was among the visitors in town yesterday. Mr. Humphrey sold one bale of cotton with the seed for $135.—Lumberton Robesonian.

The Wilmington business people are responding to the dollar campaign fund for Wilson in lively manner. Up to last accounts the fund had passed the $3,300-mark and the work is hardly under way. Meanwhile, election day is coming on apace when the dollars will no longer be needed. The time to come forward is now—Charlotte Observer.

The Montgomery Advertiser says: "There is only one comforting circumstance about the high cost of things in this country: The same articles cost still more in Europe, according to some recent published statistics. It's worth more to live in this country just now." It never happened under Republican control that products were cheaper in the United States than elsewhere and if the Republicans get in power they will speedily rectify this condition.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

Mr. Hughes had an annoying experience on Tuesday with the prosperity which he has declared to be only temporary. A railroad in Maryland couldn't haul his special train because it was too busy moving the products of the region to market, its lines being almost congested with freight trains. The Republican candidate will have to get accustomed to that. His special interest campaign for the presidency is in the same fix as was his special trai nin Maryland. Democratic prosperity has the right of way, and Mr. Hughes is going to be switched off the political track.—Charleston Post.

The Raleigh News and Observer says: "North Carolina Democratic by about 56,000 majority, is the slogan for Democracy." We are in favor of making it more. In fact, we move to make it unanimous.

PENDER SCHOOL PROGRESS

Figures of Past Year Compared With Those of Ten Years Ago Tell Wonderful Story.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., Oct. 14.—The following statistics regarding the public schools of Pender county for the years 1905-06 and 1915-16 are interesting, going to show, as they do, the remarkable progress that has been made in the last ten years:

In 1905-06 the total enrollment of white children was 1,647, of colored children 1,922; in 1915-16 white enrollment 2,176, colored 1,682. Average term in 1905-06, for white 3 2-3 months, for colored, the same, and only 24 enrolled in the eighth grade and 32 in the seventh grade. In 1915, 184 in the seventh grade.

Value of school property in 1905, for white, $3,500, for colored $300. Special taxes for 1905, $629.86; for 1915-16, $12,022.78. Average salaries of teachers in 1905, for males, $44.30, females $31.22; for 1915-16, males $76.15, females $39.81. Value of rural school property 1915-16, white $47,225, colored $6,775.

Average term in 1915-16, for white 120 days, for colored 100 days. Total number of rural libraries, for white 38, colored, one. None in 1905. Number of local tax districts in 1915, 37, in 1905, two. Number of different schools taught in 1915, white 46, colored 29; number having one teacher, 23 white, 27 colored (while in 1905 there was not one rural school with more than one teacher); number having in 1915 two teachers, 18 white, two colored; number having three teachers, three white; number having four or more teachers, two white. Number of high schools in 1915, two; 1905, one. Number of teachers in 1905, white 50, colored 47; in 1915, white 80, colored 36. Total enrollment, 1915-16, white 2,176, colored 2,995.

These figures are from the official records in the office of the county superintendent of public instruction and they show a wonderful degree of progress and a very progressive board of education and county superintendent.

LAVA TO MAKE HARBOR

Proposition is Made to Government by a Contractor.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

The great government breakwater now under construction at Hilo, Hawaii, and which will give to that city the finest harbor in the islands, is making rapid strides during the smooth seas and fine weather now prevailing on the windward coast of the big island. Connected with this breakwater is one of the strangest proposals ever put seriously before a contractor. It was nothing less than a suggestion that the molten lava from the active volcano of Kileauea should be siphoned out of the crater and run down in pipes to the coast, where it would be directed into the bay along the line of the breakwater construction, which would thus be carried on almost without supervision. To any one family with the nature of lava, its porous, brittle nature, and the rapidity with which it cools into stone, the proposal is full of absurdity, but by many it was taken seriously and there was even some talk of the formation of a company to deal with the financial end of the undertaking.

Peace and Prosperity are worth a small contribution. Take a small part in a great and important cause.

Y. W. C. A. FALL WORK WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

Membership Campaign to be Started Last Week This Month.

Work of Educational and Gymnasium Classes Important Features—Bright Prospects for Most Successful Year.

The membership committee of the Wilmington Young Women's Christian Association, which begins its fall and winter activities tomorrow, is planning to have the annual membership campaign the last week in October and all members of the organization will be waited upon for renewals and new members will be solicited. The association now has a membership of about 1,200 including 14 life members and 50 sustaining members.

Among the advantages offered by the association are the educational and gymnasium classes which will begin work tomorrow under the supervision of expert instructors. The courses offered will include stenography, taught by Miss May Beverely French; domestic science, taught by Miss Grace Logan, of the Wilmington High School faculty; millinery, taught by Miss McMahon, formerly of O. F. Johnson in New York and now at the Bon Marche; sewing by Miss Louise deRosset and expression by Miss Louise Worth.

Upon sufficient registration classes will be organized in embroidery, bookkeeping, modern languages and other work to meet any demands made to meet the needs of the women of the community.

A fire side reading circle will be formed for the study of English literature, which will be in charge of Miss Nettie Jane Fleming, teacher of English in the High School, and also a choral club is to be organized with Mr. W. G. Robertson as leader.

A schedule of the class work has been arranged and printed upon attractive folders which will be sent to each member of the association within the next day or so.

Among the privileges to be enjoyed by the members of the association are the rest room, library and the use of the shower baths, whether they are enrolled in the gymnasium or not.

The magnitude of the work done by the association in its religious classes, its numerous clubs, extension endeavor can hardly be realized by those not connected with the sintitution. Those interested in carrying on the work are more encouraged than ever in striving to enlarge the scope of the association's activities and to extend its influence so that it may be felt by every woman and girl in the community.

A special effort is to be made to enlarge the membership and any woman interested in extending the Kingdom of Christ is invited to work in the membership campaign, not solely to secure members but through the plan outlined they will be afforded an opportunity to become acquainted with the life, the needs, the aspirations of women among whom they live and by the closer association in a great sisterhood give of herself and give for herself that larger knowledge which comes with service, thereby making each helpful to the other and to the world.

HEARING POSTPONED

Steamship-Railroad Controversy is Set Back One Week.

The hearing that was to have been held at Washington this week in regard to the controversy between the Baltimore-Carolina Steamship Company and the local railroads, has been pontponed until tomorrow week. W. A. Townes, Esq., assistant general counsel for the Atlantic Coast Line, will represent his road at the hearing.

The steamship company alleges that the railroads will not give them satisfactory rates from Baltimore to interior points. The side of the local interests was presented at the recent hearing at Goldsboro.

MR. MORRISON HERE TUESDAY

Presidential Elector Will Address Voters at Court House Tuesday Night. Campaign Livening Up

Hon. Cameron Morrison, of Charlotte, presidential elector-at-large from North Carolina, will unlimber the machine gun of his oratory on behalf of Democracy at a mass meeting of voters of New Hanover county, which will be held at the Court House here at 8 o'clock next Tuesday night.

Mr. Morrison is regarded as one of Democracy's "old warehorses," having been a prominent figures at all the big conventions of the party for many years. He has taken an active part in politics and can meet all-comers when it comes to debating the issues of the campaign, whether he is talking North Carolina or National politics.

His appearance on the stump in this county, it is believed, will attract one of the largest crowds that has been assembled during the present campaign, which is now but three short weeks from its end. The local campaign which is being prosecuted with exceptionally vigor by the County Democratic Committee with a view to piling up a record majority for the State and National candidates, is rapidly approaching its liveliest days.

The people of the whole county are having their interest in the election aroused as probably never before owing to their admiration for Democracy's great leader, Woodrow Wilson. People like to vote for a winner, and the tide seems now to be running very strongly in favor of the President, especially in view of the fact that the Progressive vice-presidential candidate has come out in favor of Wilson, and Hughes' Western tour turned out such a fizzle.

PLAN CELEBRATION OF WOODROW WILSON DAY

Observance of Day Here to be Under Auspices of Wilson Club.

October 28th Will be Observed on Nation-Wide Scale—Special Message From President Wilson to be Read at Meetings.

Wilmington in common with practically every other city, town and hamlet, through its Wilson Club, is already beginning to formulate definite plans for the observance of the 28th of this month as "Woodrow Wilson Day."

Officers of the local Wilson Club are of the opinion that this country-wide celebration of the truly remarkable achievements of the Democracy's great leader, through parades and mass meetings, at which the principal speaker will read a special message from President Wilson will prove highly helpful to his candidacy.

The Democratic National Committee has adopted as a slogan for that day: "Peace with Honor, Prosperity, Preparedness." This slogan will echo through the land from Maine to California. In at least 10,000 towns the streets will be decorated with flags and bunting and stands built for speakers. Plans for this outpouring of the people and demonstration of patriotic pride in the president's good work have just been completed by the Democratic committee. A response is confidently expected that will eliminate any lingering doubt of his re-election.

Wilson Day is to be the culmination of the rousing and nation-wide canvass of the country—of every state, county and township, which will be conducted throughout the month.

At these gatherings will be read the gospel of "Americanism" in which the President will point out anew his convictions as to what position this nation should maintain in the present world crisis. In every hamlet, every town, every city this proclamation is to be read in the presence of as many citizens as can be attracted, and following the reading of the message the people will be invited by the chairman in charge of the meeting to express in a few brief words their appreciation of the work accomplished by the President and their sentiments as to his candidacy.

The day is to be set apart as a general outpouring of the spirit of the nation, reflected through the people, in regard to the administration. It is expected to reveal a demonstration of confidence of such vast dimensions that the country will be able to realize how strong is the hold the President has on the people and how widespread the confidence they have in him.

Mr. Edward E. Britton, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, has been designated as chairman for Wilson day for North Carolina and in a letter to editors of Democratic papers says:

"There is to be a Wilson Day celebration throughout the United States on Saturday, October 28th, and it is hoped to make the occasion a notable one in North Carolina.

"Having been designated by Democratic State Chairman Thos. D. Warren as the chairman of the celebration for North Carolina, I am writing to ask your active co-operation. In your county the day will be under the direction of your Democratic county chairman, and I have suggested to him that he invite you to act as chief-of-staff for the event. The plan is for parades, torch light if at night, residences and places of business decorated with American flags and bunting, a public meeting at all towns and centers of the county, with addresses by prominent men who can be secured in or out of the county, and reading of a special Message to the People from President Wilson."

CHORAL SOCIETY BEGINS WORK

Planned to Give Famous Oratorio, "Elijah", During the Holidays. Mr. Krafft to Sing.

The Choral Society of Wilmington will resume its work for the fall next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the Elks' Temple, at which time the study of "Elijah" will be taken up. Some time around the holidays it is proposed to give a public presentation of this sublime work and all those who appreciate a class of music, not the kind that one might whistle on the streets, but that which is noted for its sublimity and grandeur and peculiarly inspiring character, will have their first opportunity of listening to a splendid rendition of it.

It will be pleasing to his many friends to know that the part of "Elijah" will be sung by Mr. William W. Krafft who formerly lived in this city, but who for the past seven years has devoted himself to the study of music and has made it his profession. His voice will be remembered as a baritone of peculiar sweetness which has undoubtedly been splendidly developed under his various instructors, the last one of whom was the noted singer, Herbert Witherspoon, of New York.

The part assigned to Mr. Krafft will give him splendid opportunity of demonstrating not only his rich voice but the peculiar interpretation which is demanded of one choosing this noted oratorio as his vehicle. While this style of music is not calculated to appeal to the greatest number, yet it is hoped that the efforts of the society will be appreciated to such an extent as will enable it to make other ecorts along similar or even more attractive lines. The price of admission will also be especially low as it is felt that a large audience at a smaller price is preferable to a smaller one at a higher price, the object being to endeavor to cultivate a taste for that which is higher in music than has been the case heretofore.

The other solo parts will be taken from the chorus which numbers among its membership many of the best singers of the city who will give a good account of themselves at the time of the rendition.

WILL MAKE CORN SHOW A HARVEST FESTIVAL

Wilmington's Big Gala Week Will be Full of Events.

Reports From the Nine Counties Interested Are Very Encouraging—People of Wilmington Giving Liberal Support.

The Wilmington Corn Show this year will really be a harvest festival as the agricultural exhibits from the nine counties that are taking such a great interest in its welfare will be of unusual excellence as well as of wide variety. The livestock exhibits will also be worth going miles to see.

Bigger and better than ever before is the slogan of the executive committee which is working night and day to get everything in readiness for the show which opens on November 7th and will continue for four days. The experience gained by those who worked so enthusiastically to make the show a success last year has been most valuable in promoting the fair this season.

The committees that have been most active recently have been those in charge of finance and advertising. Other committees are getting in line for their work and will be in a position to announce arrangements within the next few days for many of the different features of the fair.

An Eventful Week.

The selection of the dates for the fair this year, one week earlier than last, has been particularly fortunate as it will come just at the time when the farmers have finished gathering their crops and everything will be in fine condition for displaying at the show. And then as an introduction for the gala week will come the John Robinson circus on the Monday preceding, which will serve to introduce some of the festive spirit without which no fair is worth much.

A Corn Show visitor in the city yesterday was somewhat despondent because the general election will come on Tuesday, the opening day of the fair, which will keep many at home in order that they can cast a vote for Woodrow Wilson and peace, prosperity and plenty, but there will be no less interest on the part of Wilmington people, especially in view of the fact that the entrance to the Corn Show will be within 50 feet of the bulletin board of The Star office, where the crowd will get the election returns on the opening night.

This will be unusually eventful and for many reasons is helpful to the Corn Show and will be the means of bringing people to Wilmington by the thousands to see the fair and to enjoy the many attractions.

Gala Week for a Fact.

The many attractive features being arranged for the Corn Show will make a gala week for a fact this year. It is really the most significant event of the season for Wilmington, and there is more general interest this year than ever before, as evidenced from the fact that the Corn Show Executive Committee has received a letter from the Fayetteville chamber of commerce stating that there will be a good delegation from that city to attend the fair here.

"We realize the good work that is being done along agricultural lines through your Corn Show each year," is one sentence that appears in the communication from the city of the upper Cape Fear, which is welded to the interest of Wilmington in more than one way. Reports from the counties interested in the fair are very encouraging and the prospects for a large attendance of outsiders are increasing daily.

Advertised Extensively.

The advertising campaign to attract interest for the Corn Show has been on in earnest for the past two weeks and over 11,000 pieces of literature have already been distributed over the large territory of the fair. This includes the prize list books and general literature calling attention to the different features arranged for this season. In addition to the direct work of the Corn Show Advertising Committee, the railroads are co-operating to the fullest and will see that the people are acquainted with extraordinary reduction in rates which more than takes in the actual territory of the show.

Every county paper in the nine counties will contain a quarter page advertisement and a write-up of the Corn Show in their regular editions this week. Every picture show in the territory, as well as Goldsboro, Fayetteville, etc., are running attractive slides, calling particular attention to the fact that the show will be bigger and better this year and that it is being conducted in the interest of their county and section as well as the immediate territory adjacent to Wilmington. Literature was mailed out last week to every postoffice in the nine counties and many other means for general distribution are being employed.

Support for Corn Show.

The Finance Committee of the Corn Show has been actively engaged this week in securing subscriptions to the underwriting plan. The committee has been exceedingly fortunate in its work, and the people are giving the proposition liberal support. The committee reported yesterday that 91 pledges had been secured, aggregating $1,720. The willingness with which the business public is signing up for the support of the Corn Show is an evidence of the value and benefit the community derives from this annual show. The full value of the Corn Show was not appreciated until last year and its splendid success attested the full measure of co-operative effort for community betterment. Not more than half of the business public has been seen and the work of the committee will be continued through this week.

MOTHERS' CLUB ORGANIZED.

Officers Are Elected at Meeting at Acorn Branch School.

At a meeting of patrons and friends of the Acorn Branch school held at the school Friday night, a Mother's Club for the school was organized. Following the business part of the meeting, the members of the club attended a programme of exercises rendered by the pupils of the school.

Officers for the club were elected as follows: President, Mrs. J. Herbert Johnston; vice president, Mrs. George Johnson, and secretary, Mrs. J. W. Westbrook. Mrs. J. Herbert Johnston is principal of the Acorn Branch school.

STEADILY BUT SURELY WILSON FUND GROWING

Fine Contribution From State Senator Cooper.

Meeting of Executive Committee and Plans Laid for Constructive Work This Week—Seven of Eleven Committees Make Report.

Although the fund being raised by the local committees of the Woodrow Wilson Club for campaign purposes did not quite top the $4,000 mark yesterday, plans for some constructive work were laid at a meeting of the central committee of the club yesterday evening at 6 o'clock at the office of Chairman W. A. McGirt, in the Masonic Temple, and before the end of the coming week, it is expected that the goal ultimately set will be almost, if not quite, attained.

Present at the meeting yesterday was Mr. Hugh MacRae, treasurer of the State Finance Committee, who brought the encouraging news tnat thus far the State as a whole has contributed even more than four years ago and the movement to help Wilson win is gaining momentum everywhere. While the movement in Wilmington may be a little slow for the present, the number of contributors—something like 300—shows that the interest is wide and that the people as a mass are realising the force of the argument that is essentially a people's movement and many are expected to join in later.

The largest individual contributor yesterday was Senator W. B. Cooper, who gave the committee a check for $50, and made possible the really creditable showing of today, considering the effort expended, the donations thus far having been largely voluntary. The next largest contributor was the Jackson & Bell Company, the firm with which Sheriff-elect Jackson is identified and which always manifests a lively interest in the public affairs of Wilmington. Several other smaller contributions came in collectively through Capt. Warren L. Jones, who never loses an opportunity of speaking a good word for the Democratic candidate and who has done some good work in the present campaign.

The reports yesterday were notable for the fact that seven out of the eleven teams made report of some activity in th campaign, four of the other teams not reporting but sending assurances that they will be heard from later.

The list of contributors yesterday is as follows:

IMPROVEMENTS AT WINOCA

Wilmington's Handsome Suburb Rapidly Building Up—Modern Conveniences.

Winoca Terrace, Wilmington's handsome eastern terrace is rapidly becoming one of the popular residential sections of the city. New streets are now being opened, trees and shrubs are adding their beauty to the scene, and gas, electricity, sewerage and water are now available.

The building boom that has struck Wilmington within the last month is also being felt in Winoca. Among the new buildings that will shortly be erected are the new Trinity Methodist church, the County High School, and the Church of the Covenant. The latter will, when completed, be one of the handsomest buildings in the city of Wilmington.

One reason for the popularity of Winoca, in addition to its natural beauty, is the easy terms on which lots are sold to prospective homebuilders.

Mr. W. C. Yarborough is building a handsome home in Winoca, while ground will be broken in a few days for the erection of the residence of Mr. Thomas H. Wright. Mr. Louis E. Hall, is also preparing to build a modern residence in this suburb, Mr. J. B. McCabe has just completed a residence and Mr. Paul L. Gray also has one in course of construction.

SOUTHPORT NEWS NOTES OF INTEREST IN SOCIAL REALM

Southport, Oct. 14.—There is considerable local interest here over the coming State fair at Raleigh. It si expected that with fine weather a good many will take the trip, the rates being attractive, and a visit to the State's capital is always worth the trip and expense.

Dr. George Watson left this week for New York City, his trip for personal and business purposes. He expects to be absent several weeks.

Mrs. J. Berg has gone to Raleigh to visit friends, and attend the State Fair.

Mr. George Singletary, a former Brunswick county boy, who has been away for some 20 years, being in the government service at Philadelphia, is enjoying his vacation here with relatives.

Miss Alice Adkins has accepted a position in a Kinston school, and left this week to assume her duties at that place.

The literary department of the Civic club had its first meeting of the fall last Wednesday. The Bible is the subject for this department during the fall and winter months, to be considered from its different parts.

Its first consideration was taken by Mrs. Annie O. Robinson, her subject being "The Bible, by Whom Written, and for What," an introduction presenting most interesting phases for the beginning of the course that the department has taken up.

The social side of the afternoon's meeting, light refreshments, was ably presided over by Mesdames J. J. Adkins and C. Ed. Taylor.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR AND SOCIAL NEWS FROM WARSAW

Warsaw, N. C., Oct. 14.—Prof. B. C. Elske led the Christian Endeavor meeting on last Thursday evening, handling the subject, "Consecration of the Schools," in an interesting manner. Prof. M. H. Wooten also made a strong talk on the same subject, urging the necessity of consecrated teachers and committeemen, especially in the rural districts. There were several readings, and a vocal duet by Mrs. D. E. Best and Miss Anna Pierce was greatly enjoyed.

There was a meeting of the several aid societies of the different churches at the Warsaw Inn on Monday afternoon to complete arrangements for the shipping of a car load of old papers, rags, etc., for the benefit of the respective societies.

Mrs. H. L. Stevens has returned from Charleston, S. C., where she went several weeks ago to place her son, Walker, in school at the Citadel Military Academy.

Mrs. H. Formy-Duval, of Whiteville, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. M. K. Moore.

Mrs. J. R. Bissett, of Savannah, Ga., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. A. Womack.

Mrs. C. J. Brown spent Monday in Wilmington, shopping.

Mrs. John Best left Monday for Baltimore with her infant daughter, Evelyn, whom she was taking there for treatment.

Miss Annie Garner spent last week-end in Rocky Mount, where she visited her brother, J. O. Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Long, of Burgaw, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Hazlett.

Mrs. George Beall, of Virginia, spent last week-end with her husband here. Dr. Beall has recently purchased an interest in Carter's warehouse, and will be located here this winter.

Among those who attended the Goldsboro fair this week were Mesdames J. T. Gresham, C. A. Johnson, J. M. Loftin, A. B. Anderson, J. D. Brown, T. B. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Pierce, Mrs. W. L. Hill, Misses Mankie Noble, Elizabeth Moore, and R. D. Johnson, W. B. Aycocke, Mesdames D. E. and R. H. Best, J. H. Pierce and James Hill.

Mrs. Katharine Simmons and granddaughters, Misses Lida, Katie and Maggie May Mann, of Newport, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Garner.

ROBBERS BOLDLY HAUL OFF LOOT IN MACHINE

Thieves Break Into Burnett's Vulcanizing Plant

Many Valuable Automobile Tires Are Stolen from Place—Regular Path of Foot-Prints Lead From Rear Towards Street.

Robbers who are believed to have used an automobile to make their getaway, broke into the rear of Mr. C. S. Burnett's vulcanizing plant on North Third street, between the county court house and the Colonial Apartments, last night between 9 and 10 o'clock and boldly hauled off probably a dozen or two automobile tires which they stole from the plant.

Entrance was secured through a rear window of the plant by breaking out a pane of glass. The window was then raised or else the tires were shoved through the pane.

Mr. Burnett had closed up the plant about 5:30 o'clock, but returned shortly before 10 o'clock to see that everything was all right. The first thing he noticed was that the rear window had been broken into. The tires, of which about 100 or more were stored in the plant, had been scattered around promiscuously, the thieves evidently taking their pick of the lot, for the tires stolen were mostly for the rear wheels of machines, of the Blackstone and Fisk makes.

Mr. Burnett reported the robbery to Chief of Police Williams and a number of officers and plainclothesmen were put to work on the case. As a result of an investigation made at the plant and its surroundings by Sergeant Lane and County Officer H. Mack Godwin, it was discovered that there was a regular path of deeply sunken shoe prints in the soft ground in the rear of the building leading from the broken window out towards Market street, passing through a lane by the little house which used to serve Dr. G. G. Thomas for an office. It is at this point on Market street, less than 200 feet from the Y. M. C. A., that the robbers are believed to have loaded their loot into a machine.

The tag fro mone of the tires where it had fallen off when pulled through the fence back of the plant was found by the officers. This tag showed the number and size of the tire.

When seen last night following the robbery by a Star man, Mr. Burnett stated that he could not estimate his loss in money or give any idea as to the number of tires stolen until he had taken an inventory. This he had not yet done, as he was very busy assisting the officers in running down what is thought may be a good clue to the identity of one or more of the thieves.

LOCAL DOTS.

—The freight steamer Onondaga of the Clyde Line will arrive this morning with a cargo of freight for this port, according to an announcement made by Mr. C. J. Becker, local agent of the Clyde Line. The Onondaga sailed from New York Thursday afternoon. After unloading her cargo of freight here today, she will proceed to Georgetown as early as possible.

—Beginning today revival services will be conducted at the Dock Street Christian church for the remainder of the week. The services will be conducted by Rev. J. E. Reyonlds, pastor of the church. Members of the various churches throughout the city are cordially invited to attend these meetings. Get Rid of Sunburn and Tan.

The delightful way to stop Sunburn is the Magnolia Balm way. It heals the scorched skin and is soothing and refreshing. No matter if you do Tan or Freckle, Magnolia Balm will quickly clear your skin of these blemishes. Just put a little on your face and rub it off again before dry. Easy to use and sure to please.

Magnolia Balm makes you look and feel refreshed after the day's outing. It does not show powder and only the good effect is observed. Many a lady owes her good looks to Magnolia Balm who would rather not tell, and you can't tell a beautifier has been used.

Try a bottle to-day and begin the improvement at once. Buy from your Druggist or by Mail direct.

Three Colors: White, Pink, Rose-Red.

75 cents per bottle for either color.

Master Raymond and little Miss Mildred Singletary, of Loris, S. C., are visiting relatives here.

One of the most enjoyable social events of the season was given by Mr. Charles Garrett, the world's champion walker, who is spending some time here, at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Helms, Tuesday evening. The rooms wore quite a festive appearance with their decorations of autumn flowers. The guests were welcomed and ushered first into the parlor, where for a time they enjoyed themselves "just talking," as was evidenced by the merry strains of laughter, which floated out. Soon, however, the "bewitching moonlight" claimed their attention, and all went out on the beautiful lawn, where they engaged in games. Cake and cream were served. Mr. and Mrs. Helms were assisted in receiving by Miss Mattie Lee Johnston, Mr. Garrett and Mr. Fitzhugh Clark.

The young ladies of the A. MacFayden Band are very enthusiastic over their work now. At a splendid meeting held with Miss Amelia Wooten Tuesday evening, it was decided to have an oyster supper at the hotel Friday night. Beginning at 11 o'clock Saturday morning until 7:30 p. m. oysters will be served at a booth on the postoffice square.

"New Work our Society Should Undertake," was the topic for the very live meeting of the Christian Endeavor Sunday evening. Mr. E. J. Cox was leader. Among the "little things," he suggested that the society undertake was the building of a cement walk from the church to the street. Other lines of work suggested weer that of the Efficiency Campaign, increasing subscription list to the Dixie Endeavorer, having an information committee and emphasizing the pledge in the society. "The half has never yet been told," was beautifully sung by Miss Catharine Lapsley. A report from the Christian Endeavor Society, at Elkton, which was organized by the Clarkton society, states that this is doing a fine work.

The attendance at the Rally Day exercises at the Presbyterian Sunday school on last Sunday was a record-breaker. Of the number enrolled only three were absent. In addition to this there were a number of visitors. The singing was a splendid feature of the exercises. It seemed to have been a time when every one sang. Special music, "Hail to the Prince, Immanuel," and "Hallelujah for the Cross," was furnished by a chorus of about 50 young people. Miss Fay Ritchie very effectively recited, "He's Counting on You." Prof. E. C. Shockley, of the graded school faculty, made an excellent address on "What the Sunday School May Do." The collection which goes to Sunday School Extension amounted to $50.60. One of the most interesting features was the presentation of pins for perfect attendance to about 50 members of the Sunday school. The presentation was made by Rev. W. H. Goodman in a very appropriate manner. It was, indeed, an interesting and thrilling sight to see the recipients go forward as their names were called, the aged, the middle-aged, the young people and the little children, all with that look of eager expectancy on their faces.

BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENTS IN FAYETTEVILLE THE PAST WEEK

Fayetteville, N. C., Oct. 14.—Among the most interesting social events of the week were affairs attendant on the Cooper-Dixon wedding of Wednesday evening and the marriage of Miss Louise Huske and Dr. W. S. Jordan to be solemnized next week. Among the first of these pre-nuptial events was a delightful afternoon affair given by Mrs. E. R. MacKethan in honor of Miss Georgia Dixon, whose marriage to J. Crawford Cooper took place Wednesday night. A number of the younger set were Mrs. MacKethan's guests. Much merriment was afforded by two contests, a Shakesperean wedding and an automobile romance. Mrs. Claude W. Rankin was awarded t box of flowers as the prize in the former, while Miss Sophonia Cooper carried off the prize in the latter—a box of candy. The guests were asked to write on a heart shaped card versified answers to the question, "How can the bride-elect by Mrs. MacKeithan. Another is today?" The clever verses which were written in answer were presented to Miss Dixon to be preserved. A bride book was also presented to the bride-elect by Mrs. MacKathan. Another delightful feature of the afternoon was the vocal and instrumental music by Miss Margaret Cotton and Miss Mary Helen Sheetz. Rose color marked the decorations throughout the house. A salad course was served.

Miss Annie Williams entertained the members of the Cooper-Dixon bridal party Monday evening at her home on Gillespie street. An informal but delightful evening was spent. A salad course was served, followed by cream and cake. The guests were Miss Dixon and Mr. Cooper, Miss Alline Cooper, Miss Margaret McMillan, Miss Ruth Sedberry, Miss Sadie Williams, of Augusta, Ga.; Sol W. Cooper, Jr.; Eugene Crews, of Tarboro, A. H. A. Williams, of Oxford, Philip W. Haigh, R. S. McNeill; Dr. N. B. Cannady, of Laurinburg, A. B. McMillan, Frederick Dixon, and B. R. Huske, Jr.

Preceding the Tuesday night rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Georgia Dixon and J. Crawford Cooper, Mr. S. W. Cooper, father of the groom-elect, entertained the men of the bridal party at a stag party at his home on Anderson street. A seven course supper was served, and a thoroughly enjoyed hour spent by those present. The guests included the groom, his best man, S. W. Cooper, Jr., and groomsmen and ushers; A. H. A. Williams, of Oxford, Eugene Crews, of Tarboro, R. S. McNeill, P. W. Haigh, Dr. N. B. Cannady, of Laurinburg, Frederick Dixon, A. B. McMillan and B. R. Huske, Jr.

After the rehearsal the bridal party was entertained by Miss Margaret Cotton at her home on Haymount. Instrumental and vocal selections by talented members of the party gave added enjoyment to the occasion. A salad course and cake and cream were served.

Miss Sudie Hubbard entertained for Miss Georgia Dixon last week with a miscella neous shower. Miss Hubbard was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. A. L. Hubbard, her sister, Mrs. John McIlwinen and Miss Mary Hubbard, and Miss Hattie Owen. Rook was played and the guests were delighted with several songs by Mrs. N. H. McGeachy and Miss Margaret Cotton.

Miss Louise Huske, whose wedding to Dr. William S. Jordan will occur on Thursday of next week, was complimented by Mrs. J. Carlyle Pope Saturday afternoon. Bridge was played. The occasion was altogether informal, the guests being a dozen intimate friends and relatives of the bride-elect. A delightful afternon was spent, at the close of which refreshments were served.

Miss Huske was again the honoree at a charming affair when Mrs. Annie W. Tillinghast entertained in her honor Tuesday afternon at her home on Mason street. The guests included fourteen girl friends of the bride-elect. The affair was in the form of a miscellaneous shower. Miss Belle Tillghast assisted her mother in receiving the guests. After a rubber of bridge at four tables little Miss Isabel Tillinghas t entered with a bridal bouquet of killarney roses and a basket filled with a varied assortment of packages, which proved to be a shower of gifts for the bride. A salad course was served by Misses Sarah and Helen Tillinghast. The out of town guests present were Miss Eugenia Clark, of Raleigh, who is the guest of Misses Elizabeth and Katherine Robinson, and Miss May Michaux, of Richmond, Va., the guest of Miss Huske.

Miss Louise Huske and Miss Eugenie Clark, the latter the house guest of Misses Elizabeth and Katherine Robinson, were the honorees at an informal afternoon affair given by the Misses Robinson Tuesday. The guests were a few intimate friends. Bridge and rook were played and refreshments were later served.

—Among the arrivals at Hotel Wilmington yesterday were C. R. Russell, West Raleigh; R. N. Crawford, Roseboro; A. S. Chadbourn, Chadbourn.

A NEW SEABOARD SERVICE.

Charlotte Observer Commends Renewed Efforts of Wilmington People.

Always a champion of everything that makes for the betterment of the State, the Charlotte Observer has put in some strong licks for a better train service on the Seaboard between Wilmington and Charlotte and in yesterday's issue there is an editorial commending the renewed efforts of Wilmington business men to secure a more convenient passenger service between the two cities. Says The Observer:

"The Wilmington business people are renewing the oft-repeated effort for a more convenient passenger service between that city and Charlotte. The proposition is being pushed to induce the Seaboard officials to make connection at Hamlet for Wilmington with the train leaving Charlotte about 10 o'clock in the forenoon and which is diverted at Hamlet in the direction of Raleigh. Similarly, a return Charlotte connection with an afternoon train out of Wilmington. This arrangement would give two daylight trains between the two cities and would prove of immense advantage to the traveling public. For years past there has been a demand for a through train between Rutherfordton and Wilmington and this schedule would tend to meet the desires of the traveling public. It is hoped that the present effort will induce the Seaboard to make the schedule petitioned for and give it a try-out."

FROM ARCHITECT TO CLOWN

Ab Johnson Has Had Interesting Career—Likes Work

From the life work of an architect to that of a circus clown is a long jump, but one which was made by Ab Johnson, principal clown with the John Robinson Circus which comes to Wilmington on November 6th for two performances. For 15 years he was a past master of blue prints in his Chicago office. He was very successful and he drew the plans and superintendented the construction of many buildings. One day a circus came to Chicago, and, like hundreds of others, he thought he would have to go and carry the children. He watched the clowns and underneath their make-up he saw the seriousness with which they worked. It impressed him.

Leaving the show grounds he began to think about the clowns. He went to the public library and dug up books as far back as those which dwelt with the days of the circus in the Roman Coliseum. He read about Grimaldi and other ancient buffoons. Then he began to work out stunts and tricks. He placed them on paper and developed them by stage. He found a veteran clown who assisted him in his work. Finally he got a job with a small circus at a still smaller salary.

But Johnson liked the work; that of making others happy. The stunts he did were really marvelous. They were totally different from ordinary clown's stunts. A scout of the John Robinson Circsu saw Mr. Johnson and immediately gave him a contract. For eight years he has been "clownin' for a living'" as Mr. Johnson tersely expresses it and apparently he is in love with the flapsticks.

It is a very difficult act that Mr. Johnson cannot get a burlesque of some kind on. Some of his stunts for this year are: "The Suffragette Parade;" "The Atlantic City Board Walk," and "Broadway After Dark." Mr. Johnson has 51 clowns assisting him in his work.

LARGE EXPENDITURES OF CAPITAL REQUIRED

For Important Southern Developments Announced.

One Represents Investment of $10,000,000—Numerous Enterprises Recorded in Current Issue of Manufacturers Record.

Large expenditures of capital will be required for some of the important Southern development enterprises announced during the past week, one of these being a $10,000,000 investment. These reports of Southern industrial activities are detailed in the Manufacturers Record, which presents the essential features of the many items.

The petroleum industry is represented in a $10,000,000 investment decided upon by a company which will build a 780-mile oil-pipe line from Oklahoma to Chicago. Virginia coal development will be augmented by a $1,500,000 company which will mine on 4,000 acres and intends to build a large coking plant. In Missouri a 10,000-barrel daily capacity oil refinery, reported to cost $1,000,000, will be built. The principal cotton mill item tells of the awarding of contracts for a $160,000 building and a $450,000 equipment of machinery for a North Carolina plant adding to its facilities.

The numerous items in the current Manufacturers Record include facts from which are taken the following brief statements:

Sinclair Cudahy Pipe Line Co., Tulsa, Okla., will invest $10,000,000 to lay 780 miles of oil-pipe line, build pumping stations, etc.; these improvements will include 230 miles of six-inch line from Cushing Okla., to Chanute, Kans.; six-inch line from El Dorado to Chanute, and eight-inch line from Chanute to Chicago.

Sinclair Oil & Refining Co., Tulsa, Okla., will build oil refinery at Kansas City, Mo., daily capacity to be probably 10,000 barrels, with arrangements for increasing to 20,000; reports state that this plant will cost $1,000,000.

Virginia Coal Products Corporation, Tacoma, Va., chartered with $1,500,000 capital to develop 4,000 acres of coal land, these properties including mines now in operation; plans include constructing extensive by-products coking plants.

Clinchfield Manufacturing Co., Marion, N. C., awarded contracts for additional mill, to include $150,000 building and machinery costing $450,000.

Maxwell Motor Co., Detroit, Mich., will build $250,000 plant for assembling automobiles at Kansas City, Mo.

Sebastion Ranch Co., Jacksonville, Fla., incorporated with $250,000 capital to develop land for general farming.

Flint River Cotton Mills, Albany, Ga., awarded contracts for additional mill, to include $26,000 building equipped with machinery costing $140,000.

Pierce-Fordyce Oil Association, St. Louis, will invest $125,000 to build canning plant, construct levee around plant at Texas City, Texas.; cannery to be equipped for daily capacity 10,000 cans and 5,000 cases, etc.

Southern Powder Co., Barboursville, W. Va., incorporated to build dynamite and powder factory costing $100,000.

Piedmont Filler & Stain Co., High Point, N. C., incorporated with $100,000 capital to manufacture filler and stains for furniture factories.

J. V. Nevin, St. Louis, and others will organize $100,000 company to build chemical manufacturing plant, contemplating increasing to $5,000,000 investment within next several years.

Carolina Products Co., Bandana, N. C., chartered with $100,000 capital to mine feldspar.

Bristol Traction Co., Bristol, Tenn., awarded contract for constructing dam, installing electrical machinery, etc., for $75,000 hydro-electric plant on Holston river, near Bristol.

Silver Gray Marble Co., Knoxville, Tenn., incorporated with $75,000 capital to quarry marble.

Continental Refining Co., Bristow, Okla., increased capital from $75,000 to $1,300,000 in connection with plans for further activities in refining crude petroleum.

General Baking Co., Wheeling, W. Va., will build $60,000 bakery.

Western Glass Co., St. Marys, W. Va., chartered with $50,000 capital to manufacture glass.

Penland Clay Co., Penland, N. C., incorporated with $50,000 capital to mine koalin clay.

Goldsboro Milling & Grain Co., Goldsboro, N. C., incorprated with $50,000 capital to manufacture flour, feed and meal.

Clement Veneer & Lumber Co., Pamlico, N. C., chartered with $50,000 capital to manufacture lumber and wood veneers.

Pine Plume Company, Montgomery, Ala. incorporated with $50,000 capital for manufacturing lumber.

Dallas Boiler Works, Dallas Tex., incorporated with $50,000 capital to manufacture boilers.

Bristol Chemical Works, Bristol, Tenn., organized with $50,000 capital and ordered machinery equipment for a plant to manufacture chemicals.

Chattanooga Mirror Works, Chattanooga, Tenn., incorporated with $25,000 capital to manufacture mirrors and other similar products.

Dunbar Land Co., Dunbar, W. Va., awarded contract for electric power driven plant with daily capacity 50,000 bricks.

FORMER WILMINGTONIAN MAKES SUCCESS IN LUMBER BUSINESS.

Mr. Justice Acquires Extensive Timber Holdings in South Carolina.

Friends in this city will be pleased to learn of the great success which has been won by Mr. J. E. Justice in the lumber business. Mr. Justice left Wilmington several years ago and is now doing an extensive business in South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana.

According to a letter received here by a friend, Mr. Justice has been able through his operations in the lumbering industry to amass a considerable fortune. This letter states that he recently put through a big deal by which he acquired 10,000 acres of land in South Carolina with a fine growth of pine, cypress and hardwood timber on it. The uncut timber on the land is estimated to aggregate 250,000,000 feet, and is valued at $500,000. Within the near future, it is stated, he will operate a number of saw mills on his new timber holdings.

MUCH BUILDING GOING ON

Many New Residences Going Up in Wilmington—Activity Not Up to Average of Past Years.

After a lull during the summer months, Wilmington is again awakening to a building boom that speaks eloquently of a Greater Wilmington of the future. In Carolina Place, Carolina Court, Oleander and Winoca, as well as in the more thickly settled portions of the city, the taps of the hammer, the rasp of the saw, and the scape of the trowel are vieing with the whirr of the trolleys, and honk of automobiles.

Carolina Place is just now one of the city's principal centers in the building industry. Among the new buildings that will shortly be erected in Carolina Place are two residences belonging to Messrs. August Meyland and J. B. Fox. The former will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000, while the latter will cost approximately $3,200. Another handsome dwelling that will shortly be erected in this neighborhood will be that of Mr. O. T. Wallace, on Market street, between 15th and 16th streets, to cost approximately $5,000. Mr. Joe Canady is also to build a residence at Carolina Court which will cost when completed $2,700.

Winoca Terrace is another suburb in which building is now quite active. Mr. W. C. Yarborough is building a beautiful modern brick home at 15th and Princess streets which will cost $4,000. In the next block is the home just completed by Mr. J. B. McCabe while a little further is the residence of Mr. Paul H. Greer, now in course of construction, which is to cost $1,500. At the corner of 15th and Chestnut streets Mr. Thos. H. Wright will break ground in a few days for a residence while just to the east Mr. Louis E. Hall is to build his home.

Just on the edge of Winoca, at 15th and Market streets ,there is now in process of erection the Church of the Cavenant, which will be one of the architectural beauties of Wilmington.

The boom has also struck Wrightsville avenue. Mr. Marvin J. Cowell is to build a $2,500 residence at No. 115 while Mr. E. A Palmgren is erecting one at the same cost at No. 113.

The colored people are also becoming active in the building of new homes. Among the building permits recently granted was one to John H. Hall for the erection of a residence on Red Cross street between Eighth and Ninth at a cost of $1,500 and another to G. Harris for the erection of a residence on Seventh street between Marsteller and Kidder at a cost of $750.

While the new buildings that are now under process of construction greatly exceed those of the early part of the year, the totals for the years as a whole, falls below the average set in preceding years.

IN THE RECORDER'S COURT

Only Two Cases Disposed of at Yesterday's Session.

Mr. W. D. Colwell, the driver of the automobile that injured the mules belonging to the Independent Ice Company a few night ago, was arraigned in the Recorder's court yesterday morning on a charge of blockading traffic. He submitted and his case was left open for judgment until Monday.

Norton James was taxed with the costs in the case charging him with an assault on a female. He was unable to pay same and was given 60 days in default. He was later recognized, however.

BOYS' CLUB ORGANIZED

Y. M. C. A. Youngsters Organized for Season of Work and Play.

The clubs for 1916-17 in both sections of the Business Boys' Class in the Y. M. C. A. have been organized. These clubs meet weekly for Bible study, and for athletic and gymnastic study. Competition between the clubs runs October to May of each year. The club serves as a medium through which all the activities of the club are directed. The clubs are as follows:

Section A.—Lawyers' Club—Harry Merritt, captain; Walter Bradshaw, Claude Gore, William Brittain, Winfield Morris, Herman Pearson. Bankers' Club—Montrose Hinnant, captain; Carl Williams, Edward Snakenberg, Emmitt Delano, Hubert Dobson, George McConnell.

TO HOLD RALLY DAY

Columbus County Farmers Will Mobilize at Chadbourn.

Columbus county will hold its Agricultural and Educational rally day in Chadbourn Friday, October 27. One of the feature of the day will be a parade of 2,000 school children. Agricultural exhibits will be brought from all sections of the county by the farmers. It is expected that at least 10,000 people will be on hand. A special train will leave Wilmington in time to reach Chadbourn at 10 o'clock, and returning will leave Chadbourn at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

DON'T BE BALD

Here's a Good Way to Stop Loss of Hair and Start New Hair Growth

If the hair root is absolutely dead, permanent baldness will be your lot, and you might as well cheer up as to bemoan your fate.

If your hair is falling or thinning out, don't wait another day, but go to R. R. Bellamy and get a bottle of Parisian Sage, the truly efficient hair grower.

Don't say, "It's the same old story; I've heard it before," but try a bottle at their risk. They guarantee Parisian Sage to grow hair, to stop falling hair, to cure dandruff and stop scalp itch, or money back.

Parisian Sage contains just the elements needed to properly invigoarte and nourish the hair roots. It's a prime favorite with discriminating ladies because it makes the hair soft, bright and appear twice as abundant. It is antiseptic, killing the odors that are bound to arise from excretions of the scalp and, as everyone knows, sage is excellent for the hair and scalp.

Parisian Sage is inexpensive and easily obtainable at drug and toilet counters everywhere.

PAY CASH AND BUY FOR LESS

"GET THE ROYAL CASH HABIT"

High Quality GROCERIES Are No Excuse for High Prices

The Only Thing High About Our Groceries Is the Quality--Our Cash Basis Insures Low Prices to All.

The Royal Grocery Stores Save You Money

Lowest Prices in Town

These stores have been opened for YOU. They are backed by a large capital and men of long experience. While some few of our prices are at present the same, ninety per cent of them are lower than the lowest prices in town. The Royal's quality is THE BEST, MOST SANITARY, AND FRESHEST. Our motto is: "A Large Volume of Business; Quick Sales, and Small Profits." The company only asks profits large enough to carry the small expenses attached. With the increase of business our prices will drop lower. If these stores already opened continue with their present success, many other stores will be opened; then you will see where by giving your trade now to these stores you are helping to pave your way to much larger savings., because buying for a large chain of stores we will be able to make even lower prices than our present low ones.

Don't Pay for Others' Mistakes

Who pays for the following items? YOU. YOU pay for the merchants' old-fashioned methods, his mistakes in trading are charged up to YOU; his expense of keeping an unnecessary number of expensive delivery teams loafing at the back door are charged up to you. His slipshod system allows some goods to go out uncharged, and others stolen are charged to you.

YOU, the consumer, pay for these mistakes, and many more unnecessary expenses which he puts on your bill; therefore, why run these risks with a small or large credit store of this nature?

Make up your mind and start now on the saving road, by paying cash for your groceries at the Royal stores. Strain a point, and, if necessary, make a sacrifice, and make the Royal stores your stores.

WILL CONSIDER PROTESTS

Number of Citizens on North Second Street Object to Presence of Tents for the Fair.

Some of the citizens residing on North Second street as well as several on Chestnut street, having made a protest in the form of a petition against the placing of tents on the thoroughfares in question for the Corn Show, members of City Council will hold a conference tomorrow at 11 o'clock for the purpose of hearing any grievances that anyone has to make.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Corn Show has been called for 11:30 tomorrow morning at the Chamber of Commerce to take up these grievances with a view to adjusting them to the entire satisfaction of all parties concerned.

The petition of residents of Second street is understood to have 26 names on it and was filed with Mayor Moore Friday. The petition was addressed to City Council, which granted permission for the use of the streets. These residents feel that the presence of the tents on the streets would cause them much inconvenience and they do not believe that the city should use the streets for such purposes.

While there have been protests on the part of some of the residents, many others have expressed their willingness to have the tents on the streets, as they do not want to put anything in the way of Wilmington's annual fair.

The present plans of the executive committee are to place the tents on North Second street between Chestnut and Grace and along Chestnut between Front and Third, extending along Chestnut for about a half block on either side of Second street. This location was selected because of its central location in the down town district.

WAS HE ROBBED?

Negro Reports Burglary to Police But Dog Fails to Find Trail.

Preston Campbell, colored, of 1016 1-2 Seventh street, reported to the police last night that someone had entered had entered his house about 8 o'clock and stole a 38-calibre Smith & Wesson revolver, and several valuable papers. Policemen W. H. Rivenbark and H. G. Bullard were sent to the scene but reported that they could find no trace of any burglar.

In the meantime, another telephone message was received at headquarters saying that the burglar was surrounded in the house. The patrol auto was hurried out accompanied by Sergeant Lane and Policemen M. C. Gray and W. H. Kermon.

When the party arrived at the scene of the alleged burglary, they found that the report of the miscreant being surrounded was untrue, and Campbell when questioned by the officers could give no connected account of the trouble. The city bloodhound was carried to the scene but while he picked up a trail leading to the house, he refused to find one leading away.

POINTS OUT CONVENIENCES OF SOUTHPORT AS COALING STATION

Captain of Swedish Steamer Tells of Advantages Over Other Ports.

That Southport can very conveniently be used as a coaling station for steamers plying from South Atlantic and Gulf ports to Europe, is the belief of the captain of the Swedish steamer "Lilly" bound from New Orleans to her home port of Sverridge, Sweden, which coaled there last week for the long trip across the Atlantic. In regard to the superior advantages of Southport as a coaling station, the Southport News of this week has the following to say:

"The Swedish steamer 'Lilly,' of Sverridge, from New Orleans to her home port in Sweden came into Southport the latter part of last week for coal. The captain in conversation with Mr. J. W. Thompson, H. E. Godwin and other business men of our town, stated that he had no idea of Southport's convenient location for a coaling station. He said all vessels from the southward could coal here and save a lot of time over coaling at Charleston or Newport News, that all that is necessary is put the coal here and advertise the fact and the business will come. Why not make an effort to put Southport on the map? We have got every natural advantage. Why neglect them any longer?"

GODWIN AND McCASKILL IN COLUMBUS THIS WEEK

Wattville Speaking Cancelled; Hour at Pireway Changed.

The itinerary for the joint canvass of Congressman Godwin and his Republican opponent, Mr. A. L. McCaskill, of Fayetteville, in Columbus county this week has been slightly altered, according to announcement from Mr. Godwin received in the city last night. Wattville has been cut out of the Columbus schedule and the hour for speaking at Pireway next Thursday moved up from 2 p. m. to 11 a. m. This change is by mutual agreement between the candidates.

The places and hour at which the candidates will speak in Columbus this week are as follows: Tuesday, Whiteville afternoon, Boardman night; Wednesday, Fair Bluff afternoon, Tabor night; Thursday, Pireway, 11 a. m. The afternoon hour is 2 o'clock and the night hour is 7 o'clock.

DR. HURT TO DELIVER SERIES OF SERMONS AT FIRST CHURCH

Will Preach Four Special Sermons on "God's Revelation of Himself"

A series of sermons under the general head of "God's Revelation of Himself" will be delivered at the 11 o'clock services at the First Baptist church, by Rev. Dr. John Jeter Hurt, the pastor, beginning this morning. The subject of the first of the four sermons, which will be given only at the morning services on four successive Sabbaths, is "God Speaking Through the Voice of Nature."

The subjects and dates for the remainder of the series follow: October 22, "God Manifesting Himself in Human History;" October 29, "God Testifying of Himself in Terms of Individual Experience;" November 5, "God's Full-Orbed Revelation in His Word."

GREAT ATLANTIC FILM COMPANY ORGANIZED HERE

Mr. Marx Nathan Manager of Distributing Concern for Feature Service.

Wilmington now has a moving picture distributing exchange, this being the Great Atlantic Film Company, of which Mr. Marx S. Nathan, a man of wide experience in the theatrical business in this city and throughout the country, is general manager. The company was organized several weeks ago and has already begun the distribution of feature films. It will make a specialty of the distribution of Charlie Chaplin feature films in the two Carolinas.

The first release of the Wilmington concern was Charlie Chaplin in "The Mixup," a revue in four parts, which has been shown in a large number of houses in the two Carolinas as well as in Virginia during the past four weeks.

Mr. Nathan will leave tonight for New York to close a deal whereby the Great Atlantic will distribute in this section the entire output of one of the largest independent makers of Chaplin features in the country. The Wilmington concern will have a release for each month in the year. It will have its offices in Wilmington and the promoters of the concern look forward to doing a large business.

Mr. Nathan will give his entire time to this enterprise and his many friends here will be glad to know that he has chosen Wilmington, which is well located for the distribution of moving picture films as the numerous trains going in and out make it possible to reach a large part of South Carolina and practically all of North Carolina in quick time. Mr. Nathan has had very satisfactory results in distributing his first release, far surpassing his expectations.

The Charlie Chaplin films are in great demand as he is a favorite with moving picture admirers and is recognized as America's foremost moving picture comedian.

APPLICATION FORWARDED FOR FARM LOAN ASSOCIATION

New Hanover Farmers Have Subscribed for Loans Aggregating $45,000.

The application for a farm loan association for New Hanover county, the temporary organization of which was perfected at a meeting on Thursday night, was forwarded to Raleigh yesterday and will be made a part of the data which is being brought together for the purpose of securing the farm loan bank for this district for the capital of the State. The bank will be established at the most central point, considered from the number of loans to be made and it is believed by many that Raleigh offers the greatest advantages in this respect of any city in the State. Charlotte is making a strong bid for it also.

The total amount of loans that have been applied for by New Hanover farmers, said Farm Demonstrator J. P. Herring yesterday, is $45,000. At the organization meeting, $30,000 was subscribed for right off the bat.

SUCCESSOR TO DR. HURT TO BE CALLED AT DURHAM TODAY

First Baptist Church of That City to Call Dr. B. D. Gaw

Durham, N. C., Oct. 14.—The First Baptist church of this city tomorrow will extend a call to Dr. B. D. Gaw, of Washington, D. C., to become the pastor of this church, succeeding Rev. Dr. John J. Hurt, who resigned early last summer to accept a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Wilmington, effective July 1.

While no official announcement to this effect has yet been made, it is known that the pulpit committee has decided upon Dr. Gaw and that he has signified his willingness to accept the formal call when extended to him, which formality is scheduled for tomorrow.

Dr. Gaw is at present pastor of the West Washington Baptist church, of the National Capital. He is a graduate of Richmond College at Richmond, Va., which institution also conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

HANDSOME COSTUMES SECURED FOR MASONIC DEGREE TEAM.

St. John's Lodge to Put on Work Under Direction of Grand Lecturer.

Handsome costumes have been purchased by St. John's Lodge of Masons, which will be used for the first time in conferring the sublime degree of Master Mason at an emergent communication to be held in the Chapter room of the Masonic Temple on next Tuesday evening. This work will be under the direction of Rev. J. W. Rowell, of Waxhaw, assistant grand lecturer of the North Carolina Grand Lodge of Masons, who is spending two weeks in Wilmington assisting the local lodges in putting on their work.

The first section of the work will be given at 6:15 and will be followed by a supper at 7:30 P. M. The lodge will resume work at 8:15 P. M. There will be five candidates for the degree.

LIKE ROBINSON SHOWS

Mayor McNeill and Sheriff McGeachy, of Fayetteville, Wire Approval.

That the John Robinson shows, which are to exhibit in Wilmington on November 6th, is a clean and up-to-date circus is the opinion of Mayor Jas. D. McNeill and Sheriff N. H. McGeachy, of Fayetteville, according to night letter telegrams received from them in Wilmington yesterday by Mayor Moore, Sheriff Cowan and Chief of Police Williams. The shows were in Fayetteville Friday and the telegrams, which were also signed by Deputy Sheriff J. McD. Monaghan, stated that they had found it one of the best shows that ever exhibited there, "first-class, up-to-date and clean in every respect. Its officers and their conduct and business dealings with us proved them to be men of honesty and sobriety and their courteousness to all our officials and to the public was especially marked."

RECORD OF STEWARDSHIP

What Has Been Accomplished in the Postal Service During This Administration—Betterments and Progress in All Directions.

Washington, Oct. 14.—All the great departments of the government are naturally interested in having their administration of these important trusts approved by the people—the progress and notable achievements made by each brought to public notice. The Postal Service, from its very close relation to all classes, touching them at all points as a common carrier ,as well as the watchful guardian of certain of their public interests and comfort, is peculiarly concerned that its efforts in the line of public service shall measure up to their fullest needs and merit their approving consent. No administration of public affairs, however, can hope to escape criticism, no matter how well conducted, for even the measures of wise and judicious econom may cause complaint when old-established methods and customs are disturbed by the march of progressive reforms. Public administrators, however, look to the larger accomplishments possible, and it is the adherence to this principle which has enabled the Postoffice Department to do so much for the general welfare during the past few years.

Take, for instance, the parcel post. The wider view of possible benefits has simplified mailing conditions, twice reduced the rates, increased the limits of size and weight several times, and extended express facilities not only to cities and towns on regular transportation lines, but to the people along a million miles of rural route. Practical aid has also been given in developing the idea so that producer and consumer are alike benefitted, waste measurably eliminated, and living conditions made better. A traffic reaching a billion parcels annually testifies the popular appreciation of this great public accommodation.

Postal savings. Unnecessary restrictions have been removed and the plan popularized and encouraged, thus bringing into circulation the hoarded savings of the poor by the assured security of government control. That the public appreciates the advantage thus afforded is seen in the increased number of depositors from 310,000 to 616,000, and in the amount deposited from $30,036,325 to $92,000,000.

City delivery has been extended to 2,000,000 additional homes, thereby according this benefit to something like 6,000,000 people in all heretofore denied this service. That this enlargement of privilege and opportunity was a wise measure is shown by the per capita expenditure for postal accommodation, which has grown from $2.58 in 1912 to nearly $3 in 1916. Greater postal facilities mean not only more patrons, but more is spent in postage because of these afforded conveniences, and the public revenue thereby considerably increased.

Village delivery. The introduction of this new feature of public accommodation, supplying the need of people who were not included in either city of rural delivery, marks a progressive step in postal improvements which has met with general satisfaction and will prove of great benefit to patrons who are now being given the service. Two hundred and seventeen small municipalities are already enjoying these free-delivery advantages, and the number will be rapidly increased.

Rural delivery. New routes have been established and extended in over ten thousand localities, affording service to approximately 3,200,000 patrons previously without it. The number of families who now have this service amount to 5,719,602, as shown by a recent tabulation made, of which over 658,000 were added between April, 1913, and April, 1916, an evidence of remarkable activity in the management of this branch of postal affairs, as gratifying to the Department as it must be to those who are its beneficiaries. Rural delivery now accommodates 26,307,685 patrons, and the delivery by automobiles and other means of conveyance shows an increase of 17,484,408 parcels in the past three years.

The inclusion of books in parcel-post classification is another advanced step for public benefit, materially reducing postage on such matter, an item of considerable interest to reading people.

The objectionable use to which window-delivery service may be subjected has led to an active and vigorous campaign by the Department to check the possibility of making this public accommodation a channel for unworthy purposes. This particular service offers such opportunity for misuse that especial supervision is necessary to prevent it, and this will be given.

One thousand new steel cars have been placed on the lines of the Railway Mail Service for the protection of postal clerks and a liability law enacted for the relief of employees engaged in this hazardous service. Mail transportation has also been increased on 6,248.69 miles of railway.

The question of the betterment of the road problem has been considered and taken up by co-operation with the Department of Agriculture and with the states and counties in the construction of post roads, which is expected to result in continued improvement, and facilitate to a great extent the work of the rural carrier in traveling these roads.

The large post offices of the country have been standardized, and new and up-to-date methods adopted by which better and more efficient service can be secured. The advantage of this is seen in the rapid accomplishment of the annual audit of the revenue and expense of the department for the present fiscal year, the earliest report ever made in the history of the Postoffice Department, which is entirely due to improved systems of accounting and the high standard of efficiency among postmasters.

Great economies in the purchase and manufacture of mail equipment have been carried out, whereby vast sums of money are annually saved to the government—over $6,000,000 annually by the reduction of weight in equipment for railway transportation.

The fraud-law statutes to prevent the use of the mails for swindling purposes have been vigorously enforced and will be continued for the public protection.

More than $1,000,000 have been saved on a four-year coniract for supplying the government with stamped envelopes, and competition has been encouraged and secured in awarding contracts for postoffice quarters and supplies, effecting large savings in these several directions.

And above all, notwithstanding the great loss caused by the low rates for second-class matter and the heavy expenditure for rural delivery and the fact that for twenty-nine years preceding 1913 there was an annual deficit, the gratifying announcement is made that the department is now not only self-supporting, but will turn back into the treasury this year a surplus of $5,742,000.

It is only just to say that no opportunity has been neglected in any direction whereby money could be saved and conditions improved. While the saving of money is always a public duty, it is not everything—not the great essential of public administration. Service, always service, this is the great and commanding need—more than better accommodation, greater convenience and comfort, whatever makes for peace and contentment. These are things more to be desired tha nthe saving of money; but if both can be secured—more and better service for less money—then the purpose and aim of wise administration has been accomplished, the utmost given that any man can expect or desire.

No more important responsibilities can be imposed in men under our form of government than that of maintaining a service so fundamental to the welfare and happiness of the people. For the time being, these responsibilities rest upon the Postmaster General and his army of employes, and the way these duties are met and discharged will be measured by the extent to which the service has been made beneficial, all graft and special privilege eliminated, and all individuals and communities treated alike. In accordance with the belief that this has been well and conscientiously done will the public verdict be rendered and final judgment given.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS AND RIGHT OF WAY PROBLEMS

They are Principal Difficulties in Uniform Traffic Regulations.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Right-of-way and glaring headlights are the two things which stand out ahead of everything else in the uniform traffic problem, according to Chairman O. I. Yellott of the A. A. A. Legislative Board, which has taken up this large subject in a determined effort to bring about a country-wide understanding. Evidence that all of the states are interested in this plan of the organized motorists is apparent in the letters being received by Chairman Yellott. From Washington comes this comment by Secretary of State L. M. Howell:

"The American Automobile Association is certainly on the right track now, and if you will compile something that can be made uniform throughout the United States I know of no reason why it could not be passed in each one of the several states. Send us something and we will try and put it in the motor vehicle code at the next session of the Washington State legislature."

From Maine, State Highway Commissioner P. J. Deering asserts that the Pine Tree State, particularly because of its large number of summer road visitors, wants uniform regulations such as he expects will be proposed by the A. A. A. board. Incidentally, Mr. Deering is president of the Maine Automobile Association.

President C. H. Ellis of the Louisiana Motor League admits that 'way down in New Orleans—to which old city the persistent motorist is finding his way—there is need of uniformity in the handling of traffic, while from many other sections of country the communications make clear that the time has arrived for comprehensive attention.

To the recent meeting of the A. A. A. Executive Board came an invited committee from the Society of Automobile Engineers, which has been at work for some time on the subject of glaring head lights. While the engineers have not come to a finality upon all the details, their spokesman supplied information which would seem to assure a complete answer in the comparatively near future.

In the matter of right-of-way, the consensus of the meeting was in favor of a plan which would provide that a vehicle give way on the right or on the left to an approaching vehicle, eliminating any north-south versus east- st regulation or giving through traffic on the main arteries the advantage. In New Jersey and Maryland, the state law now includes a right-of-way to vehicles approaching on the left, which in many states north- south traffic has precedence over that going in the other directions.

Chairman Yellott is hopeful that he may be able to submit a report which will be available for the annual legislative period in a large number of states.

MANGLED FORM OF AGED WOMAN FOUND ON COAST LINE TRACK

Rocky Mount Police Believe it is a Case of Suicide.

(Special Staff Correspondence).

Rocky Mount, N. C., Oct. 14.—The body of Mrs. E. J. Grimth was found at an early hour this morning a few miles from this city on the Norfolk division of the Atlantic Coast Line. There is some mystery surrounding her death. Her body shows signs of having been struck by a train, and a badly crushed skull and mangled feet gives the appearance of having been struck as one approaching the track.

Her previous despondency, coupled with the fact that a purse which was found which was known to have been one of her possessions was found on the limb of a tree near the track strengthens the belief advanced by the police that the death was an act of suicide accomplished by dashing on the track in front of one of the night trains. None of the crews of any of the night trains, however, report having observed any such unusual act.

The deceased was a woman of advanced years and came to this city about five years ago practicing her profession as a massaure. Recently, however, poor health and her inability to earn has caused her to become a charge on local charities organizations, a condition that she deplored.

The funeral was held this afternoon by Rev. Livingston Johnson, of the First Baptist church, after which interment was made in Pineview cemetery.

MARKET HOUSE BURNED

Wooden Structure at Norfolk is Destroyed in Less Than an Hour.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 14—From fire which started in a stall where fire had been kindled for dressing poultry, the Norfolk City Market, a wooden structure covering a block in the down town section, was destroyed today in less than an hour. Fanned by a stiff wind, the fire for a while threatened the municipal building adjoining.

B. F. Twiford, the oldest huckster in the market, died of apoplexy scaused by the excitement.

THE MOVIES

Where are you going, O father, to day?
Down to the movies, I've just got my pay.
Where are you going, O dear mother mine?
Down to the movies before we shall dine.

Where are you going, my sister so sweet?
Down to the movies, my sweetheart to meet?
Where are you going, big brother so tall?
Down to the movies, I go to them all.

Where are you going, O wee little maid?
Down to the movies, my dear sir, she said.
Where are you going, my dear little man?
Down to the movies as fast as I can.

Where are you going, O baby and nurse?
Down to the movies with ticket in purse.
Where are you going, O butler and cook?
Down to the movies, we must have a look.

Never mind if we do not pay grocer's bill,
And the butcher so oft' sees empty till;
That the bill for the hat is still unpaid;
The bill from the tailor in drawer is laid.

It matters not then if weowe fo rthe car,
Or diamonds that twinkle like a bright star.
We cannot afford newspaper nor book,
The washwoman owe and also the cook.

No matter if we a cent never give,
Why should we care how the preacher does live;
The doctor unpaid, though when we are sick
He makes no delay but comes to us quick.
Board bill not paid and no money for rent,
Down to the movies if it takes our last cent;
Soon we will manage all home ties to sever
And live at the movies for ever and ever.

Unshaken Testimony

Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Wilmington. No Wilmington resident who suffers backache, or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony.

L. H. Partin, grocer, Market and Ninth Sts., Wilmington, says: "My back was weak and lame and I had pains across my loins. The kidney secretions were highly colored, painful in passage and contained sediment. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Bellamy's Drug Store, cleared up the kidney secretions. I was also relieved of the aches and pains in my back and loins."

(Statement given on February 25, 1908.)

On April 5, 1915, Mr. Partin said: "As soon as I notice that my kidneys are not acting as they should, I take Doan's Kidney Pills for a few days and they never fail to do the work."

MUST CHOOSE PEACE AS IT EXISTS AT PRESENT OR A CHANGE IN POLICY

to see you, but let me say that I am especially glad to see you because there are some things which perhaps Pennsylvanians are more qualified to tell about than any other people in the United States. They are better qualified to testify as to the subtle and intricate means by which the purposes of the people are sometimes defeated by their government, because I know how true it is that the people of Pennsylvania have again and again attempted to demonstrate to the rest of the Union that they believed that we had come into a new age, that they believed that this new age required new elements of policy, that they desired men to lead them who would lead them to the light and not again drag them into the subterranean passages of private influence, and, therefore, I think it will be easier to expound this campaign to Pennsylvanians than to anybody else. There are a great many things that you will understand without my putting them into words.

"And the same thing is happening in New Jersey. Six years ago I had the distinguished pleasure of exhibiting the government of New Jersey to the people of New Jersey in its true colors as it lived. I only wish I had time to exhibit it now that it has resurrected itself.

Nation-Wide Attempt.

"And exactly the same thing that is happening in Pennsylvania, the same thing that they are attempting in New Jersey, is being attempted in the nation at large.

"Therefore, those of us who are inducted into the secrets of the craft know that the talk is in vain, and that the real counsels of the party are in that other element which is in absolute control of the organization of the party in Congress and out of it, and whose control has never for a moment been disturbed and never been shaken.

"The contest at Chicago four years ago, and the contest at Chicago this year were for the control of the machinery of the party. I don't mean on the part of the rank and file of the Progressives for, my fellow citizens, no more earnest and sincere body of men were ever assembled than assembled in those two Progressive conventions at Chicago. And no more sincere and earnest men were ever more pitifully deceived and betrayed.

Congress the Real Machine.

"There is something quite as important as the choice of a chief magistrate. I want you to remember that the real sources of action and the real machinery of obstruction are in Congress, not in the presidency.

"Do you suppose that anything could have been accomplished in the last three and a half years if there had not been a determined and willing majority in the Congress? I have not led these gentlemen, I have gone forward with them. I call your attention to the fact that there is nowhere recorded a single Wilson policy. Everything that I have asked that Congress to do was written in the pledges of the party itself. And the only power I have exercised is the power of co-operation, the power that all men exercise when, insisting upon the obvious duties of a great hour, men take part to do a great thing.

"It is a very interesting circumstance, my fellow citizens, that the House of Representatives is less docile than the Senate of the United States. In the House of Representatives it has again and again happened that the Republican minority has broken away from the control of its leaders and voted, sometimes by a majority of its members, sometimes almost unanimously, for the measures which have distinguished the action of the present Democratic Congress.

"Only upon one conspicuous occasion did the contrary happen, when the Republican machine was able to compel a majority of its members in the House of Representatives to vote that American citizens had no right to travel on the high seas. If their leaders believe in the rights of American citizens, why don't their followers?"

Senate More Docile.

"But it is another story in the Senate of the United States. There a serene confidence obtains in the private conferences of the Senate. I have never been admitted to their privacy but I have seen their performance, and the most reactionary men in America have absolutely controlled the action of the minority in the United States Senate, except for a few examples of independence by distinguished individuals who did not care to be mastered and owned by a body. * * *

"Now these gentlemen are in obvious and undisputed control of the organization of the Republican party. It is they who are counselling their leaders to say as little as possible and to say it in as confused a way as possible, so that nobody may know how to calculate their orbit from day to day. * * *

The Supreme Question.

"So that it all comes down, my fellow citizens, to a very simple proposition. Are you going to leave your government under the control of people who do know and who will tell what they are going to do, or are you going to put it in the hands of men who will not tell you what they are going to do and will serve their private interests? The choice is bigger than that. I understand from the leaders of the Republican party that nothing that has been done has been done right. * * *

"But America knows that the things that were done did obtain peace and it does not know that the things that might have been done would have obtained peace, so that America knows that it is faced with this choice: Peace, the continuance of the development of business along the lines which it has now established and developed and the maintenance of well known progressive lines of action, on the one hand; or, on the other, a disturbance of policy all along the line—new conditions, new adjustments, undefined alterations of policy and back of it all invisible government.

"At this present moment—I want to repeat this—perhaps the country has not realized it enough, at this present moment it is almost impossible to do anything positive in the field of foreign affairs because foreign nations have been led to suppose that there may be a change in our foreign affairs. Foreign nations have been led to believe that a dominant element in the Republican party is in favor of drawing the United States into the European war and they have been told, with abundant evidence, that it is probable that if the Republicans succeed we shall enter upon policy of exploitation of our neighbors in Mexico. * * *

"I want you to realize the part that the United States must play. It has been said, my fellow citizens, been said with cruel emphasis in some quarters, that the people of the United States do not want to fight about anything. That is profoundly false.

"But the people of the United States want to be sure what they are fighting about and they want to be sure that they are fighting for the things that will bring the world justice and peace. * * *

America Would Fight.

"America is always ready to fight for things that are American. She does not permit herself to be embroiled, but she does know what it would be to be challenged. And when once she is challenged there is not a man in the United States, I venture to say, so mean, so forgetful of the great heritage of this nation, that he would not give everything he possessed, including life itself, to stand by the President of this nation. * * *

"We are saving ourselves in order that we may unite in that final league of nations in which it shall be understood that there is no neutrality where any nation is doing wrong."

PANAMA CANAL TRAFFIC.

Despite "Hard Luck" Occurrences It Is Proving Its Worth.

(From Christian Science Monitor.)

Notwithstanding practically eleven months' interruption of business in the waterway, with the consequent diversion of vessels that had begun to use it regularly, the traffic of the Panama canal for July of this year, as compared with that of August, 1915, a month preceding the slides which eventually closed it to all shipping, was most encouraging. In August a year ago 170 ships passed through the locks, and the revenue from tolls reached $500,000; last month the number of ships passing through was 145 and the tolls collected footed up $465,000. Traffic is now constantly increasing, and it is anticipated that the record for August, 1916, will be better than that of August, 1915. It necessarily requires time to bring shipping diverted by the slides back to the isthmian route. Owners and masters are not at once convinced that the canal is now free from the possibilities of new slides that might tie them up. The assurances that are given them, however, will soon restore confidence.

It is pleasant to learn that the promises made by the engineers prior to the completion of the waterway as to the time required for the making of the passage through the canal from ocean to ocean, either way, have been more than fulfilled. One day was set as the maximum time required, although better than thi swas done, on an average, from the start. Quite a number of ships have recently made the trip in eight hours. This amounts to a cut of one-third in the schedule time, which means a very considerable saving to owners in every way.

The Panama canal has not yet had opportunity of proving its full capacity or usefulness. The great war has seriously diminished ocean trade; it is not at all likely that maritime business will come anywhere near the normal point until peace shall be restored. Then, there is reason to believe, the great increase in traffic between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, so confidently anticipated while the canal was under construction, will be realized.

"LEAVE IT TO THE DICTIONARY."

Brown Jones Finds Many Queer Things in the Big Book.

(Kansas City Star.)

Brown Jones is a dictionary fiend. He loves to prowl among the unfrequented words and spring surprises on his friends. The other night he chanced, in his ramblings upon the word "buffet" and found to his intense satisfaction and delight, that the word was pronounced both ways. That was enough for Brown Jones.

He waited until his wife had a select evening party of her literary circle and then he wandered in and in an offhand manner he referred to the handsome "buffet" that his friend Smith had purchased. His wife turned red and frowned. The ladies smiled. Seemingly oblivious of his supposed break he went on rubbing it in good—buf-fetted and buffetted until his wife, in sheer mortification, called him aside and whispered agonizingly to him:

"For heaven's sake, John—where did you get that 'buffet'—I'll never hear the end of it."

"Why, what do you mean, dear? What do you call it."

"Buf-fay, of course, you silly goose."

And then Brown Jones referred to the dictionary, but his wife said she didn't care; it sounded ridiculous anyway.

But Brown Jones' biggest success was at the club, where his friends foregather and discuss all high-browed topics from "tarwater to Trinity." He sprang it upon the group at the round-table. They waited for him to repeat it. And then, at a given signal, they all arose and sang:

The old oaken buf-fet, the iron-bound buf-fet,
The moss-covered buf-fet that hung in the well.

Then Brown Jones made several bets—and won them. But his friends still continue to say "buf-fay" and smile at him pityingly.

Discovering America No Easy Task--How Columbus Won Out After Years of Perseverance -- His Burial Place Still a Matter of Dispute.

Copyright, 1916, by The International Syndicate.

COLUMBUS was born in an age of adventure on the sea, when bold and reckless navigators were exploring unknown seas in the hope of adding to their fame and fortune as well as extend the domains of their princes and kings.

Genoa is the accepted birthplace by biographers of Columbus, although they are still unable to agree upon the exact date of his birth, some putting it as March, 1446, and others a year later. He was the eldest son of Dominico Columbus, a wool comber, who was only moderately prosperous and the family were not considered even well-to-do.

Of the early life of Columbus little is known, but from his own writings one is given to understand that in his boyhood he was trained for the same vocation as his father. He was not satisfied with the trade and became interested in geographical studies and finally drifted into a life of maritime adventure.

Goes To Lisbon.

At some time between 1470 and 1473 Columbus left Genoa and went to Lisbon, Portugal, to reside. This land was far in advance of the other nations in maritime expeditions and achievements, and the Portuguese fleets frequently traveled to the West Coast of Africa, sailing through the tropical seas, which at that time was considered a remarkable feat. The younger brother of the discoverer had also come to Lisbon, where he established himself as a maker of maps and charts. Both men were interested in the navigation of the seas, and many hours were spent by them in the little shop poring over the charts and speculating as to certain localities. Columbus soon acquired a very definite and positive belief in the sphericity of the earth, and he set about to obtain the means for equipping a fleet to prove his belief.

Seeks Aid In Spain.

His dear wife had died, he had no ties connecting him with Portugal, so taking with him his motherless boy, now nine years of age, he left his adopted country, but whether he went back to Genoa or Spain at that time is a matter of doubt, but it is probable that he went to Spain. His brother Bartholomew in the meantime went to England to lay the project before King Henry the Eighth. Thus we see Columbus begging his way from Court to Court vainly offering to kings and princes the gift of a world. His little son, Diego, was left with his deceased wife's sister in Palos, while the father journeyed to LaRabida, where he spent some time with the good friars. The Spanish army was gathering for the purpose of delivering the final and crushing blow to the Moors, and six years passed before Columbus obtained permission to start upon his perilous journey. In the meantime he made many friends, among them a lady belonging to a noble family, Dona Beatrix Enriquez, who became the mother of his second son, Fernando.

After several years waiting Columbus was about to leave Spain when Juan Perez, a friar, became his good angel. That priest was once the religious advisor and close friend of the queen and had great influence at Court. He sent for some learned friends who held a conference at LaRabida with Columbus on the subject of the shape of the earth. Dr. Fernandez supported his views, and a wealthy mariner and ship owner, Martin Alonzo Pizon, promised his influence. The room in which this meeting was held is still shown to visitors, and there one may sit at the massive table around which gathered the great men who made the discovery of America possible. A few weeks later Columbus received a certain amount of money for the expenses of a journey to Grenada, where the Court was living at that time, a stipulated sum being set apart for him to purchase the proper raiment to appear at Court.

But again Columbus failed to interest the queen, due to the influence of her new confessor, and the great discoverer decided to abandon Spain forever. He returned to LaRabida, where he was overtaken by a messenger from the queen desiring him to return to Court.

There is a tradition that Queen Isabella pledged her jewels to finance the enterprise—a very pretty story, but untrue as the jewels were already pledged to aid in furnishing the sinews of war for the siege of Granada. The money used was from the revenues of Aragon, and was made good by the first gold brought by Columbus from America. The Queen, however, was the life of the enterprise, and when Columbus set sail she went to church to pray for his success.

The discoverer received his commission as an admiral on April 30th, 1492, but he did not set sail until several months later, for even after he had obtained the necessary commission it was difficult to find ships and even more difficult to secure men to man them for the majority of the seafaring men thought Columbus a monomaniac. Finally, however, the three ships were fitted out—the Santa Maria, commanded by Columbus himself, and the Pinta and Nina, by the Pinzon brothers. In all, one hundred and twenty souls set out on the perilous voyage to unknown lands.

The Voyage Of Discovery.

Much has been written of the journey across the sea, and of the courage of the commander when the crew threatened mutiny. Columbus was a deeply religious man, and during the long voyage he offered prayers each day for the success of the enterprise. The Pinzon brothers stood by the Admiral and helped calm the crew in the hours of dissension. All through the long and weary weeks of the journey Columbus never lost heart, and it was only by his absolute faith in his beliefs that he was able to convince his crew that land would finally be reached. It has been said that at one time there was a serious purpose of throwing the Admiral into the sea and declaring that he fell overboard in making an observation; at another, Columbus found himself compelled to promise that unless land was discovered within three days he would turn about and sail for home. No mention, however, is made of these incidents in the diary written by the Admiral during the voyage, and it is probable that they may be set beside the tradition of Isabella's jewels. He does not mention the fact that the crew became fearful lest their food supply would be exhausted before land was reached.

Finally, on October 11th, Captain Pinzon standing on the bow of the Pinta shouted: "Land! Land! Senor, I claim my reward!" It is said that the Queen had offered a velvet coat as a prize to the first man who sighted land. Columbus dropped upon his knees and thanked God. He then ordered the ships to head toward the land, but when the morning dawned there was no land in sight. Pinzon had been deceived by sunset clouds. Later, on the twelfth, after having been thirty-three days out, Columbus and his men came upon a low island covered with trees. How the discoverer and his men landed and took possession of the island for the King and Queen is known to every school child. The theory of Columbus as to the shape of the earth had been vindicated. He ordered his men to hold a religious service and give thanks. The Indians came in droves and welcomed the Spaniards. Columbus called the land San Salvador (Saint Saviour) in remembrance of his "High Majesty who hath marvelously brought all these things to pass."

The relations between the Spaniards and the Indians were all that could be desired, but those who followed after the discoverer were not so humane, and the natives were ill treated by the newcomers, and finally became extinct. When Columbus touched Cuba, he declared it to be "the world's most beautiful island, where one could live forever." His religious fervor was shown at this point, too, for he at once held mass, and today this spot is marked by a chapel, where once a year prayers are said for the discoverer.

Return to Spain In Triumph.

The return to Spain was almost as exciting as the one of discovery, as the voyage was stormy and several times the little crafts narrowly escaped being wrecked. The Nina came in first, and a few hours later the Santa Maria arrived in port with "the man of the hour" on board. This was closely followed by the Pinta, whose master, Captain Alonso Pinzon, had hoped to outstrip Columbus on the return voyage and failed. Columbus was now the popular idol, and wherever he went he was followed by crowds eager to shake his hand. Nobles and courtiers flocked about him. Finally, a letter came from the King and Queen commanding him to appear at Court. There he was received with great pomp, the King and Queen being seated on a throne beneath a canopy of gold brocade. They listened to the story of his adventures, at the close of which he presented them with gold nuggets, barbaric ornaments and six Indians, whom he had brought from their native land.

Although the object of the greatest adulation Columbus maintained a commendable dignity and remained unspoiled by his success and devoted all of his spare time to his sons, one of whom, Fernando, became his biographer. His subsequent voyages and search for gold form an interesting part of history in which the character of Columbus stands out like a star in a dark sky.

The career of the great man in whose honor the United States has set apart a special day closed at Valladolid, Spain, on May 20th, 1506. "Into Thy hands, Oh Lord, I commend my spirit," were his last words, according to the story of his life written by his son Fernando. His death made little impression in Spain, it merely being noted in the chronicles of the day.

Last Resting Place.

The place of his burial has been the subject of much discussion. In the will of Columbus signed two days before his death he expressed a wish to have his remains rest in Santo Domingo. The body, however, rested in the Franciscan convent at Valladolid for several years and later at a convent at Seville. In 1539 it was removed to Santo Domingo, where his son Diego and his grandson Louis died. The three bodies were said to have been interred in the Cathedral. A beautiful monument was erected in the church near the tomb. During the French revolution the tumult into which Santo Domingo was thrown resulted in giving the French so much influence that by the Treaty of Basle, signed July 22, 1795, Spain ceded to France the western portion of the Island. The Spaniards decided that the remains of Columbus must not rest on French soil, and accordingly had the body removed to Cuba, where it remained until the Spanish-American War, and was then sent to Seville and buried in the Cathedral under a splendid monument.

EXTREME ACTIVITY IN COTTON MANUFACTURE

This is 30,000 Bales More Than Used in September Last Year But is 29,000 Bales Less Than Used in August.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Manufacture of cotton continues extremely active, notwithstanding the high price of raw products. During September 529,227 running bales were used, the Census Bureau announced today. That is 30,000 more than was used in September last year but 29,000 bales less than was used in August. While the quantity used in September was smaller than in August the amount used per working day was larger because the month was two working days shorter than August, one of them being the holiday, Labor Day.

The August daily consumption averaged 20,603, while that of September was 21,169 bales.

Cotton consumption this year thus far has averaged more than 500,000 bales a month.

Cotton on hand September 30, in consuming establishments, amounted to 1,328,332 running bales, exclusive of linters, compared with 1,090,111 in September last year, and in public storage and at compresses 2,610,911 bales, compared with 2,805,184 last year.

Cotton spindles active during September numbered 32,333,995, compared with 31,300,388 in September, 1915.

Imports during September amounted to 7,928 equivalent to 500 pound bales, compared with 24,197 in September, 1915, and for the two months 15,413 bales, compared with 45,187 a year ago.

Exports during September amounted to 526,346 running bales, inclusive of linters, compared with 501,581 in September, 1915, and for the two months, 950,585 bales, compared with 663,644 last year. Linters, not included in foregoing statistics, consumed during September amounted to 61,719 bales, compared with 66,769 in September last year, and for the two months 133,224 bales, compared with 128,330 in 1915; on hand September 30 in consuming establishments 73,115 bales, compared with 104,494 a year ago, and in public storage and at compresses, 82,291 bales compared with 57,141 a year ago.

OIL OUTPUT BREAKS RECORD.

Daily Production is Now Nearly 800,000 Barrels.

(From New York Times.)

The output of oil from the wells of the country has reached the total of little less than 800,000 barrels a day—the largest daily average production in the history of the United States. These figures have been arrived at from a study of the statistics of runs and deliveries of the pipe lines of the country for May, taken with the weekly reports from the Oil, Paint & Drug Reporter's correspondents in all the oil fields of the country. The production and consumption of oil have reached a parity.

The banner producing districts at present are the mid-continent, Louisiana and Gulf coast fields, with a total daily output of nearly 510,000 barrels. The mid-continent operators are drilling at the rate of nearly 1,400 wells a month, with more than the average number of gushers, and lars producers among the completions. This week's reports indicate that more crude is going into storage than has been possible under the conditions of stringency of supply, which marked the period prior to the opening of the spring drilling season.

Already the warning has gone out that producers should proceed a little carefully and not break the market by pourid; out a flood of new crude oil. The banner mark in the mid-continent field, as far as the output of crude oil was concerned, was attained in the spring of 1915, with a total of 400,000 barrels of new oil daily. So much has been said of late of increased demand and poverty of supply that it has not been generally realized just what the mid-continent field has been doing during the last few weeks.

The production there is now 380,000 barrels a day—within 20,000 barrels of the highest ever attained—and any week may surpass this total.

HENRY MILLER DEAD

Rose From Butcher's Boy to "Cattle King" of the West.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 14.—Henry Miller, one of California's notable men, who rose from butcher's boy to be known as the "Cattle King" of the West and founder of the famous Miller and Lux properties, died in his 90th year at the resident of his daughter Mrs. J. Leroy Nichol. He had been confined to his bed for nearly two years.

TROOPS ORDERED SOUTH.

Remaining Virginia Guardsmen to Soon Start for Border.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 14.—Orders were received here today from the Department of the East for the immediate movement of the troops remaining in Camp Stuart, to the border. The squadron of cavalry will be sent to Brownsville, while the company of engineers, signal corps and the field hospital will go to Fort Sam Houston. The troops are expected to entrain not later than Thursday.

CIGARETTE BUTT STARTS FIRE.

Serious Blaze Prevented by Quick Work on Battleship Utah.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 14.—Prompt discovery and quick work early this afternoon prevented a serious fire in fire room No. 1 on the United States battleship Utah. The blaze was discovered in a pile of old rope under the boiler blower. It was caused by the careless dropping of a cigarette butt. The damage was declared insignificant.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 14.—Showing rather surprising strength and taking advantage of the miscues of the opposing backfield, Navy piled up 19 points against Pittsburg University this afternoon, while losing the contest by one point.

MOST REALISTIC WAR MAP

Gives Topography, Chief Cities and Towns and Vessels on Seas.

(From the Columbia State.)

The great war map installed in a Chicago store at a cost of thousands of dollars is a novelty both as a business enterprise and as a means of giving geographical instructions.

It shows the topography and chief cities and towns of most European lands—including France, Englan[d], Scotland, Ireland, Germany, [illegible], Belgium, Turkey, Serbia, Italy, [illegible], Bulgaria, Switzerland, Holland, Denmark and Norway—and gives details as steamship and railroads, forts wireless stations, palaces, churches and other buildings of importance. The various bodies are represented, with details of submarines and other vessels on the seas. Railway trains cross the territory, messages are flashed from wireless stations and at night lights glow in each city. Lighting is arranged to make day and night changes to make day and night changes at intervals of 10 minutes. In the night scenes the air takes on new characters and ingenious cloud and elertcical effects are displayed.

ENGLISH WOMEN PAYING PRICE

Many Industrial Accidents in British War Factories.

(London Dispatch to St. Louis Globe-Democrat).

Seared by molten metal, blinded by steel shavings, with fingers nipped off by the machinery of the munitions factories, English women and girls are paying the price of patriotism as well as their men at the front.

Industrial accidents have not been diminished, despite the claim of labor experts that women are more careful than men. Their inexperience is believed to account for many of the accidents, so the experts may be right after all in theory. But theory won't restore sight or knead the kinks out of pitifully mangled hands.

Another explanation is that feminine puddlers, machinists and lathe hands become preoccupied at their work when their thoughts flit to the men fighting in France, the ladle tips or the bel slips off the roller, there's a scream and another casualty goes down on the growing list.

A big shell factory in Lancashire has claimed its share of victims. A soldier's wife is the latest worker to be seriously injured. Her mind wandered for a second from the deadly machine before her and the knife came down, lopping off the thumb, two fingers and part of a third from her left hand. But she'll be back at some kind of a war job when the wounds are healed. The makers know shells have to be made. Many women have become skilled mechanics who a few months ago were accustomed to manual work. They brave the dangers of industry cheerfully to do their bit in the war.

LANDRITH IN TENNESSEE

Says South Must go "Dry" if it is to Continue in Power.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 14.—"Goblins will get you if you don't go dry," was the warning cry Ira Landrith sounded to Southern Democracy today when he came back home to urge support of the national Prohibition ticket on which he is the vice-presidential nominee.

"No tariff tinkering, tax shifts, nor an of the other old political issues," he insisted, "can keep the South in power nor restore to her the glory of statesmanship she enjoyed in national affairs before the Civil War if the dry cause is repulsed."

APPAM'S CAPTORS APPEAL

Protest Against Decree Awarding Ship's Cargo to Her Owners.

Washington, Oct. 14.—German claimants appealed today to the Supreme court from the decree of the Virginia Federal courts awarding the cargo of the prize ship Appam to British interests. Appeals against the decision awarding the ship to a British line already have been filed. The ship represents $1,250,000 and the cargo $600,000. Both appeals probably will be heard together. The Appam was brought into Newport News, a German prize, several months ago.

JOINT CANVASS MADE VOTES FOR MR. GODWIN

McCaskill Stronger in Robeson Before He Was Heard Than Now.

Bickett to Be Heard October 26 in Lumberton—Light Frost Appears—Community Fair at Philadelphus November 3rd.

(Special Star Telegram).

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 14.—John Lee, a white man 28 years old, employed on the Pope plantation, four miles south of here, lost his left hand this forenoon by having it caught in a corn shredder. The hand was ground to a pulp. It was half an hour before the hand could be released, the machine having to be taken apart. With his right hand he assisted in removing bolts necessary to release. The wounded man walked a half mile to his home after being injured. The hand was taken off above the wrist.

Rev. G. E. Moorhouse has accepted the call made by the Lumberton Presbyterian church, and will be installed next Wednesday evening at 7:30 by order of the Presbytery. A commission composed of Revs. J. J. Hill and H. J. Mills and Dr. B. F. McMillan was appointed during the session of Presbytery held at Lillington this week.

Mr. Enoch McConnell, for several art's grocery store, severed his conarts' grocery store, severed his connection with that business tonight and in the future will be with the Wishart Company, wholesalers.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 14.—Politics are beginning to warm up a little in Robeson, but are still below fever heat. So far as the county is concerned, the usual Democratic majority can be depended on. The Democrats are beginning to move around pretty lively, while a few officehunting Republicans are working wherever and whenever they can get somebody to listen to them.

Some mighty good men in Robeson are Republicans, honest in their opinions, but some of them are getting so thoroughly disgusted at their little "wind jammers"—that's what Mr. McCaskill calls them—that they can't get enthused. There is no denying the fact that the joint canvass between Messrs. Godwin and McCaskill has made many votes for Mr. Godwin. Mr. McCaskill was much stronger in this county a week ago than he is today.

One life-long Republican, his head white from age, who attended the speaking here Thursday afternoon, stated that he had thrown the afternoon away when he came to hear his candidate speak. It is a parallel case of Wilson-Hughes, Godwin-McCaskill. Mr. McCaskill will make votes by staying at home. When he has manipulated the figures an hour he has said nothing.

The few "wind jammers" here who are so busy denouncing the Democratic administration, from President down to rural policemen, are wanting jobs. It is awful to hear some of them abuse the recorder's court. While one of them is holding a political job under a Democratic administration, he wants to be prosecuting attorney in the recorder's court. Another one wants to be recorder. They howl about the recorder's courts but they don't want them abolished, they want to be the officials with a big O. One fellow, who voted in the Democratic primary, got mad because he lost his man, turned Republican, taking pains to tell everybody he sees and send word to the balance, is making Democratic votes every day. Some think he will be a candidate for court house janitor if the Republicans win, but needn't prepare to take the job yet.

Bickett to Speak.

Hon. T. W. Bickett is scheduled to speak here on Thursday night, 26th. There is no doubt about a hearty reception with anything like favorable weather. It will be worth while for all who can to get in the court house, as they will be amply repaid.

With the exception of Tuesday the weather this week has been great in this section and no time is being lost by the farmers in gathering what little cotton they have. Several bales have sold here during this week for over $100.

It was our pleasure Tuesday to visit Major Burke, press agent for the Buffalo Bill Show, which comes here next Tuesday. Major Burke is one of the

IMPORTANT HEARING IN RALEIGH OCT. 24

Of Vital Interest to Farmers and Farm Organizations.

Federal Farm Loan Board to Gather Information to Guide It in Determining Boundaries of Land Bank Districts.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 14.—A hearing of great importance to the farmers and farm organizations of North Carolina will be held at Raleigh on October 24th by the Federal Farm Loan Board.

This hearing is for the purpose of getting information to guide the Board in determining the boundaries of the twelve Federal Land Bank districts into which the country is to be divided for the administration of the new rural credits law, known as the Federal Farm Loan Act. The session will be held in the federal building at Raleigh.

The members of the Federal Farm Loan Board who will conduct this hearing are Hon. William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, George W. Norris, Farm Loan Commissioner, Herbert Quick, Captain W. S. A. Smith, and Charles E. Lobdell.

The Board has issued an invitation to all farmers and farm organizations of North Carolina to attend this hearing to get information about the operation of the Farm Loan Act, and to furnish the Board with information about the farm loan needs of the state. It has also asked interested cities to present their claims for the location of one of the twelve Federal Land Banks.

Farmers will be asked to give information regarding the prevailing rates of interest on first mortgage loans; the difficulty of getting extensions; the rate of commissions charged; the development of farms as affected by credit; farm tenantry as affected by the ability of tenants to borrow; and any other fact that will give the Board an understanding of the farm needs of the state.

The new Federal Farm Loan Act provides a way for the farmers or prospective farmer to borrow money on long time mortgages at actual cost. The government provides the machinery for assembling capital to be loaned to farm owners or prospective farm owners. The loans may run up to 50 per cent of the value of the land used as security and 20 per cent of the value of the improvements. The loans will be made at a low rate of interest not yet determined, but it will be less than 6 per cent. Provision is made for the borrower to pay off the debt, interest, and principal through periods of from five to forty years, at his own option.

The legislation is expected to prove a great boon to those sections of the country where farm development has been retarded because of high interest rates, and it is predicted that it will tend to make agricultural prosperity permanent and uniform, stabilize and equalize interest rates, and greatly improve the condition of the farmer.

The nation-wide interest in the provisions of the bill is indicated by the fact that more than 100,000 inquiries have come to the Treasury Department for information about it. Secretary McAdoo predicts that the banks will be established and ready to make loans early in 1917.

FIRE IN FAIR GROUNDS

Flames in Stalls at Goldsboro Started by Cigarettes.

(Special Star Telegram).

Goldsboro, N. C., Oct. 14.—An accidental fire today at noon destroyed a number of cattle and pig stalls at the fair grounds, but speedy and effectual work by willing hands soon curbed the flames, and the result will be beneficial in that it will cause all smoking henceforth to be prohibited. It is said the fire started in the stalls by some of the help smoking cigarettes while removing the stock.

Goldsboro, N. C., Oct. 14.—Mrs. Avery Lane, of New Hope township, this county, who was stricken with paralysis in the grand stand at the fair grounds yesterday afternoon and removed to the Goldsboro Hospital, died at an early hour this morning, without ever rallying. She is survived by her husband, who took her remains home this afternoon for interment.

LONDON NEWSPAPERS' COMMENT IS SCATHING

Play Up Order Barring International News Service.

Hearst Methods Condemned—Times Approves Action of Press Bureau. No Slur Intended for American Press.

London, Oct. 14.—The London newspapers published in conspicuous places the official order denying the International News Service further use of the official press bureau and the use of cables and all other facilities for transmission of news because of its "garbling of messages and breach of faith." The order appears under such headings as "No British News for Hearst," "News Made in America," and "American Agency's Garbling of Messages."

The Daily Express says by way of comment:

"The Daily Express repeatedly has called attention to anti-British lies printed in American newspapers controlled by William R. Hearst—the New York American, the Chicago Examiner, and similar journals. This 'news' is supplied by the Interantional News Service, which is entirely a Hearst organization. These papers will not have a line of Hearst 'news' today. This action follows repeated breaches of faith by the Hearst organization. One of the latest instances was a message in the Chicago Examiner, headed 'London in Flames,' and purporting to describe a Zeppelin raid. It was never sent from London."

Deliberate Falsification.

In an extended editorial the Times says:

"The disciplinary measure taken against the International News Service is a satisfactory sign that the government appreciates the importance of dealing drastically with lying news agencies. The tone of Mr. Heart's newspapers is strongly anti-British, but the action of the government has not been inspired by any resentment at their opinions. It is in consequence of deliberate falsification of intelligence of which the International News Service has been repeatedly found guilty.

"While we rejoice that our government has inflicted proper punishment upon an unscrupulous news agency, we trust that the measures taken will not be regarded by the people of this country as involving any slur upon the character and conscientiousness of the United States press as a whole. The reputation of the great majority of American journals for fairness and honesty stands above reproach and it has again and again been vindicated during the war. We imagine, indeed, that the American press and public will be grateful to the British authorities for having punished wrong-doers, and especially for having made public the grounds for the action taken. The dissemination of accurate news is at all times a matter of high importance. We trust our authorities will extend their laudable energy in other directions also and visit with similar punishment any other news agencies or journals which may be convicted of publishing garbled intelligence from this country."

Step Called "Well Justified."

The Chronicle says:

"The government has taken a well justified step in depriving the International News Service of all telegraphic and mail facilities. The reason is not that Mr. Hearst's papers are pro-German, but that they have repeatedly published as coming from this country news which did not in fact come from it."

"These sham messages have been printed as messages from London. It is obvious that if such abuse were tolerated the censorship would become of less than no value, since the American public would be given the impression that our censor had passed statements which in fact he had never seen."

The Wednesday Gazette says: "The government acted rightly in refusing further facilities for transmission of news from this country by the International News Service, and after recounting the charges against the agency, concludes:

Readers Put on Guard.

"Readers of Hearst papers will know in the future that telegrams purporting to come from England have no origin there. We are heartily glad the

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF COL. F. B. ARENDELL

Governor and Other State Officers Honorary Pall Bearers.

Death of Well Known and Useful Citizen Brings Sorrow to Raleigh. Working for Federal Land Bank—Raleigh News.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 14.—The funeral of Col. Falc. B. Arendell, one of the best known citizens of North Carolina, took place from Edenton Street Methodist church this morning at 11 o'clock and was attended by great numbers of people who manifested the deepest sorrow at the death of this public spirited citizen, who devoted so many years of his life to publishing to the world the progress and advantages of the Old North State.

The honorary pall-bearers included Governor Craig, Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes, State Auditor W. P. Wood, State Treasurer B. R. Lacy, B. S. German, E. B. Crew, Joseph G. Brown, Judge Francis D. Winston, Col. P. M. Pearsall, T. B. Crowder, Col. F. A. Olds, and Col. Armistead Jones.

Colonel Arendell first came into prominence as a newspaper man traveling into every part of the State and writing of the people and the resources and activities of the State. He was for a number of years actively connected with the management of the State's prison. A number of years ago he became interested in the publishing house of B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, and he has for a long while represented his company in this State, especially in the text book branch of the business.

Colonel Arendell sustained a stroke of paralysis last Sunday and failed steadily until the end came Friday.

A local committee having J. Crawford Biggs for chairman, is appealing to the citizens of Raleigh for $2,500

ROBERT S. LOVETT STRONG FOR WILSON

Union Pacific Head Says He Gave Business Peace and the Nation Prosperity.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW MISTAKE

Railroad Magnate Says President Must Be Judged by Average of Achievement and Calls His Career a Notable One.

To the Editor of The Star:

I am enclosing a statement from Judge Robert S. Lovett, president of the Union Pacific Railway Company, which is a most notable array of reasons for the support of Mr. Wilson and which I would thank you to print. That the head of one of the greatest railroads of the country should be open-minded enough to assess the true value of Mr. Wilson to the country would seem to indicate that the Union Pacific has in Judge Lovett a true successor to Mr. Harriman. It is not necessary for one to agree with all of the opinions of Judge Lovett to recognize the force of his statement, but it seems to me that his appeal to the judgment of business men is absolutely unanswerable.

Yours very truly,
J. A. TAYLOR.

(From the New York Times.)

Robert S. Lovett, head of the Union Pacific Railway system, being asked yesterday by a Times reporter for a statement of his attitude in the presidential campaign, prepared the following:

"Notwithstanding his action in the eight-hour day controversy, I am for Wilson. That was a mistake and a serious one. But we all make mistakes. Men must be judged by the average of achievement—not by one act out of many which go to make up a notable career. My firm conviction is that Wilson has more really great achievements to his credit than most presidents who have preceded him.

"I am not prepared to believe that business men are lacking in appreciation of what he has done for business. True, he has not taken us back to the days of Mark Hanna, to which some seem to think we will return if he is defeated. But he has given us business peace and an open field for a fair fight. He has substituted the law as a rule of conduct for "government by executive order" and presidential favoritism; and the "undesirable citizen" has had the same show as the most influential group or the biggest campaign contributor. No special dispensations to form trusts have been granted, and it has not been necessary to consult the White House, rather than counsel, before doing business. The statutes, and not the Presidential feelings or state of mind, have been our guide. And these have been administered evenly, impartially, justly, without straining to harass and persecute, and, except the New Haven case, without any suspicion of being in obedience to public clamor.

Settled Currency Question

"Contrast this with the administrations of his recent predecessors, when business men were hunted as 'big game' and the presidential choice between the 'good trusts' and the 'bad trusts,' rather than the law, was the rule and guide. There are business men in this town now criticising Wilson in glittering generalities who, under previous administrations, did not know how long they would be out of jail, try as hard as they could to obey the law. We have had none of this under Wilson. Each has gone his way without any fear of persecution—with only the law for his guide. Friend and foe have been treated alike.

"What president has shown more loyal and consistent personal and official friendship for every form of legitimate business and enterprise? How refreshingly free from demagogy every utterance of his upon the subject has been. Even the railroads—the favorite field for political exploitation—have received justice and fairness at his hands except in the eight-hour day controversy; and that was a mistake in supposing that the eight-hour industrial day was applicable to railroad train service. In the multitude of matters pressing upon him for attention, he was, like thousands of others, misled, until too late, by the shrewd plea for an eight-hour day, when only an increase of pay was involved. But after all, would his opponent have done differently? The latter was silent until he saw the popular side of the question. Not till then did his indignation boil or find expression. And most of the House Republicans, including ex-Speaker Cannon, voted for the bill.

"And let us not forget what we owe Mr. Wilson for the present unexampled industrial prosperity of the country. Why? Remember the early days of the European war when there was an overwhelming sentiment throughout the country that we should keep hands off and when numberless good people, other than German-Americans, believed that we should not supply either belligerent with guns and ammunition. This feeling was strong in Congress, among Democrats and Republicans alike, and with the least encouragement from the White House Congress would have passed a law prohibiting the export of war munitions, and the sentiment of the country would have sustained it by an overwhelming preponderance. Does any one with any memory of those days doubt this? Nothing but Wilson's leadership and firm stand from the first for American trade rights—for the right of our manufacturers and traders to make and sell all articles of commerce to all comers — secured to us the enormous trade, extending through every line of industry, that has brought employment and high wages to millions of workmen and huge profits to our manufacturers. Let us do simple justice and remember these facts. Statesmen and ex-statement now criticising Wilson had not found themselves or their voices on this question until after he had taken his stand for American trade and industry.

"Only the Law for His Guide."

"For a generation the Republicans have been tinkering with the banking and currency question, but Wilson settled it and settled it so effectually and wisely that his most reckless critics are silenced upon that subject. The Federal Reserve act was peculiarly Wilson's personal work. There was no political sentiment for it, or even agitation, except in banking circles. It had been little discussed in the campaign. The Aldrich commission had made its report and it had been duly pigeonholed. If either Taft or Roosevelt had been elected the subject would have been resurrected only in a most perfunctory way, if at all, for Congress clearly was not interested. But Wilson at once made it the paramount purpose and policy of his administration and put his whole power and influence behind it, and literally drove Congress to the task until it was accomplished. Have the financial and business men forgotten this supreme service?

"Both parties, Democratic and Republican alike, had declared for a revision of the tariff and for a revision downward, but the Taft revision turned out to be revision upward. Wilson fulfilled his promise, and tariff taxation of the consumer was reduced. No one can truthfully charge him with any favoritism in framing it. It probably is not a perfect tariff in every particular, but for myself I prefer it to one in which the beneficiaries themselves are invited to write the schedules and take what they want from the consumer, which is the way Republican tariffs are usually made.

"If business men refuse to support a Democratic administration which deals fairly and befriends business, what can they hope for from that party in the future? If the Democrats cannot count upon the support of business men under any conditions, will not the inevitable effect be to make that party hostile to business; to make it the party of the poor and the radical, and to make the Republican party more and more the party of the rich and the reactionaries? It takes no prophet to forecast the result of party cleavage upon this line.

Foreign Diplomacy Brilliant.

"His management of our relations to the European war situation is the greatest and most brilliant page in our diplomatic history. He maintained our rights and our honor with unfailing firmness, and put our case with such clearness and force and logic that the most arrogant nation had to yield, while all the neutral nations of the world applauded. He held to a strict neutrality, as becomes the character and dignity of a great, self-respecting nation which is unwilling to become a vassal to either belligerent, like a Balkan State. True, this high-minded neutrality does not please those among us who are so German that they want our own country to be made a battleground for the Kaiser, for those Americans who are so English that they draw their patriotic inspiration from that country rather than their own, and think we should have rushed into the war at the first excuse. But I believe the great mass of independent, self-respecting people of this country—the real Americans—approve and feel proud of what history will record as the ablest treatment of our foreign relations at this most critical juncture of the world's history.

With President Wilson's Mexican policy I cannot at all agree. It has been a serious mistake from the beginning. But again I say: "Who, confronted with so many difficulties, (and hardly any one in all history has had to face more,) would not have made mistakes? And let us not forget that in this Mexican business his mistake was on the side of peace—not war.

"And while distracted by these unprecedented foreign difficulties he has exhibited a constructive statesmanship and achieved results in domestic policy that will make this administration notable in history. Consider the list:

"He settled the banking and currency problem by the Federal Reserve act, and settled it wisely and effectually.

"He revised the tariff and revised it downward, as promised by all parties.

"He established a rural credit system for the farming interests. This has been talked of and promised by politicians of both parties for years, but Wilson accomplished it.

"He caused to be enacted a law against child labor.

For a Just Tariff System.

"He caused to be enacted a law providing for a Tariff Commission to study the subject and devise a just tariff system. They say he changed his mind to do this. Long live the man who is big enough to change his mind to get right.

"His administration enacted the Trade Commission law. This was designed to reduce uncertainty in the law relating to combinations and to be helpful to business enterprises. It may or may not prove a success, but it is, at least, a useful experiment that will do no harm.

"His administration enacted a law limiting injunctions in labor disputes. This was unwise, but politicians of both political parties have been promising it for years. The point is Wilson's administration made good by putting the law on the books.

"He has put through laws for reorganizing the army and navy, giving them a strength and efficiency undreamed of by his two immediate predecessors, now vociferous in criticism, who had the opportunity but failed to do anything substantial for the army and navy, or for real preparedness.

"He secured the enactment in a modified form of the Shipping bill, designed to put American ships on the seas in foreign trade. This has been severely criticised as governmental invasion of private industry. But American capital has not engaged in foreign shipping to any appreciable extent in the past, and there seems less reason to suppose it will do so in the future. Of what use would our big navy be in time of war without transport and supply ships? And where are we to get them if neither private capital nor the government builds them, since foreign ships could not be had in case of war?

Alien Venom on President.

"But important as are all these considerations they are, to my mind, insignificant to us as a nation in comparison with one great overshadowing question involved in this election, namely, whether the American people are going to permit an American President to be disciplined and defeated and driven from office by an alien element in our population for daring to insist upon American rights against a foreign government? There is no mistaking this issue. The German-American Alliance and other disloyal organizations proclaim it with amazing audacity. Roosevelt suffered from their hostility in his race for the presidency. Robert Bacon felt it in his race for the Senate. The New Jersey primaries last week demonstrated its malevolence. The leading German newspaper urged the Germans in that state to turn out and vote for certain men and against certain other men on this issue. They responded and won. But their venom is concentrated on President Wilson because he refused to sanction the Lusitania murders and required the cessation of submarine slaughter of American men, women and children on peaceable ships at sea, and because he refused to put an embargo on our legitimate manufactures and commerce.

"But what of the political party and candidate that seek to profit by this conspiracy? Neither the Republican party nor its candidate has had one word to say against it. The candidate talks incessantly of undefined 'Americanism,' and uses other sweet phrases in a way to mean absolutely nothing. He was the candidate of this disloyal element for the nomination, as he is now its candidate for the office. In his campaign he has carefully avoided every word or declaration calculated to antagonize this element, and is obviously seeking its support. If he wins—if Wilson is defeated—there will be more rejoicing in Berlin over this triumph of pan-Germanism against real Americanism than there would be over the winning of a battle or the capture of a great city—even Verdun."

"THE BURGLAR BUSINESS MUST BE PROTECTED."

Methodist Board of Temperance Secretary Warns of Impending Disaster.

Clarence True Wilson, D. D., general secretary of the Board of Temperance of the Methodist Episcopal Church, is out in a warning that unless this fanatical persecution of the burglar is stopped the country is going to face a disaster.

"The efforts of well meaning but misguided people against the burglars should take account of the fact that thousands of men will be put out of their jobs if the burglar business is stopped," he says.

"The money that the burglar steals he spends in our dry goods shops and groceries. The burglar eats flour and meat. Is tne farmer going to allow the burglar to be deprived of the means of buying flour and other farm products? Are the laboring men who shoe the burglar's horses and make the milk bottles in which milk is delivered to him, who drive the wagons that deliver his ice and other purchases—are these men going to see the burglar wiped out of business and themselves thrown out of jobs because the burglar has been voted out of his job by fanatics?

"The proper way to handle this burglar business is to license it, keep it in the hands of men of good moral character, keep unlicensed burglars out of the business, etc., etc."

PUBLIC SPIRIT AND HOW TO CULTIVATE IT.

(Psalms 122:1-9) (Citizenship Sunday)

The Psalm assigne dto this topic is one of fifteen songs of degrees or ascents, beginning with the 120th and ending with the 134th. In this one David professes his joys for the Church. He endorses his loyalty to the established government, his desire to help it by prayer and co-operation. If the Christians would keep the welfare of the State in their hearts and in prayers and would seek to instruct and uphold the masses of the people in lawfulness, they would create and cultivate a great public spirit and thus help to uphold the government.

By 'public spirit" we mean a lively interest in the public welfare. This calls for the indorsement of just and righteous laws. It demands the suppression and destruction of hurtful institutions and the protection and enlargement of everything that looks towards the protection and development of the public welfare. A proper public spirit opposes selfishness. The old man made a great mistake who prayed, "Lord, bless me and my wife; Son John and his wife; us four, and no more." We will never do our best work and be our best until our hearts and thoughts get big enough to include the welfare of all.

Any Endeavor Society can begin to cultivate proper public spirit by securing information on local conditions and public questions. Information feeds the public spirit. The more we know about things in general, the more we would right wrong, correct evils, and help the good. There are many moral questions that would be promptly considered and settled; the masses of the good people do not know the conditions. If the voters of any community actually come in contact with the wrongs as they exist, they would promptif co-operate with the officers of the law in correcting the evils.

Let the members of the Society cultivate each in himself a public spirit. Let them talk to each other about facts, conditions, needs, opportunities, obligations, and duties. There is lots of power in "talk." Talk is not accidental in life. Talk is not superfluous. God fixed us up so that we could talk. One of the important functions of the tongue is to talk; it's an element of the brain, and the brain is the machine of the mind. If it is helpful, instructive talk, it is helpful in cultivating influence. Therefore talk. Talk about public conditions, public questions, the needs of the community, opportunities for serving the community, talk; talk; and keep talking.

The Church is more vitally interested in public questions and the proper public spirit than one might at first suppose. The social, civic life of the community is the atmosphere in which the Church is to live. If the social life is pure and the civic life righteous, the Church will be helped into helpful existence and effort. Although the Church and State are to be kept absolutely separated, yet they exercise a powerful influence on each other. The Church has many lessons yet to learn as to its opportunities and obligations, regarding social, civil and commercial life. The Church has rightly emphasized, perhaps overemphasized, individual religion, without properly enforcing the fact that real individual religion will have a powerful effect upon the social life of the community. The needy classes of the community have larger claim on the Church than the Church has yet realized. A study of the messages of the Prophets, and the study of the teachings of Christ, and the Apostles shows that the Church can go far in creating and cultivating a public spirit—(Christian Observer.)

THE CALL OF THE PAST.

(Contributed by 18-Year-Old Girl)

I awoke in the land of tomorrow,
And gazed on the rising sun,
And the sparkling dew on the flowers
Told me a new day had begun.

A new day had dawned in its glory;
New life for the aching heart,
If they'd only begin it by trying
To forget the sins of the mart.

Forget those things that are buried,
Forget those hours of grief,
Oh if we only could forget;
We'd find such blest relief.

But the thoughts of the past are so strong,
They hold the poor soul in their thrall,
And even the voice of the future,
Cannot drown the past's loud call.

Many a brave one has started
Anew on the journey of life,
Only to fall by the wayside;
At the call of the past and its strife.

And brave men shall fall through the ages,
As long as time shall last.
When they're traveling on so wondrously
At just the call of the past.

Would that I had the power,
I'd build a wall as wide
And as deep as the rushing ocean,
And stronger than the tide.

I'd call it the wall of forgetting,
And just on the other side,
I'd build a snow white city,
And here these poor souls would abide.

And then that wall in all its glory
Would shut out the call of the past
And shield those dear ones forever
From sin and its awful white blast.

And then in this snow city,
I'd place these sons of men,
And call it, of course, I'd call it
The land of beginning again.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION OF ALL PRISONERS ADVOCATED

Dr. Paul E. Bowers Would Have All Examined at Time of Trial.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The medical examination of all prisoners by court physicians at the time of trial was advocated by Dr. Paul E. Bowers, medical superintendent of the Indiana hospitals for Insane Criminals, in an address before the American Prison Association. He said that every year society is unjustly sending to prison hundreds of insane and feeble-minded persons who, in the course of their mental disturbances, have violated the penal laws. "The culpable practice of punishing the mentally sick should cease;" he said. "Society is being poorly protected when it sends insane and mentally defected individuals to penal institutions and then releases them from custody, uncured, merely because their sentences have expired.

"Our jurists placidly and contentedly continue to study their book instead of man; with crumbling, moth-eaten and time-worn precedents they attempt to regulate the anti-social conduct that springs from a disordered mentality.

"In a recent study that I made on one hundred recidivists each of whom had been convicted not less than four times, twelve o fthem were insane, twenty-three were feeble-minded, ten were epileptic, and in each instance the mental defectiveness bore a direct rausal relation to their crimes. No less than 180 trials have been held for these persons, and the lowest possible expense to the commonwealth must have been $180,000. And three times, each one of these defective individuals had been released to prey upon society, while no permanent good whatever has been accomplished.

"I am of the firm belief that the medical and spychiatric examination of all prisoners, at the time of trial, would go a long way in the solution of the vexing criminal problems."

CARRIE NATION AS SHE WAS

Very Different Woman From Picture Usually Drawn by Newspapers.

Kinston, N. C., Oct. 14.—The late Mrs. Carrie Nation was a much maligned person, according to Dr. W. H. Nation, of Burlington, Kans., who has been spending a short time in this section. Dr. Nation, who is a minister of the Christian church and a reformer of note in his home state, is an all-year chautauqua lecturer now, but may quit the platform for a time to enter politics in Kansas. He proposed the six-year high school term—to reduce the university term to two years—in his state, and is considering an attempt to be elected to the legislature to see his plan through. Heretofore he has been fighting every effort o his friends to nominate him, it is said.

Mrs. Nation was anything but the character that the newspapers sometimes painted her. Dr. Nation declared She had a dislike for whiskey—had a right to have it. She was not of a violent disposition; on the contrary she was a slight, sweet-charactered, motherly woman, advanced in years—she was about 70 at the height of her activities.

"Her first husband died with delirium tremens," Dr. Nation said. "She had a beautiful daughter. The girl was maltreated and her face disfigured by an intoxicated physician. The last straw was a happening that befell a youth, the son of a person for whom she held a great affection. The boy was made intoxicated, severely handled, and finally jailed, as the result of the existence of a saloon in prohibition Kansas. Evil associates helped, of course. Mrs. Nation drove to the place and smashed the saloon. They were about to arrest her, but discovered that no such thing as a saloon legally existed in Kansas. There was nothing upon which to base a charge. She engaged in saloon-smashing for a comparatively brief time, and then took to the lecture platform, accomplishing more in that way. She traveled far and wide—as far as England. She was a woman of no great education, but very keen and quick of retort."

Dr. Nation thinks that the east is far behind his part of the country in the matter of schools. He states that health education is another matter that this region has not learned the rudiments of. "In the average small hotel hereabouts they feed you to the limit—on about three kinds of meat, sweet potatoes and biscuit. The average travelling man cannot exist on that kind of fare. It will kill him out." He suggests a lighter diet.

CIRCULATION FACTS AND FIGURES

NORTH CAROLINA'S OLDEST DAILY---THE MORNING STAR, WILMINGTON, N. C.

"Every Day in the Year"

THE MORNING STAR

FOUNDED A. D. 1867

Published by Wilmington Star Co., Inc. Wilmington, N. C. Oldest Daily in the State

The Morning Star reproduces here a detailed analysis of its Daily and Sunday average net paid circulation for teh six months ending October 1st, 1916. This is information that every advertiser should demand of a newspaper unless it is given voluntarily.

It has always been the policy of The Morning Star to keep its advertisers fully posted concerning its circulation and the channels of distribution so that one may know exactly what they are getting for their money when they invest in advertising space in this paper.

The Morning Star thoroughly covers the city of Wilmington and suburbs by carrier and reaches subscribers the same day of publication in the adjacent counties of Eastern Carolina which comprise the trading zone of this city.

The Morning Star is being read daily by families in this city and territory who have been subscribers for the past half century; the paper is looked upon as an "old friend of the family"; it is a fixed habit with every member of every household in which it is a welcomed daily visitor; it is read every day by every purchaser of everything everywhere it circulates; it is read by the consumer who buys an article and by the merchant who sells it.

The Morning Star reaches a class of readers who have ample means to purchase what their fancy dictates, including both the every day necessities of life as well as the luxuries. The Morning Star is read in every town and hamlet and on every rural route in this section; it is a local institution, known in every home and carries with it the atmosphere of the community, thus it is the one daily means offered to the individual each morning of the year to lay his finger upon the pulse of the world and coming as a well known messenger it personalizes the events of the day.

Advertising space in The Morning Star represents the minimum of waste in circulation to the merchant or National advertiser because it goes into the home that is worth while reaching and skips the place where he can not hope for business.

THEATRICAL

For a change from the musical comedy productions of the past six weeks, the Victoria Theatre announces for the coming week an all-vaudeville bill of five great acts, a show which should prove a welcome diversion and change from the class of shows of the past few weeks.

The coming week the Victoria presents Zarrow's "Variety Review," consisting of five toplined vaudeville acts and teams, each one of which possesses the class and quality of the highest price vaudeville ever seen anywhere, all combined in a great show which will be presented at the usual prices, although it can well be imagined that separate vaudeville acts cost considerably more to book than one musical comedy organization, and it is hoped that Victoria patrons will show their approval of the course the management has taken when opportunity presented itself to book this all-star aggregation.

The "Variety Review" features as its greatest attraction the famous Lynch Trio, well known all over the United States, and said to be undoubtedly the most talented juvenile trio that has ever been presented to the American public, presenting a classy series of songs, dances, monologue and harmony singing, introducing Teddy, America's youngest entertainer.

Snyder and Vaughn, a bang up singing and dancing team, presenting a series of black and tan comedy singing and dancing sketches is aother topliner, and Bessie Knowles, the third number on the bill, is billed as "The Golden Girl with the Golden Voice."

Hill and Edmonds, in a series of Irish comedies introducing comedy songs, sayings and gags is a laughing act sure to go over big.

Then comes "Musical Al. Nuttle," billed as "The Original Nut," the musical king of the century, playing popular and classic selections on all kinds of instruments, which in itself is worth the price of admission, this same act having been seen in the past on big Keith vaudeville programmes.

While vaudeville teams only change once a week as a rule, three complete and different acts will be presented by this organization, changing on Wednesdays and Fridays, as usual.

Dustin Farnum at Grand

Once in a great while comes a photoplay that reaches all hearts. A photoplay that makes a never-to-be forgotten impression. One that is long remembered and by its prestige becomes a tradition of the silent drama. Such an achievement is the Grand Monday.

Dustin Farnum, the Pallas Pictures star, portrays the parson in "The Parson of Panamint," the young lionhearted shepherd of a strange appearing flock,—the friend of the friendless, the broken-hearted, the rough miner and the sodden derelict. To the ones to whom life has been shorn of its pretty adornments and amenities, comes this six-foot stalwart, and his tragic life makes a screen drama that is incomparably fascinating.

Into this part Dustin brings a comprehending compassion and a noble-hearted-tenderness that vividly contrasts with the "fighting bob-cat" spirit that also animates this remarkable role. It is a Dustin Farnum masterpiece.

Besides Dustin Farnum, the great Paramount feature contains many great Paramount stars, including the beautiful Winnifred Kingston, with Howard Davies and Colin Chase.

At the Royal Tomorrow.

Should a wife confess? Should a wife happily married confess to her husband a misstep made in her youth? Should she risk her happiness in this way? That is the question put up to Bessie Barriscale, that greatest of all Triangle stars, in her latest and greatest Triangle triumph, "Not My Sister," in which she is co-star with William Desmond at the Royal tomorrow.

Long, long ago the artist had grievously wronged her, and now he wanted her sister to pose for him as she had done. She couldn't persuade the girl to stay at home, and she dared not tell her husband of the misstep, so daily she went to the studio to protect the younger girl until she had aroused the jealousy of her husband. And then she had to tell him.

"Who Killed William Desmond, the Artist?" He was found on the floor of his studio with a knife in his heart. When the unhappy wife had told her husband of the misstep of her youth he vowed to kill the artist who had wronged her. The next day the newspapers scream his death.

That is the basis for this great photoplay, starring the great Bessie Barriscale in her strongest dramatic role, supported by William Desmond, who will be remembered as co-star with Billie Burke in "Peggy." It's a great drama, one that patron of the theatre should miss.

"Liberty" at Bijou Tomorrow.

The fifth great chapter of the stirring patriotic serial, "Liberty," is only one of the big features for patrons of the Bijou tomorrow. Of course, this would be sufficient in itself to get the crowds, with its gripping action, its stirring and tense scenes and its superb acting by the principals.

Marie Walcamp in the title role of Liberty Horton is one of the most fascinating characters of all filmdom. To do or die, is her motto and she generally does, or has so far, although it seems that the latter will be her lot in almost every chapter of this great serial. Jack Holt, handsome, debonair and strong, is another character around which much action takes place, while Eddie Polo is a tower of strength, both physically and from a point of dramatic acting. It's one of the greatest casts ever assembled, and the fifth great chapter on tomorrow's bill is absolutely the best yet.

Other features include one of those stirring Biograph dramas, "The Sheriff's Trap," a true to life dramatic picture with a great punch, starring Hector Sarno, Jack Mulhall and Isabell Rhea, a stirring Western drama, and also a great Vim comedy feature, "Royal Blood," with those inimitable characters, "Plump and Runt."

GIVE THAT A PEOPLE DIE NOT

On Sunday, October 22, Give for the Dying That They May Live.

(By Talcott Williams, Director, Columbia School of Journalism, New York City.)

The life of a people is laid at the door of America.

The Armenian nation, sufferer and martyr beyond all of our present day, lies near death as a people. Unless and come, the race perishes from the face of the earth.

All woe has come to it. Captivity, pestilence, the sword, starvation. Half are gone. The rest starve and die. For two years, a thousand a day have perished. For miles and leagues of long roads and trails, their bodies lie, men, women and children, dead as they fell. The remnant is in the desert, where no food is, dying by scores, by hundreds, by thousands, by hundreds of thousands.

Driven by the sword from their homes to a long tramp of five to six hundred miles, what the sword spared the desert has slain, what the desert left the pestilence has smitten, and hunger has followed to end a people, scattered, wounded and forsaken. It is as though all the population of Kansas were driven, a headlong, helpless mass all the blood stained way to the Rio Grande, there dying as they searched for food, in a desert of unsown fields, eating of the wild. This Armenian remnant waits American aid as the one hope left.

Europe has its own to aid and cannot succor. No help can come save from America and from the churches of America of every faith and creed.

Give, that these may live. Give, that a people may be saved. Give, that once more these thousands that are left may be fed today and in due season be set in their homes again.

This good work has begun behind the advancing Russian army. Already, homes are rebuilt, the naked clothed, the hungry fed, and plows and seed corn promised for the harvest. Give that this may spread. The plate dotted with change that goes down the aisle will save a family. Small gifts and large will save a nation.

All this applies in full measure to the Syrians. They outnumber the Armenians. They have not suffered such sore persecution as the Armenians, but the privations of hundreds of thousands of them are equally great.

Remember the Sunday, October 22, set apart to this work, to Armenian and Syrian and Persian—to all that suffer, Jew and Gentile, Christian and Moslem. All that need share.

Give lest the blood of those that die, because you gave not, be on your garments. Lest faces you will never see, stiffen in death because you gave not in this day and hour of helpless, hopeless need which cries aloud for your gift to save from the grave.

WANTS HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO MAINTAIN PUBLIC ROADS.

Asheville Motor Club Urges That All Special Motor Taxes ze so Used.

Asheville, N. C., Oct. 14.—There are over a thousand automobile owners in Asheville and the Asheville Motor Club at a recent meeting adopted the following resolution urging that all special State automobile taxes go into the treasury of the State Highway Commission for the purpose of State highway maintenance.

"Whereas, the State of North Carolina has created the North Carolina State Highway Commission to aid the counties in the construction and maintenance of their highways, and

"Whereas, this commission has ever since its organization been doing very efficient work throughout the State, and

"Whereas, the State is levying each year a license tax on automobiles and other motor drawn vehicles using the public roads, now therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Asheville Motor Craig a few days ago in interview penditure of this automobile tax solely for the maintenance of the public highways of the State and that all the automobile taxes should be turned over to the State Highway Commission to be used only for such maintenance."

This plan was endorsed by Governor Craaig a few days ago in an interview with the secretary of the Asheville Motor Club and State Highway Engineer W. S. Fallis.

At present there are far too many varieties of road building and road maintenance methods, almost all bad, and county lines are often easily discernible by reason of the fearfully bad roads, because of the large number of supervisors and various methods of road building and road maintenance in the different counties. With road maintenance in the hands of the State Highway Commission there will be a uniformity which will give good roads throughout the State; good roads started from somewhere and going definitely across townships and counties to another definite place. It is clearly shown that this method will mean 100 cents worth of road maintenance for every dollar expended, which is not the case at present, and better roads for the people in both country and city.

special fund for the purpose of waging a more vigorous campaign for the procurement of one of the Federal Land Banks for Raleigh. It is believed by those in close touch with the situation that this city has the very best prospect for securing one of these institutions.

In rounding out the programme for the session of the Teachers' Assembly to be in progress here November 30 to December 3, it developed that the annual sermon will be preached Thanksgiving morning in the city auditorium, Rev. A. A. McGeachy, of the Second Presbyterian church, Charlotte. Both Governor Craig and Hon. T. W. Bickett, the Democratic nominee, who is sure of the next governorship, will have prominent places on the programme of the Assembly.

What then?
Good teeth.

A soldier may have good feet, good eyesight, and good brains, but if he has bad teeth, he can't eat. If he can't eat he can't march near enough to the enemy to see him and use his brains to fight him.

How does a soldier get good teeth?
By having good teeth in childhood.
How do children keep good teeth?

Through being taught by their mother how to keep their teeth clean and having their teeth looked after while they are growing. This makes good teeth for future soldiers.

It would seem then as though the first patriotic duty of a mother was to keep her children's teeth in good condition.

Should a Wife Confess?

Should a wife happily married, confess to a husband a misstep made in her youth? Should she risk her happiness in this way?

That is the situation confronting Bessie Barriscale, in Her Latest and Greatest Triangle Triumph

"NOT MY SISTER"

Long, long ago, the artist had grievously wronged her and now he wanted her sister to pose for him as she had done. She couldn't persuade the girl to stay at home, and she dared not tell her husband, so daily she went to the studio to protect the younger girl, until she had aroused the jealousy of her husband. And then she HAD to Tell Him! There was a murder—Who did it?

Handsome William Desmond is the Artist; Bessie Barriscale the wife, and beautiful Alice Tuaffe the younger sister.

BUFFALO BILL'S SHOWS ARRIVE THIS MORNING

Will Give Two Performances Tomorrow at 12th and Market.

Trainload of Horses, Buffaloes, Steers, Mexicans, Soldiers and Other Wild West Figures Here Today For Big Show.

The old circus grounds near Twelfth and Market streets will be a busy place today. The Buffalo Bill-101-Ranch shows, concerning which a great deal of preliminary interest has been aroused, will reach the city about 8:30 and during the morning the cars will be unloaded, the wagons, the horses, the buffaloes, the long-horned steers, the Mexicans, the soldiers and all the other interesting people associated with this typical Western show will be established on the lot, and preparations made for entertaining Monday's amusement-loving crowds.

Of course, there will be a big crowd on hand at the A. C. L. railroad yards to see the cars unloaded and also at the grounds to watch the erection of the big arena and other tents and to enjoy the sights and scenes incident to the establishing of the Indian and military camps. The military camp will have an especial interest from the fact that the soldiers are all United States regulars and they live with the show just as they would if they were encamped on the Mexican border. The Indian camp also has its peculiar interest. There are, it is announced, nearly a hundred Indians in this year's aboriginal congress, and they include representatives of the Brule, Uncapapa and Ogalalla Sioux; Crows, Blackfeet, Shoshones and other Western tribes. The Military and Indian camps are said to be always the centre of interest on Sunday—an interest that is shared by the private field tent of Buffalo Bill, who is always in evidence on arrival day.

There are also, it is announced, many other characteristic people who attract attention and create comment. There is the cowboy, with his high-heeled, short-vamp boots and fuzzy "chaps;" there is the cowgirl with her special Sunday ranch costume; there is the Mexican with his inevitable sombrero; and the old plainsman and hunter, still carrying his rifle as though he expected to have to fight "pesky redskins" in the wilds of civilization; there is the Japanese cavalryman in the uniform of the Mikado's army; the Soudanese Arab, a fighter by instinct and choice; the Siberian Cossack, with his diminutive pony and high-pommel saddle—these and their counterparts, a hundred times duplicated, give life and color to the always-animated Sunday picture.

There will be two performances only in this city. The afternoon performance begins at 2:15 and the night one at 8:15. Each will be complete in every way. The big feature announced for the performance is the new military "Preparedness" display, which is expected to prove locally acceptable owing to the sentiment in favor of an adequate defensive army and navy. The use of soldiers from the regular army is a novel feature of the display. There will, it is announced, be a series of military maneuvers, in which cavalry and artillery will be utilized in a strenuous way. Incidentally there will be a reproduction of the Villa raid on Columbus, N. M. The Wild West numbers are also, it is said, of an unusually lively and comprehensive character. Champion ropers, broncho-busters, bull-doggers and other clever people from the Western ranches will be seen in abundance; led in person by Buffalo Bill and Col. Jos. C. Miller.

Buffalo Bill (Col. Wm. F. Cody) will also lead the military and Wild West parade, which will leave the grounds about 10:30 Monday morning and cover the usual downtown route. Seats will be on sale downtown, all day Monday, at Woodall & Sheppard's drug store, and also on the grounds.

THE FEDERAL CHILD LABOR LAW AFFECTS 40 STATES.

Reports That Only Three States Are Below Standard Are Denied.

The report recently circulated that the Federal child labor law will only effect two or three Southern states is denounced at the headquarters of the National Child Labor Committee as another effort to discredit a law which will be far more effective than its enemies care to have it.

"It is true that there are only three states that have not yet adopted the 14-year limit provided for in the federal bill," said Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the National Child Labor Committee, "but it is also true that of the 46 states which have adopted the 14-year limit (including the District of Columbia,) there are 19 which have exemptions to it for cases of poverty, employment in canneries, employment with special permit, etc. Such exemptions will not be permitted under the federal law.

"There are other provisions in the bill beside the 14-year limit, however. The 8-hour day clause for children under 16 will affect 28 states which still permit such children to be employed 9, 10 and 11 hours a day. The prohibition of night work will prevent children under 16 from working at night in 14 states, and the 16-year limit for mines and quarries will eliminate young children from the mines in 19 mining states.

"Only two states—New Mexico and Wyoming—have none of the provisions of the federal law, but on the other hand only nine states have adopted all of the standards. This means that 39 states and the District of Columbia, instead of three states as some of the newspapers have reported, are below the standards of the federal law, and some of these will be affected not only on one count but on several."

Will Never Be Without This Simple Laxative

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Relieved Her Baby When Nothing Else Would

Little Max Pendergrast is now four years old, and a fine healthy boy. When but a tiny baby in fact almost from birth, he suffered a great deal from constipation. His mother, Mrs. Carl W. Pendergrast, Red Key, Ind., heard of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, obtained a bottle of it from the drug store, and with it was able to quickly correct this condition.

Mrs. Pendergrast says Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has saved them from calling the doctor many times, and that she will never be without a bottle of it in the house to use when needed. She found it equally effective as a laxative for herself and other members of the family.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, pleasant to the taste, mild in action, and positive in effect. It does not gripe or strain, and contains no opiate or narcotic drug. It is the ideal family laxative, mild and pleasant for baby, yet acting quickly on the strongest constitution.

To avoid imitations and ineffective substitutes be sure to ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. See that a facsimile of Dr. Caldwell's signature and his portrait appear on the yellow carton in which the bottle is packed. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 455 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

TO SPEAK AT ATKINSON

Hon. R. R. Williams and Congressman Hood Coming October 27.

(Burgaw Chronicle.)

A great Democratic rally is to be held at Atkinson on Friday, October 27th, when Congressman George E. Hood and Hon. R. R. Williams, both of them well known orators, will deliver splendid democratic addresses. Mr. Williams is one of the State's best campaigners; a man who can not only tell Democrats about the great constructive record of our party, but can remind the people of the destructive record of the Republicans in the old North State. Mr. Hood is well known as our present Congressman, a man with the interests of the people at heart, and a speaker of recognized ability.

ANON.

Clemson College, S. C., Oct. 14.—Tennessee triumphed over Clemson here today by a score of 14 to 0. The game stood zero to zero until the latter part of the fourth quarter, then Tennessee, after losing on downs and being penalized when within one yard of the goal, finally succeeded in putting two touchdowns over in rapid succession.

TO RESTORATION OF EUROPE

Dr. Fried Thinks Pan-European Union Like Pan-American Union Essential.

After the European war is over, then what? What is to be done to regenerate and to reconstruct that torn and broken continent? To answer such questions Dr. Alfred R. Fried, the eminent Austrian pacifist, has written a very thoughtful little book, the English translation of which has recently come from the press. It is entitled: "The Restoration of Europe," and in it the author suggests what he regards as a feasible and practical scheme of community organization.

Dr. Fried is the editor of the well-known pacifist organ, "Die Friedenswarte," published in Zurich, Switzerland, and in 1911 was awarded the Nobel peace prize for his admirable work in the cause. He is the author of some sixty odd works dealing with the peace movement and the founder of the German Peace Society of Berlin. His book, as might be expected, is written from a pacifist viewpoint. Of special interest to the Americas, however, is the fact that he sees in the Pan-American union the model for the proposed Pan-European Union, which he deems essential to the restoration of that continent. He develops his idea in the sixth chapter of his book in part as follows:

"In the previous chapter we saw under what conditions the organization of Europe might be extended. Attention was called to the fact that no artificial construction was to be considered, but rather the development of the germs of organization already at hand. Europe must grow into the new community, just as in the past it grew into anarchy. The old historic units must be combined, not as parts of a federation, but rather as independent members of a great union created for a specific purpose is to promote the association of phenomenon, but it would be false to assume that the organization which is to supersede it must therefore be of a political nature. On the contrary, experience demonstrates that political unions such as our present-day alliances, finally lead to war. If our purpose is to promote the association of states for the furtherance of their numerous non-political common interests, we shall meet less opposition than if we attempt simultaneously to organize them politically. In the long run a close association in economic, technical, social, and ideal fields will inevitably make itself felt in political relations as well. Following the line of least resistance, there will eventually be a complete form of international organization.

"The creation of such a co-operative union would not be without precedent. Such sphere in the Pan-American union which, rather than the constitutional form of the United States, is adapted to serve as a model for the new European union. Eighteen American republics met in 1889 in the First Pan-American Conference. This continental congress has met four times. The Pan-American union led to the establishment in Washington of the Pan-American bureau, which is supported by the 21 republics. The administrative board of this international bureau is composed of the accredited diplomatic representatives in Washington of the various American republics, and the Secretary of State of the United States presides."

The author then outlines the activities of the Pan-American union, the many important matters which come up for discussion and action before the periodical conferences, and the especial attention paid to the promotion of international intercourse, encouragement of trade, and the dissemination of information of every kind among the different countries composing the union. He comments as follows:

"It will occasion no surprise that Pan-Americanism, despite its purely economic and social program, has reacted upon political life as well. Years of peaceful co-operation between nations and their representatives strengthen confidence, engender a habit of mind which does not presuppose hostile intentions in one's neighbors, and in critical issues re-enforces the determination to let rational considerations decide. Arbitration and mediation have reached their highest development on the American continents. The peaceful co-operative union expedites peaceful settlement of such disputes as inevitably arise. Pan-Americanism is not only a model for Europe; it is a warning, as well. A continent so organized will only too easily win precedence over divided Europe. If that disorganization which has led to war should continue after the war, the danger of the associated States of Pan-America outstripping Europe will be far greater. Europe will lag behind America because of its disorganization, and also because of its exhaustion. Hence a co-operative union must be formed, that a united Europe may meet that united continent across the ocean, not for attack, but to make further co-operation possible."

An estimate of the organization of the Pan-American Union such as this, by an entirely disinterested economist and thinker, speaks well for the wisdom and forethought of those who founded and have maintained such an organization and is an indication that its work has attracted world-wide attention.

COTTON PRICES UNSETTLED

Market Nervous and Irregular, With the Close at Loss of One Point to Gain of 4 Points.

New York, Oct. 14.—The cotton market was rather nervous and irregular this morning, an opening advance being followed by reactions with January selling off from 17.65 to 17.47 and closing at 17.51. The general list closed steady, net 1 point lower to 4 points higher, December being relatively easy.

The opening was steady at an advance of 11 to 15 points. Realizing, however, was very heavy and prices soon turned easier with December leading the decline. December delivery sold off from 17.70 to 17.51 or 7 points nte lower while later months sold about 2 to 3 points net lower during the middle of the morning. Around the 17 1-2 cent level for winter positions, demand improved somewhat and fluctuations later in the morning were irregular with the close showing rallies of 4 or 5 points from the lowest.

COTTON SEED OIL MARKET.

New York, Oct. 14.—The cotton seed oil market was irregular with an evening up trade. The October position sold at the highest price on record, while the late months were easier under profit taking. Closing prices were at the low of the day, prices ranging from 5 to 19 points net lower. Sales 18,800 barrels.

The market closed easier. Spot 12.25 bid; October 12.10 to 12.24; November 11.75 to 11.77; December and January 11.60 to 11.61; February, 11.62 to 11.65; March 11.66 to 11.67; April 11.68 to 11.74; May 1.74 to 1.76.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Hogs, weak, 15c under yesterday's average; bulk 9.40 to 9.95; light 9.10 to 9.95; mixed 9.20 to 10.10; heavy 9.10 to 9.95; rough 9.10 to 9.30; pigs 6.75 to 8.90.

Cattle—Weak; native beef cattle 6.60 to 11.10; Western steers 6.15 to 9.30; stockers 4.75 to 7.75; cows and heifers 3.50 to 9.80; calves 7.25 to 11.50.

Sheep—Steady; wethers 6.60 to 8.25; ewes 3.65 to 7.35; lambs 7.75 to 10.40.

WEEK'S BANK STATEMENT.

New York, Oct. 14.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $68,914,410 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $13,641,070 from last week.

HOLIDAY IN LIVERPOOL.

Liverpool, Oct. 14.—Holiday on the cotton exchange today.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Trading Confined Chiefly to Evening Up—Gain of 3 to 6 Points.

New Orleans, Oct. 14.—Trading was small in volume and confined chiefly to evening up over Sunday, while fluctuations were narrow on the local cotton market today. The tone was steady. In the early trading prices advanced 10 points, after which they fell off under realizing sales until the most active months were 1 to 2 points under yesterday's final figures. The close was at a net gain of 3 to 6 points.

While consumption of cotton among domestic mills compared more than favorably with consumption during September last year and while the number of active spindles broke all records, there was some disappointments manifested because consumption showed a small falling off compared with August. This held fresh buying down to small proportions.

Closing: October 16.82; December 17.07; January 17.15; March 17.37; May 17.56.

Spot cotton steady, 31 points up, sales on the spot 1,260; to arrive 3,590. Middling 16.81.

WHEAT MARKET UNEASY

Fears of Probable Resumption of U-Boat Activities Over Sunday Have Bearish Effect.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Uneasiness over prospects of submarine activities between now and Monday had a bearish effect today on wheat. The outcome was an unsettled close with December 1.57 3-8; May 1.57 1-8 to 1.57 3-8, and the market as a whole 7-8 off to 1-8c up, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn lost 1-8 to 1-4 and oats 3-8 to 1-2. Provisions closed at a range which varied from 60c decline to a rise of 2 1-2c.

Grain and Provisions closed:

Wheat—December 1.57 3-8; May 1.57 1-8

Corn—December 76 3-4; May 78 1-2.

STOCKS VERY IRREGULAR

Quotations Made With Under Current of Caution—U. S. Steel and Other Issues Under Restraint.

New York, Oct. 14.—An under current of caution pervaded today's stock market operations, the two hour session being attended by considerable irregularity. The leader, United States Steel, showed decided restraint with allied industrials. Bethlehem Steel yielded eight points, with one to three for Republican Iron and Steel, Colorado Fuel, Industrial Alcohol, New York Airbrake, and some of the leading motors. Shipping stocks were strong, especially Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, which made an extreme addition of almost three points to yesterday's advance. Gas shares were again active and higher, though losing much of their advantage in the later dealings.

Coppers failed to respond to reports of addition foreign orders for delivery early in 1917 at not less than 28 cents a pound.

Bonds also developed an easier trend on light demand, total sales (par value) $2,260,000.

United States and Panama bonds advanced 1-2 to 3-4 of one per cent. on call during the week.

COTTON GOODS REVIEW

Further Advances in Gray and Colored Lines—Market Strong.

New York, Oct. 14.—Cotton goods market continue very strong with further advances reported on both gray and colored lines. For a time on Monday following the submarine developments trade was at a standstill but it recovered quickly on Tuesday and Wednesday, large buying being reported for nearby and future delivery. Bleached muslins, printcloths and convertibles, cotton duck and many fine cloths were advanced again. New England mills are now threatened with new demands for wage advances and scarcity of labor continues to restrict the output, even where record wages are paid.

Jobbers report the largest advance business booked by retailers ever known and the current trade is active. The presence of many jobbers in the primary markets is noted, their purpose being to hasten along deliveries and place further contracts.

Prices current are as follows: 28 inch 64x64s 5 1-4c; 64x60s, 5c; 38 1-2 inch 64x64s, 7 1-2s; brown sheetings, Southern standards 10 3-4c; denims 2.20s indigo, 19c nominal; tickings 8 ounce 17 1-2c; prints 7 1-4c; staple ginghams 8 1-2c; dress ginghams 11 -2c.

THE WHY OF ABBREVIATIONS

"Z" in Viz. and Oz. Originally Was Merely a Sign.

Do you know why we write these everyday signs and what their origins are? Viz. is derived from the first two letters of the Latin word "videlicet," meaning "namely." The z is a corruption of an ancient sign something like a 3 that in the Middle Ages was always placed at the end of an abbreviated word to mark its incompletion.

In the course of time this sign became z. The name applies to oz., our abbreviation for ounce.

The letters lb., standing for pounds, in weight are the first and third letters of the Latin word "libræ." Cwt. (hundredweight) and dwt. (pennyweight) are also abbreviations of Latin numeral for a hundred; the d the initial leter of denarius (penny), and the wt. is short for the word weight.

The f. s. d. are the first letters of the Latin words "libræ," "solidi" and "denarili," meaning pounds, shillings and pence.

DUTCH FISHING AGAIN RESUMED IN NORTH SEA

Fishermen Celebrate Agreement With Great Britain.

Fishing Smacks Which Had Been Seized Are Released—Twenty Per Cent of the Catches Can Be Sold to Germany.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)

Scheveningen, Netherlands, Sept. 30.—Flags are flying from fishermen's homes all along the Dutch coast in celebration of the agreement arrived at with Great Britain on the herring fishery question.

When England's blockading warships some months ago began to take the squat Dutch smacks and luggers into British ports, on the ground that ninety per cent of their catches was presumably destined for Germany, popular resentment in Holland rose to a high pitch. Fishing in the North Sea for a tim epractically came to a standstill.

The relief felt at the solution of the difficulty is great. The hundred or so detained craft have already been released by the British authorities, and the entire Dutch fishing fleet of over a thousand vessels is to be entirely free to again carry on its operations in the North Sea—always with the exception of the "forbidden zone."

Britain's conditions, stipulated with the Dutch fishing interests—the Netherlands government had nothing to do with the negotiations—are that from September 1 until the end of the war the catches shall be placed on the open market as heretofore, but that not more than 20 per cent thereof shall be sold to Germany. Home consumption will take another 20 per cent while England reserves the option to purchase a further 20 per cent, at prices ruling for Dutch buyers. The remaining 40 per cent may be disposed of to an yand all countries not at war with Great Britain, and the British authordities bind themselves to pay the substantial subsidy of 30 shillings per barrel of 115 kilograms thus sold, to compensate for the higher prices that might have been obtained from Germany, reserving the right to do this in treasury notes of a year's term. Further, the owners whose ships were taken in are compensated for any damage incurred to nets and boats during such operation, while permission is again given to draw from England all the nets and other fishing gear required.

One of the indirect results of this settlement is that the Dutch hope to recapture the American market for Dutch salted herring—which had been lost to them owing to the fancy prices which German bidding had created. Before the war the United States was, next to Germany, the best customer, taking 14,517 tons of herring in 1913. In 1915 American herring imports from Holland had dropped to 1,593 tons, and during the first seven months of 1916, only eight tons of Dutch herring found their way across the Atlantic.

German buying competition will now be excluded so far as 80 per cent of the catches is concerned, and it is hoped that the British subsidy, which is something like the entire value of the product in normal times, will enable dealers to find a big overseas market at moderate prices despite the high freight rates. It should, however, be added that outward freights have not risen in anything like the same proportion as those to Europe. In fact, almost half of the ships sailing from Dutch ports to trans-Atlantic destinations are in ballast.

Leading fishery interests in this country estimate that from now on until the end of the herring fishing season, some 20,000 tons of salted herring will be shipped to America under this arrangement. This is figured on a basis of 30 to 35 per cent of an estimated total catch of half a million barrels.

As regards the fresh sea fish branch of the fisheries, a separate agreement has been concluded, by which 30 per cent of the catches is to be reserved for home consumption, and of the remaining 70 per cent half will go to Britain and half to Germany. The British dealers will buy in the open market in competition with the German, but certain maximum prices have been fixed in the case of this fresh fish, any margin above which will be made good to them by the fishing craft owners.

Judging from the ract that 145,000 tons of salted herring and fresh sea fish was exported to Germany last year by the foregoing ingenius compromise, Britain will manage to intercept over 100,000 tons of fish food a year that previously went to help provisioning the besieged Central Powers.

old-timers, now 73 years old, and during show season his time is spent in his cozy little office in the bill car when he is not out attending to his duties. He has been everywhere, and that part of the world re hasn't seen isn't worth seeing. It is seldom that one meets a person of the traveling experience and knowledge of Major Burke, hence the greater pleasure.

Next Tuesday morning between midnight and day the big show is expected to arrive in Lumberton. Never before has any one show put up so much paper and if advertising counts for anything the crowd will be here. The organization here known as the "Copper Kings" will show wisdom by keeping a safe distance from that $5,000 saddle, which one of the owners of the show rides. You can gaze at the gold, diamonds and rubies, but touch not, as special plainclothesmen are looking out for you. Your own big chief will be on the job looking after other folks.

Last Sunday's Star contained a communication from this place relative to the high cost of living and the stock law. After trying it for several years we will bet a year's subscription to the weekly Star that the farmers of Robeson county are more unanimously in favor of the stock law than any other measure affecting them, unless it is higher prices for their products.

Light Frost at Lumberton.

Light frosts have occurred here three mornings this week, but we have heard of no damage, though it is not the time of year for vegetation to stop growing.

The Palace Market, another fresh meat venture, has been opened in the Saleeby building. Mr. Hunds, for several years in the fresh meat business, has reminded us that, although everything has gone up, the best steak has remained at 20 cents for the past five years.

Two or three boys spent last Sunday night away from home when their mothers thought that they were spending the night together at the homes of each other. Early Sunday night a long freight train passed through Lumberton for Wilmington, carrying empty as well as loaded cars. Five boys were at the station and two of them proposed that they ride to Wilmington in an empty car. The larger two boys helped the three smaller into the car but instead of getting in with them, closed the door and sure enough let the little fellows go. They managed to get out down about Clarkton and in some way returned home next day, much wiser, it is hoped.

Community Fair.

A Community Fair will be held at Philadelphus on Friday, November 3rd. That is going to be a great day for that section, and numbers of people will be there from all sections of Robeson and visitors are expected from other nearby counties. The Community Fair will be held under the auspices of the high and farm life school, of which the whole community is justly proud. The Star man has received a pressing invitation and hopes to be there.

Superior court closed Tuesday evening after being in session eight days of a two-weeks term. Next court, which will be a criminal term, should convene Monday, November 6th, but there will probably be no court until the 8th, on account of the election, which will be held on the 7th.

The first of a series of lyceum attractions, under the auspices of the Civic League, was given at the opera house Thursday night. This attraction was composed of two ladies, a reader and a harpist. The small audience seemed to enjoy the programme immensely. The next number will be given October 31st.

Light and Water Rates.

A meeting was held in the court house Tuesday night by a number of interested citizens, to discuss the light and water rates, recently adopted by the town commissioners. There was considerable talk, so it is said, but it really amounted to very little after all. Those present had for the most part done very little figuring, but had been listening to the talk of experts. It is rumored that a number found out by using figures a little that they had not been stung after all. The mayor and commissioners, at least most of them, admit a mistake, which will be corrected. Seven other men cannot be found in Lumberton who have the interests of the people more at heart than Mayor White and the commissioners. Of course, we expect this to be disputed, but we believe it just the same. All of us say things at times that we are sorry for later, and many things have been said in this instance that would not be repeated if they could be recalled. Those who are prone to fine so much fault, should honor the town board some nights with their presence when it is battling until midnight with questions pertaining to the best interests of the town. If they would do that, they would be better posted on town affairs and could better engage in a curbstone argument.

In front of the McMillan drug store the other night, one gentleman forgot himself, and in speaking of one of the commissioners, used language that would have kept him from kissing his best girl that night, if she had got a whiff of his breath before hand. Essence of pole-cat flavor would have perfumed the essence of a May rose compared to that young man's breath. All this stuff about the Mayor ruling the commissioners as he pleases is the commonest kind of rot. He could not do it, even if he desired, which he has certainly not shown that he has. A committee will undertake to figure out a rate that will please every light and water consumer in town, but they are expected to report some time during the next 100 years.

Last night shortly before 10 o'clock, the police received a nurry phone call to quell a row down on Second street, near Walnut, the participants being a man and his wife. The Mayor was phoned for, and he with Chief of Police Boyle hurried to the scene. A family row was made public by the parties repairing to the street where they could have more room to engage in a boxing match, the blows from which is alleged to have brought forth some of the vilest, most disgraceful language ever heard in this section. The law-abiding people in that community are of the opinion that they have been disturbed long enough, and if there is any law to fit the case, they are going to have it. It is going to be put up to those in authority to do something.

Death of Mr. T. V. Terrell.

Prof. and Mrs. R. E. Sentelle left last night for Asheville to attend the funeral of Mrs. Sentelle's brother, Mr. T. V. Terrell, who died as the resul: of injuries received in an automobile accident a few days ago.

The recital given last night at the Pastime Theatre by Miss Irene McLeod's elocution class of the High School, was a great and pleasant surprise to the large audience. Miss McLeod has been instructing her class only four weeks and the manner in which all the students acquitted themselves is truly remarkable. The applause could not have been greater if the class had been in training for a year. If our parents, after what they saw and heard last night, don't give their children the advantage of the opportunity now offered in this particular branch of education they will not be treating them right. The ability of Miss McLeod as an instructor was fully demonstrated last night.

Mr. J. A. Barker, who for the past few years has been manager of the Wilmington district for the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, has resigned that position to take a better one. Mr. Barker and Mr. A. W. Peace, formerly cashier of the Bank of Lumberton, will be associated in the insurance business and will be State managers for the Fidelity Mutual Company, of Philadelphia, with headquarters in Fayetteville, where Mr. Peace now resides. These two gentlemen are too well known to our people to need any introduction. They will assuredly do their part of the insurance business.

Cotton Crop Shorter.

As the season advances, the cotton crop seems to grow distressingly less. We heard one farmer say this morning that he had 40 acres in fine cotton weed, but that he had no idea of more than 12 or 13 bales at best. Another did not expect to get more than a bale from 17 acres; still another stated that he had 20 bales which he would dispose of as soon as the price reached 20 cents. Another said that he had 175 bales that he had been holding for two years, and that he thought he would sell it at 20 cents but was not sure.

Three automobiles passed here this week bearing Ohio tags, the numbers being 151,674, 151,675, and 151,676. They belonged to a show and are being used for advertising in the country. W.S.W.

DISCUSS NEW COINAGE SYSTEM FOR ENGLAND

Would be Patterned After That in Use in United States.

It Has Also Been Suggested That After the War a Metric System of Weights and Measures Be Put Into Effect.

(Correspondence of Associated Press).

London, Sept. 20.—The suggestion that Great Britain shall adopt after the war a decimal system of coinage patterned after that in use in the United States is receiving earnest consideration. There is recurring discussion also of adopting a metric system of weights and measures.

It is pointed out, however, that there are manifold difficulties connected with metric weights and measures which do not apply in any way to the proposed American plan of coinage. The latter change would be made with a minimum of disturbance and probably with the acquiescence of just those classes who in the past have been the chief objectors to various plans proposed.

The poor man in the street generally has the deciding voice in changes of this kind and he must be educated with patience and logical argument. He objected to abolishing the Gregorian Calendar on the ground that it would in some way or other rob him of a certain number of lost days. He protested against turning up the clock an hour on the theory that it was a scheme to make hm work an hour longer each day.

It is realized here that any proposed coinage change having the appearance of even a nominal impoverishment of the poor would be doomed at the start despite all arguments as to the simplification of financial arithmetic, both as to the mental process of making small change as well as in the larger field of commercial bookkeeping.

The plan to adopt the American standard fortunately has the appearance of really enhancing the values of small coins to the extent of one cent in each shilling. This is how it would work out:

One pound, or sovereign, would become five dollars. The ten shilling note would be issued as $2.50; the four shilling piece or double florin would become one dollar, the two shilling or florin would become 50 cents, the shilling a quarter, and the penny would equal two cents and the half penny would be called one cent.

If the pound sterling, or sovereign should remain the standing British unit rather than the dollar, it is proposed that such notes and coins should have the double designation stamped thereon, the pound being marked as such on one side and as $5.00 on the reverse face.

As to saving money for the poor it is pointed out that under this system all half-penny articles could be bought for 1-500th of the standard gold coin instead of 1-580th as at present and prices would to that extent be scaled down. Another argument in favor of the dollar decimal system is that it would standardize the coinage between Great Britain and Canada, her fireat colony.

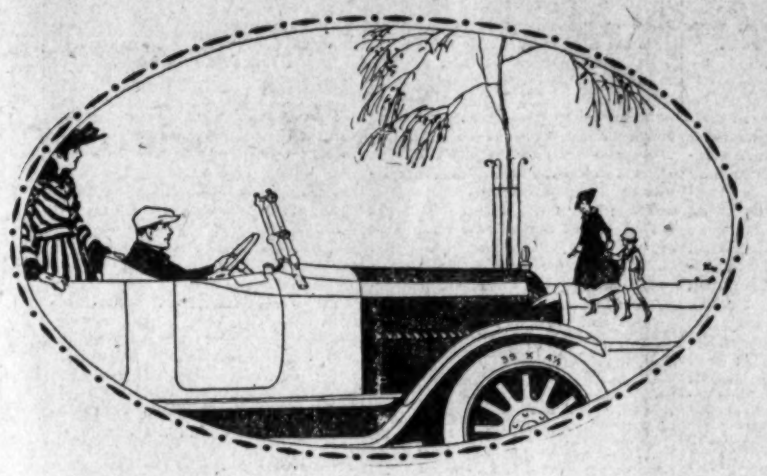
PAIGE
The Standard of Value and Quality



Prompt Action Will Save You Money

It is now only a matter of a few weeks before the price of the Fairfield "Six-46" will be substantially increased.

As every business man knows, the costs of materials and labor have been soaring for the past year—and are still soaring. Many commodities cost twice as much as they did even six months ago.

So, of course, there is only one thing for a manufacturer to do—increase the selling price of his product in proportion to the increased cost of materials.

We absolutely refuse to "compromise" on the quality of Paige cars. We insist upon using the best materials no matter what they may cost.

So, now is the time to act if you are interested in saving money. The best of all light sixes can now be purchased for $1375. If you wait too long, the opportunity will be gone.

Remember, the Paige Company challenges any manufacturer in the industry to produce a car—within three hundred dollars of the Paige price—which offers as much luxury, comfort and all around dependability as the Fairfield "Six-46." This challenge stands uncontested.
